'DROP ROOSEVELT': AL SMITH

FOES OF ITALY MAD WITH HEAT, MUSSOLINI SAYS

Declares Army Able to Best Rivals.

ROME, June 21.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini declared today Italy could take care of those nations which are "crazy with the heat."

Addressing the colorful Bersaglieri troops in the Venezia square, Il Duce asserted he knows "what the armed forces of all Italians can do if those who have been called crazy with the heat will not be brought back to reason or at least reduced to impotence."

His phrase, "crazy with the heat," echoed that of the press recently in referring to ultrasanctionists who demand a continuance of sanctions.

100th Year of Troops.

The Bersaglieri soldiers, wearing black hats with drooping rooster feathers, celebrated the 100th anniversary of their formation and honored the memory of King Carlo Alberto of Sardinia.

"Victory is all ours, only ours and indisputably ours," Mussolini told the troops with whom he fought in the world war, in which he was wounded.

"I who lived with you in time of peace and fought with you in time of war know what you have given," he continued. "I know your courage, power and resistance."

He then demanded: "At the beginning of the second century do you hereby take an oath that the second century will be still richer in glory than the first?"

A great shout of "Si!" [yes] roared in reply.

Pass in Review on Run.

Previously Il Duce reviewed the Bersaglieri marching from the Pia gate, through which they broke in 1870 and took Rome from the pope, to the Quirinal palace to cheer King Victor Emmanuel, then to the Venezia palace.

Il Duce stood in front of the war department and watched them pass on the run, a Bersaglieri custom. At their head was the gray-bearded Marshal Emilio de Bono, in command in Africa at the beginning of the Ethiopian war. He was cheered wildly by the crowd.

Reach Mediterranean Accord.

Great Britain and Italy have reached an agreement in principle on the main points of a Mediterranean military accord, army circles said today.

This projected accord was a powerful inducement leading Great Britain to the decision to lift sanctions, these sources added, and was one of the main reasons for an improvement in relations between the two countries.

Main points of the proposed agreement regulating British and Italian sea, air and land forces in the Mediterranean are:

1. British naval supremacy remains assured. The Italian fleet would be divided into three large units or squadrons, only one of which would be stationed near waters that might interest Britain, the other two in the upper Adriatic.

2. Italy would have the superior air position. She would keep permanently about 100 planes in Libya and another 100 would be divided between Sicily and the Aegean islands.

3. Land forces in Egypt and Libya would be limited to 75,000 men by each country, of which one-third would be motorized.

4. The British may fortify Cyprus and Alexandria in addition to Malta.

Britain to State Proposal.

MONTREAUX, Switzerland, June 21.—(AP)—The British delegation at an international conference opening here tomorrow reported tonight it intends to propose a mutual assistance Mediterranean pact, and it was believed the plan provides for Italy's participation.

Ostensibly the meeting is to discuss Turkey's request to fortify the Dardanelles, but officials said it will be turned into a general discussion of military and naval problems of the Mediterranean.

They believed the British proposal would be a permanent, amended form of the mutual assistance pact which Britain arranged with France, Jugo-Slavia, Greece, and Turkey against Italy under the régime of sanctions. The new form would add Italy to the list of other powers. A spokesman for the French delegation informed the Associated Press that

THREE NORTH SHORE WOMEN INJURED IN AUTO CRASH IN EAST

Three women, residents of north shore suburbs, were injured last evening when the automobile in which they were driving to Lake Placid, N. Y., to attend the Delta Gamma national sorority convention, collided with another car near Tupper Lake, N. Y.

The victims are Mrs. J. Ralph Wilbur, 1224 Maple street, Evanston; Mrs. Edward C. Hildreth, 2006 Beechwood avenue, Wilmette, and Mrs. Ralph E. Stoetzel, 245 Park avenue, Glencoe. At the Mercy hospital in Tupper Lake it was said that Mrs. Wilbur had suffered a fractured thigh and possibly a fractured skull. Her condition was regarded as critical. Mrs. Stoetzel and Mrs. Hildreth were suffering from shock and cuts.

Mrs. Wilbur is a past national president of Delta Gamma, and Mrs. Stoetzel and Mrs. Hildreth have been active in alumnæ affairs of the organization on the north shore. They left Chicago in Mrs. Stoetzel's car. Police Chief J. Edward Timmons of Tupper Lake announced that Alfred Claire, the driver of the other car in the crash, would be held.

HERO OF VERDUN URGES FRANCE TO DROP WAR HATES

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, June 21.—Speaking at Verdun today on the twentieth anniversary of its deliverance, in which he was the principal savior, Marshal Henri Philippe Petain said:

"Our relations with Germany dominate all our thoughts still, and perhaps the memories of the war are too recent to permit an unqualified friendship. Yet there is surely no reason why two peoples of such wide culture should not discover a road toward agreement without having to abandon anything of their national traditions.

"Can we not hold out our hands to each other even across this locked door?"

Wooden Legged Serenader Shot 20 Times, in Good Leg

Baltimore, Md., June 21.—[Special.]—Amos Higgs, 48 years old, who has a wooden leg, serenaded a neighbor with a mouth organ early in the morning. Today Higgs is in St. Agnes hospital, where physicians picked twenty shotgun pellets from his sound leg. Joseph W. Curry, 41, confessed to the shooting and was held in $1,000 bail. Curry told the magistrate he ordered Higgs and two companions, who were assisting vocally, "Go away, or I'll shoot." Curry said the serenaders dared him to shoot.

Japan Marches 3,000 Troops Into Peiping

PEIPING, China, June 21.—(AP)—Foreign residents of Peiping were startled today when 3,000 Japanese troops with full war equipment suddenly entered the city and paraded through the legation quarter, past the American and foreign embassies.

The appearance of the Japanese resulted in the wildest speculation among Chinese. Many believed the Japanese were taking over Peiping. Not since the Boxer rebellion in 1900 have so many foreign soldiers entered the ancient former capital of China.

Japanese sentries, with bayonets drawn, faced residences on the streets lined with curious to prevent the possible throwing of bombs at the troops.

Japanese officers declined to explain the unprecedented influx of troops but it was learned elsewhere the soldiers were from nearby Tungchow and Fengtai and are joining the Peiping garrison.

Jap Vessel Fired On.

TIENTSIN, China, June 21.—(AP)—Japanese reports tonight said a Chinese customs cruiser equipped with machine guns fired on a Japanese vessel off Tangku, wounding two of the crew and damaging the vessel.

The target vessel was towed to Tangku, where the Japanese are investigating, the reports added. Japanese said the firing was illegal and predicted the incident would lead to complications.

Fear Civil War Near.

AIR LINER HINDENBURG REACHES LAKEHURST ON THIRD TRIP TO U. S.

Lakehurst, N. J., June 22 [Monday].—(AP)—The dirigible Hindenburg passed over the naval air station hangar today at 3:40 a. m. [Chicago daylight time] and advised officials it would dock shortly before 5 a. m.

Aboard are forty-one passengers and three guest observers of the United States navy, who left with her on May 20 last and have since made a round trip voyage to South America from Frankfort-on-Main, Germany. She carries a crew of fifty-four officers and men on this, her third westbound voyage.

REACHES PHONE, DROPS; PARROT'S CALLS BRING AID

Polly, a parrot belonging to Mrs. Ethel Green, 29 years old, 2231 Asbury avenue, Evanston, was instrumental in saving the life of her mistress early yesterday when Mrs. Green was partly overcome in her second floor bedroom by fumes from a basement pipe. She staggered to the first floor, let her two chow dogs out of the house, and turned to the telephone to call for help. She managed to lift the receiver and give one weak call, then collapsed.

The parrot, which is not caged, flew to the telephone stand and in a shrill voice repeated her mistress' cry. The operator heard the parrot and notified the Public Service company. A rescue squad found Mrs. Green unconscious and revived her. She is the wife of W. E. Green, an official of the Walgreen company, and was alone in the house.

There he and two associates will obtain pituitary glands of the giant mammals for research work. Dr. Robert Walmsley, anatomist at the University of Edinburgh, and Lewis L. 3D PARTY CASTS SHADOWS OVER PLATFORM TALK

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—The third party movement appeared today to cast its shadow over the platform-making preliminaries of the Democratic national convention which opens Tuesday. Interest was suddenly centered upon the farm plank and what it may contain as an argument to the "typical prairie states," as Postmaster General-National Chairman James A. Farley termed them, where the corn-hog checks have been falling thickest.

Mr. Farley himself, national chairman, in his press interview today declared he had not talked with Washington about the third party. He said he knew of no contemplated adjustments of the tentative platform to meet the threat of a third party—"there's no reason for it," he declared.

Among incoming delegates, however, there was plenty of talk and suggestions that in its final form one part of the agricultural plank might be in the nature of a counteraction to the party candidacy of Congressman William Lemke of North Dakota, especially in some of the northwest states.

Wagner in Washington.

Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York, who is to be chairman of the resolutions, or platform, committee, was still in Washington. The tentative draft of the platform was said to have been polished up and the conjecture was it was being perused at the White House.

North Dakota, home of Lemke, was the cradle of some of the government in business ideas which the New Deal has been putting into practice, and Lemke was a leaguer, as was Senator Frazier, co-author with him of the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage act. Incoming Democrats popped up in the hotel corridors with apprehensions that although Lemke might not be going anywhere himself as a candidate, still he might draw votes enough to throw a few electoral votes one way or the other to the Republican or Democratic ticket. They have been fertile with suggestions all day that, whatever shape the present draft of the platform is, it might be modified with a view of spiking the Lemke farm argument.

Roosevelt to Have Say.

Whatever may or may not be done on this, the general conclusion among the Democrats here is that President Roosevelt will have the say, and whatever form the farm plank takes it will be shaped to his ideas.

As to the platform making, which is expected to be one of the most interesting phases of the convention, the nomination being cut and dried, some have been saying cynically that the 1932 platform is still a perfectly good one and not much worn. Some time before his death last month, A. Mitchell Palmer, former attorney general, who, it is recalled, made a rough draft of the platform four years ago and carried it to Chicago, held a conference with administration leaders in Washington. It was reported that his advice was: "The best thing would be to re-adopt the 1932 platform. The party could not improve on it."

Mr. Farley, in one of his press interviews took the view that the administration, starting with repeal, had lived pretty well up to the platform of four years ago.

Sees Pledges Carried Out.

"I think the pledges of the 1932 platform have been carried out by the administration to a greater degree than has any other party platform in eighteen years," said Mr. Farley.

A few smiles of incredulity appeared among the reporters.

"I mean that seriously. "I'm not kidding," remarked Mr. Farley.

Actions of congress in the final hours of its session which wound up after midnight last night were widely discussed in the light of how they might affect the platform making. The Guffey coal regulation bill was killed by a senate filibuster led by Senator Rush Holt of West Virginia, a Democrat.

The Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage bill went to a vote in the senate and was defeated, 34 to 17. The adminis-

"BE AMERICANS!" DELEGATES URGED BY 5 DEMOCRATS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—The text of the appeal to delegates to the Democratic national convention issued this afternoon by Alfred E. Smith, former Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, Bainbridge Colby, and Daniel F. Cohalan, former judge of New York, follows:

"To the delegates to the national Democratic convention of 1936:

"As men who believe in the principles, teachings, and traditions of the Democratic party as they were personified by Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, and Grover Cleveland, we urge you, who meet in the name of the party made glorious in the minds of patriotic Americans by the records of those men, to emulate their examples and do in the present grave crisis, confronting our country, what those great leaders would have done under such conditions.

"Subordinate Partisanship."

"We suggest to you, as all of these men were conspicuous for courage and character, that they would subordinate partisanship to patriotism; look with an eye single to the welfare of the country and its citizens; act in the manner best calculated to preserve the institutions under which we became the first nation of the world and gave to our citizens a measure of comfort and a standard of living wages incomparably higher than those enjoyed in any other land.

"We submit therefore that—if you are to continue to act under the name of the Democratic party—you must first, be American rather than anything else; you must take the heavy hand of government off of business, to the end that the ten or twelve millions of unemployed may again join the ranks of workers employed in the factories, industries, and on the farms of the country.

Asks End of Deficits.

"You must put in power men under American policies of government who will balance our budget and put an end to the series of deficits measured in billions which the present administration has given to us; you must have a government which will make and enforce laws that will keep the American markets for the American industries and farms and not have them swamped by the goods and products of nations that are our industrial and farming rivals and competitors.

"In chasing the shadow of foreign markets we must not throw away the substance of the greatest market in the world—the domestic market of the United States of America.

"You must put an end to the orgy of spending our public funds and the creating of millions of additional tax-eaters who are breaking the backs of the honest majority of our countrymen and women, who still toil and save as did their parents before them.

End of Dole Demanded.

"You must do away with conditions under which twenty millions of

END NEW DEAL RULE, PLEA OF CONSERVATIVES

Five Hint of Bolt to Gov. Landon.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—Former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, candidate for President in 1928, and four other conservative Democratic leaders, dropped a verbal bombshell today into the ranks of the Democrats arriving for their national convention, which opens here on Tuesday.

They addressed a telegram to the convention delegates urging them to repudiate the New Deal, refuse to renominate President Roosevelt and name in his stead a "genuine Democrat."

They challenged the New Dealers to renounce the name of the Democratic party as one to which they are not honestly entitled and to form a new party advocating a "regimented state" under the New Deal banner.

Charge Attempt to Buy Office.

They served notice in thinly veiled terms that if the convention cleaves to the New Deal and renominates Mr. Roosevelt, they will lead a party bolt and rally all conservative Democrats to vote the Republican ticket outright.

"We hope for the best and call upon you," said the appeal, "to stand for Democratic principles so that the coming contest may be between two great American groups, which have honest differences of opinion, within the framework of the constitution.

"If you do, you will deserve success and honor—no matter what may be the outcome of the campaign. For in any case American institutions will be safe.

"Faithful to Country."

"If you fail, then Democratic voters of all parties will know unhesitatingly to what standard they must rally in order to preserve the America of the great leaders of the past."

In addition to former Gov. Smith, the signers of the telegram were former Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby, former Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri and former Judge Daniel F. Cohalan of New York.

"We beg to subscribe ourselves as men who will remain faithful to Democratic ideals and traditions, as well as to our country," they ended their message.

Expect G. O. P. Indorsement.

The telegram, which was made public in New York and quickly relayed to Philadelphia, created a stir among Democratic leaders who recognized it instantly as the manifestation of the long heralded threat of the conservatives to bolt the renomination of the President. It was viewed as a move to put the party formally upon notice of their intention in advance of the decisions to be made by the convention and to lay the foundation for the conservative revolt.

In some quarters it was surmised that the conservative Democrats will follow up this initial step by calling a national conference of anti-New Dealers to mobilize their opposition in the election, presumably by indorsing the Republican candidates, Landon and Knox, as the most effective means of defeating Mr. Roosevelt.

Democrats Belittle Threat.

Democratic leaders, however, were disposed to discount the importance of the move and its possible influence. Virtually unanimous was the opinion here that the telegram would be ignored by the delegates as the vaporing of a negligible minority. When first apprised of the telegram, Postmaster General James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, refused comment beyond remarking that "this convention will nominate a genuine Democrat." Later he made this statement:

"No one is surprised by the report that certain people prominent in organizations like the Liberty league will send telegrams to the convention or issue statements—the objectives and connections of people of this kind are by this time thoroughly well known to every American."

Representative John J. O'Connor of New York, one of the Democratic bigwigs, snorted his disgust.

"A most impertinent gratuity," he said. "I don't believe Gov. Smith signed it, but it is typical of the others."

Farley Issues "Challenge."

Mr. Farley challenged the insurgents to come into the convention and voice their protest orally. This was in effect a challenge to Mr. Smith, who is the only one of the group who is a delegate. But Mr. Smith has indicated he will not attend the convention.

Attorney General Homer Cummings scoffed at the telegram as the inconsequential outgiving of persons most of whom could not get into the convention as delegates.

Cites Jefferson, Jackson.

The signers of the telegram conjured the delegates to emulate the example of Thomas Jefferson, Andrew Jackson, and Grover Cleveland in subordinating partisanship to patriotism and act to preserve the institutions under which America achieved the highest "measure of comfort and standard of living" in the world.

Then the conservatives asserted that if the delegates purposed to "act under the name of the Democratic party," they must comply with the following conditions:

1. Be Americans "rather than anything else."

2. Remove "the heavy hand of government" from business enterprise that the 10 or 12 million unemployed may find jobs in industry and agriculture.

End Deficits, Is Plea.

3. Place men in power who will end the Roosevelt administration's deficits and balance the budget.

4. Maintain a protective tarif that will keep the American markets for American industries and farms.

5. Stop "chasing the shadow of foreign trade at the expense of sacrifice of the American domestic market."

6. Halt the expansion of the federal burocracy, the ranks of which already have been swelled by "millions of additional taxeaters."

7. Remedy conditions under which "twenty millions of Americans are on the dole" with nothing to look forward to but "semi-servility."

8. Preserve the constitution and the three coördinate branches of government.

9. Place in the presidency a man who will confine himself to the limits of the executive branch, neither making congress a rubber stamp nor seeking to intimidate the courts into sanctioning a European dictatorship or Asiatic despotism.

Keep Clear of Alliances.

10. Keep the country clear of entangling alliances with European and Asiatic powers.

11. Demand a chief executive who will collect the war debts instead of following President Roosevelt's example of encouraging by silence the continuation of defaults.

12. Stop the use of relief funds "to buy the presidency."

The twelve points enumerated in the telegram as a declaration of principles commended to the Democratic convention closely resemble the planks of the Republican platform.

This schism in the Democratic party has been developing for more than two years. Its first visible form was the formation of the American Liberty league by former Gov. Smith, Mr. Colby, John W. Davis, the Democratic candidate for President in 1924, and other conservative Democrats. The league was dedicated to the effort to expose the fallacies and failures of the New Deal as a means to its extirpation.

For a time Mr. Smith and his associates planned to stage a dramatic revolt in the national convention against the renomination of the President and the adoption of a New Deal platform. Defeated there, as they knew they would be, they would walk out of the convention.

Smith Speech Is Keynote.

The keynote of this move was the speech at the Liberty league dinner in Washington last winter, in which Mr. Smith assailed the New Deal and served notice that conservative Democrats would "take a walk" next November if Mr. Roosevelt should be renominated. The speech, however, missed its mark.

The uprising of conservative Democrats failed to materialize in the presidential primaries. Mr. Smith was the only one of the conservative leaders who was chosen a delegate to the national convention.

The conservative revolt, which Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia and John H. Kirby of Texas sought to stage in the south, also fizzled out. Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, as a candidate for reëlection, got regular.

That was the end of the plan to fight the New Dealers in the convention.

Since the Cleveland convention there have been numerous manifestations of the favor with which conservative Democrats were viewing the Republican platform, both as to its indictment of the New Deal and as to its constructive proposals.

Oppose Money Tinkering.

There are sound money men who abhor the President's tinkering with the currency; they are as outraged as the most conservative Republicans by the New Deal's socialistic experimentation; they are in favor of the balancing of the budget and even on the tarif they are protectionists and have been confessedly so ever since they declared their faith in the Democratic platform of 1928 which was dictated by Mr. Smith and his fellow conservatives.

The lines of cleavage in the Democratic party are now apparent both on the right and the left. While the conservative Democrats are heading for the Republican ticket, the radical Democrats are being attracted to the newly launched third party, the Union party headed by Representative William Lemke of North Dakota. At any rate, it seems certain that the Union party will cut more deeply into Democratic than Republican ranks. There are virtually no radicals left in the Republican party.

NOTES OF THE CONVENTION

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—A distinguished visitor to the Democratic convention, expected here in the Quaker city tomorrow, is the dowager marchioness of Reading. She is the second wife of the late Lord Reading, who was Great Britain's special ambassador to the United States in 1918. Before that he was chief justice of England. The dowager marchioness will be stopping with Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury and will have a place on the platform in the convention hall. She's coming to the convention "because her late husband was interested in the whole American picture, especially in the women and what they are doing."

Philadelphia's hostess commitee for the convention gave a reception this afternoon for Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, but Mrs. Wilson didn't show up. She's in Philadelphia, the guest of the Archibald Barkleys, but she telephoned that she had "some urgent business matters to attend to." The New Deal army is claiming Mrs. Wilson as a Roosevelt Democrat, but it is reported that "she and Mrs. Roosevelt seldom agree."

The newspaper and radio stafs will compete with the delegate body for attention here in Philadelphia, it is promised by the array of large signs decorating the lobby of the Bellevue-Stratford hotel. It's almost easier to find the headquarters of any one of half a dozen important newspapers or a couple of radio chains than the Democratic national headquarters.

Twenty-nine Philadelphia hotels and one across the Delaware river in Camden, N. J., appear on the official list of state headquarters. None of the Philadelphia hostelries is in the immediate vicinity of the convention hall. Several are two miles from the meeting place.

Mrs. Edward J. Kelly, wife of Chicago's mayor, is in Atlantic City and expects to stay there most of the week, at least when the convention is not in session. She prefers to let her husband "speak for the family."

A dash of political irony is given the Democratic national convention by the activities as "civic host" of Mayor S. Davies Wilson, who tomorrow night is to hold a reception to visiting Democratic governors in Independence hall, "Cradle of Liberty." Some years ago the mayor was elected city controler as a Democrat. He left that office to run for mayor on the Republican ticket. He was registered as a Democrat and could not vote for himself in the party primary that made him the G. O. P. nominee for mayor. Visitors inquiring about the Republican are mystified by the information: "Well, he's registered as a Democrat." So what?

GUFFEY TO ASK PLANK ON COAL IN THE PLATFORM

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—Senator Joseph F. Guffey of Pennsylvania announced on his arrival here tonight that he will seek to have included in the Democratic platform a plank declaring for government control of the soft coal industry as provided for in his original bill and in his effort to reënact that proposal which died with the adjournment of congress late Saturday night.

Guffey said his new bill would have been passed except for the filibuster.

"We had the votes," he said, "but it was caught in the last minute jam created by the filibuster led by Senator Frederick Steiwer, the Republican keynoter at Cleveland; Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Senator Daniel O. Hastings, and Senator Rush D. Holt.

"I shall do my best to see that a plank indorsing the bill is included in our platform here, and I shall reintroduce the measure on the opening day of the next congress."

New Deal Foe Seeks House Seat Held by O'Connor

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—John A. Hastings today announced his candidacy for the house of representatives from the Sixteenth congressional district of New York. He will oppose John J. O'Connor, incumbent and chairman of the house rules committee. Hasting's announcement was accompanied by a bitter attack on President Roosevelt and the New Deal.

SIX CABINET MEMBERS WILL BE DELEGATES; OTHERS TO ATTEND

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—Six members of President Roosevelt's "official family"—the cabinet—will appear in the rôle of voting delegates when the Democratic national convention opens at Philadelphia Tuesday.

The remaining four cabinet members are not delegates. Three of them said today they would be on the sidelines at least during part of the convention.

The six delegate-cabineteers are:

Postmaster General Farley, attending as national chairman.

Attorney General Cummings, veterans of political campaigns.

DOUBTS THEORY WIFE KILLED TWO CHILDREN, SELF

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 21.—(AP)—Distraught Martin J. Feely refused to credit tonight police beliefs his attractive wife Eleanor killed herself and their two children.

Coming from a visit to the east end apartment where police found Mrs. Feely and her children, Bobby, 5, and Janice, 3, Friday with stab wounds in their temples and garroting rope wound tightly around their throats, Feely not only descride a police suicide theory but professed ignorance of any enemy who might have perpetrated the crime.

"She loved them and me too much," he said. "I know of no enemies in Mrs. Feely's or my life who might now, years later, want to avenge a wrong or an imaginary wrong."

TEXT OF APPEAL ASKING PARTY TO DROP ROOSEVELT

Americans are on the dole, with nothing to hope for under present rulers except a continuance of that condition of semi-servility.

"You must preserve the constitution and under it the three separate, distinct, and independent branches of government. To that end you must have a President who will remain within his own sphere of jurisdiction and not make the congress into a rubber stamp or try to intimidate the judiciary into an indorsement of his efforts to turn our republic into a dictatorship on the European model or an Asiatic absolutism.

Warns of Alliances.

"You must follow the advice and example of the great Presidents of the past and keep our country free from entangling alliances with old world powers. You must insist upon a chief executive who will collect the moneys due us from defaulting governments instead of encouraging by silence and otherwise a continuance of defaults.

"You must, above all, put an end to the campaign, now under full swing, to buy the presidency by the misuse of funds generously given by the people of the United States to alleviate want and distress, largely caused by the incompetence of public servants—and if there is no other way to do this, you must, during the continuance of such help to otherwise helpless millions of Americans, save the honor of the country by preventing the dispensers of these public funds from coercing the voters, for whom the money has been appropriated, not as a bribe, but as a national necessity.

"Put Roosevelt Aside," Is Plea.

"These are hard tasks even for men who are worthy of succession to the leadership of the Democratic party. They would necessarily involve the putting aside of Franklin D. Roosevelt and the substitution of some genuine Democrat—of whom you will have so many on your list of delegates.

"It is too much to expect, with the many patriotic men and women among you, that the convention will have the courage and character to do these things? You will have to do them if you are to show yourselves fit to follow in the footsteps of Jefferson, Jackson, and Cleveland.

"The temptation to do otherwise may be great.

"But if you do not act as those men would have acted, you should put aside the name of the party, which you will have deserted, and adopt a name which will properly reflect the principles of a regimented state, as advocated in the so-called New Deal legislation.

"Institutions at Stake."

"We hope for the best and call upon you to stand for Democratic principles so that the coming contest may be between two great American groups, which have honest differences of opinion, within the framework of the constitution.

"If you do, you will deserve success and honor—no matter what may be the outcome of the campaign, for in either case, American institutions will be safe.

"If you fail, then patriotic voters of all parties will know unhesitatingly to what standard they must rally in order to preserve the America of the great leaders of the past.

"We beg to subscribe ourselves as men who will remain faithful to Democratic ideals and traditions, as well as to our country."

TWO-THIRDS RULE FINDS FAVOR AMONG WISCONSIN GROUP

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—It is regarded as probable tonight that the Wisconsin delegation to the Democratic national convention will support retention of the two-thirds rule for nominations. That was indicated by Charles E. Hammersley of Shorewood, who will represent his state on the platform committee. Leo P. Fox of Chilton will be the member of the rules committee. Charles E. Broughton of Sheboygan and Mrs. Alice Givans of Milwaukee are members of the Democratic national committee.

Those places were filled when the delegation held a caucus some time ago at Madison. Friendship of the Democratic national administration for the La Follett brothers, Philip, the governor, and Robert M., the senator, is discussed among the early arrivals. About 200 Wisconsin men and women, delegates and spectators, are expected for the convention.

Liking for the two-thirds rule is said to be based on the fear that without it the machine of some great city, like Tammany in New York, might dominate a convention.

Two Children Are Saved from Fire; Rescuer Injured

Dorothy Diranna, 6 years old, and her sister, Marilynn, 4 years old, were rescued early yesterday when fire started in the living room of their first floor flat at 2100 Seminary avenue. Mrs. Margaret McNally, 32 years old, a neighbor, was burned on the back as she carried one of the children from the flat. The fire, confined in the apartment, caused damage estimated at $1,000.

PENSION STAND IS LEMKE GAUGE, SAYS TOWNSEND

Pledges Backing if Dakotan Accepts Program.

New York, June 21.—(AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend, organizer-leader of the old age revolving pensions plan, tonight said he will personally back the candidacy of Representative William Lemke for President provided the North Dakotan "accepts unequivocally the old age pension idea."

He said he could not speak for his followers and that public endorsement of a new party candidate would be made by Townsendites only after the Townsend convention in Cleveland July 15.

Dr. Townsend came here from Syracuse with the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, head of the share-our-wealth movement, to await a meeting with Representative Lemke.

Support Is Parley Topic.

"Obviously, the purpose of the meeting will be to discuss whether my group will back him," said Dr. Townsend. "I don't claim any right to dictate to my organization.

"But Lemke represents my kind of people. He is a good, substantial farmer—and he certainly does represent the interests of North Dakotans.

"All we ask is equitable distribution of the wealth for the people. Today we are better equipped for wealth than ever before."

Dr. Townsend estimated his following at 5 million persons, "a potential voting strength of between 15 and 20 million people," he said.

Wants to Be President Maker.

He was asked if he would run for the presidency if the Townsend organization so decided at its convention next month.

"Absolutely not—it would have to be rammed down my throat," he said. "I want to be a maker of a President, not President."

Mr. Smith, former aid to the late Senator Huey Long, said there was "not much essential difference between my group and Dr. Townsend's."

"The share-our-wealth movement will back whatever candidate favors the 'Coughlin' money plank, adopts the old-age security plank, and permits the Farmers' Union to define its plank on agriculture," Mr. Smith said. "We will also demand that I define the plank on labor, education, and homesteads."

RATTLESNAKES AS 'WITNESSES' IN DEATH TRIAL

Los Angeles, Cal., June 21.—(AP)—The two live rattlesnakes which the state charges were used in a fantastic "life insurance slaying" of Mrs. Mary Bush James will be brought into court tomorrow at the murder trial of her husband, prosecution attorneys disclosed today.

The death penalty will be asked for the 39 year old barber, Robert James, who was quoted by one alienist as admitting he had been married seven times. The mystery death of another wife is under investigation.

Deputy District Attorneys Eugene Williams and John Barnes said they would charge that James sought to kill his wife by subjecting her to rattlesnake bites and, when this failed, drowned her in the bathtub of their La Canada home.

EXPOSITION AIR IN PHILADELPHIA FOR DEMOCRATS

City Expects 150,000 for Convention.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—This Democratic convention city of 1936 has more of an exposition than a political atmosphere today.

This staid old Republican stronghold has put on gay dress for the week's Democratic festivities, preparing to entertain a crowd of 150,000 and to act as the perfect hostess of its first national convention in thirty-six years. It never before had the Democrats in convention.

William Penn on his high tower over the Broad street entrance to the city hall lifts a hand in blessing or admonition over the arriving delegates and officials.

Many Historic Landmarks.

Every street and signpost leads to some historic landmark in this cradle of American liberties. The Democrats are taken into scenes familiar to them since childhood. The city itself is the exposition, with every street gay with red, white, and blue banners and flags.

In view of the political controversy over fundamental liberties and the cries of warning that went up at Cleveland ten days ago, this would seem a more fitting setting for the opposition party than for the New Deal officeholders. But no distinctions are being made here.

"Love of country leads," says a brilliant illuminated sign over the squat old red brick Union League club, a few doors away from Democratic national headquarters. An immense flag is outlined in lights under this, but it is topped by the sign, "Landon and Knox, 1936." Perhaps the Union Leaguers found it a strain on their patriotism to reach so far into the west for their national leaders this year, but decided to be broad-minded about it.

Proves Sunday Holiday.

The early arriving delegates are not worrying about candidates or platform, however. Where Cleveland of pre-convention Sunday was a hotbed of political guessing and maneuvering, Philadelphia is just a Sunday holiday for the folks from the country. Many early arrivals headed for the ball park to see Philadelphia play Pittsburgh.

Valley Forge, not many miles out, Betsy Ross' house, Independence square, were a few of the ancient landmarks to which delegates were directed. The old statehouse where the constitutional convention was held, the very bell that rang forth the news of the declaration of independence, became a place of special pilgrimage. The custodians evidently thought it would be good for the Democrats to worship at this national shrine, for, contrary to custom, the hall was open today.

Liberty Bell in Entrance.

In the entrance way stands the Liberty Bell with its ancient crack, made when it tolled for the funeral of John Marshall, over on 11th street, in 1835. It hangs from its sturdy beam of English oak and the visitors can read the text from Leviticus, "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land and to all the inhabitants thereof."

The cool green and white interior of the old statehouse is in strong contrast with the convention scenes of tumult in which the delegates will soon be plunged. It was a good Sunday bath for their souls. Nothing there but a hall that seemed to be peopled with ghosts of colonial times, made concrete perhaps in the standards of the states that were gathered on both sides of the picture of Ben Franklin above the platform.

Across the old hall is another chaste, bare room, with nothing there but a table and an old high backed chair and a facsimile of the Declaration of Independence in black and gold in place of the throne which it displaced.

On the walls are various inscriptions. One from Penn's frame of government reads like an excerpt from one of Herbert Hoover's speeches. It was: "Any government is free to the people under it, whatever be the frame, when the laws rule and the people are a party to these laws and more than this is tyranny, oligarchy, and confusion.

In front of Independence hall a platform is being built and microphones installed, for the welcoming ceremonies that will be held tomorrow morning. S. Davis Wilson, mayor of the city, will hold a reception in the hall and will then move out on the platform for a public address on behalf of the citizens.

The green square in front, filled with green shade trees, will make the theater for the general public who care to take part in this convention program.

On the other end of town, several miles away, workmen and officials were busy preparing the $5,300,000 municipal auditorium for the opening of the national convention Tuesday. Philadelphia has never been host to Democrats before and is rather nervous about it. Experts who have looked the hall over say that it has been arranged perfectly for the convention purposes. It will seat 17,000, and the adjoining Franklin field, where the President is to make his acceptance speech next Saturday night is big enough for all purposes.

Ivory and Gray Decorations.

Decorations of ivory and gray form the major tone of the big hall. These are relieved by bright state plaques set at intervals around the balconies. The state standards are not yet in place. No matter how hot the debate and demonstrations become, the delegates are assured of cool air, changed throughout the hall every twelve minutes.

The 2,898 delegates and alternates are to be set apart from the rest of the audience by a guard rail around a great square on the convention floor. Raised platforms for spectator seats have been placed around the sides and an extension has been built for additional seats in the back balcony.

The orchestra pit has been lowered and over it have been built ramps where 700 seats for the working press have been arranged. The special speakers' platform does not extend, as in most halls, directly through the press section to the delegates, but is set back. The long runway is missing, but the amplifiers being installed make it unnecessary that the speaker should be any closer.

FARLEY ANSWERS SMITH ATTACK ON ROOSEVELT

With newspaper reporters surrounding him in Philadelphia, where the Democratic convention opens tomorrow, Postmaster General Farley answered the attack on President Roosevelt voiced yesterday by Al Smith and other conservative members of the party.

FARLEY DEFENDS NOMINATOR PLAN TO PAY EXPENSES

Tells Federal Employes Rights in Campaign.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—Postmaster General James A. Farley tonight made a radio speech to the Roosevelt nominators, who become that by their response to the Democratic solicitation for funds to finance the campaign. Nominators are those who are paying a minimum of $1 to hear in parks and halls all over the country the President's acceptance speech next Saturday night in Franklin field.

Farley in his address protested that the collection of funds from nominators was not forced but was "a spontaneous wave of eager coöperation." He said that United States civil service employés were properly protected from political solicitation; that every one should live up to that law carefully, but "federal officers and employés not under civil service have a right, if they wish to do so, to contribute to their party so long as they do not do so directly or indirectly through any other federal officer or employé or in government offices or on government property.

Tells Employés Their Rights.

"As national chairman, I am not going to permit these people to be deprived of their rights or to be read out of the Democratic party just because a few opposition leaders would like to scare them out of their loyalty."

Farley said he knew the opposition must, of course, find something to criticize in this plan and since I am the national chairman, they also must find something to criticize in me. That of course, is part of the activity of the campaign.

"They want to make the party, and they want to make me, as national chairman, personally responsible for everything that happens in this broad land of ours. Here we have a spontaneous organization created in less than two weeks with more than 6,000 local chairmen and probably fifty or sixty thousand people on their committees, and if any one makes a mistake or if any one does anything that should not have been done, they will contend that everything is wrong.

Extreme Care Exercised.

"They will, of course, not tell you that we have maintained a large staf which has checked literally hundreds of thousands of names to try to find even one who ought not to engage in political activities. They will not tell you that we are every day returning subscriptions sent direct to the national committee that ought not to have been made."

In addition to Farley, W. Forbes Morgan, secretary of the Democratic national committee, spoke and prophesied that a million Roosevelt nominators will be enrolled before the Franklin field address.

ANNOUNCE PROGRAM FOR CONVENTION TO CONTINUE FIVE DAYS

Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—(AP)—The program for the Democratic national convention, so far as it has been completed, was announced today by Chairman Farley of the national committee as:

Called to order by Farley for routine business session Tuesday about noon.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky to be elected temporary chairman and deliver the keynote speech Tuesday night.

Permanent organization, receipt of credentials committee's report and election of Senator Robinson of Arkansas as permanent chairman Wednesday.

Rules committee report with debate on whether to do away with requirement for presidential nominee to obtain two-thirds of convention votes Thursday morning.

Platform discussion and adoption Thursday night.

Ballotting for President probably Friday night—maybe Saturday morning.

Nomination of Vice President—which means renomination of John Nance Garner of Texas—to follow balloting on President.

SHOT RESISTING ROBBER.

Frederick Thomas, 23 years old, colored, 338 East 56th street, was taken to the County hospital early yesterday with a bullet wound in his thigh. He told police he was shot when he resisted a robber at 43d and Dearborn streets.

DOUBT HERRING CANDIDATE FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Iowa Delegation to Hold Caucus Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—Friends of Gov. Clyde L. Herring of Iowa expressed doubt today, as they arrived in the vanguard of Democratic convention delegates, that the governor is, or will become an active candidate for the nomination for Vice President against John N. Garner.

A boom was started several days ago in behalf of the head of the Hawkeye state's government, but it is not being taken seriously by the governor or his associates, according to the hotel lobby talk. Mr. Herring was in New York today but is expected in Philadelphia tomorrow.

After Place in Senate.

"The governor," one of his friends said, "was nominated against United States Senator Lester J. Dickinson at the primaries. So far as we know, that is the only post to which he aspires."

Organization of the Iowa delegation will be a achieved at tomorrow's caucus and there appears to be little controversy in sight for any of the posts, unless something develops during the selection of memberships on the minor committees.

National Committeeman Richard Mitchell of Fort Dodge, a justice of the Supreme court, is not a candidate for reëlection and his friends are expected to support Congressman Hubert Utterback of Des Moines for the place. Mrs. Flora Atter of Sigourney, national committeewoman, has no substantial opposition for reëlection.

Murphy May Be Chairman.

United States Senator Louis Murphy will be chairman of the delegation and its member on the resolutions, or platform, committee, it was predicted.

Iowa has 22 delegates and Judge Mitchell said today that he believed at least 200 Iowa visitors will be on hand when National Chairman Farley's gavel drops at noon Tuesday.

PARTY RIVALRY IS DISSOLVED BY WOMEN LEADERS

Mrs. Longworth Lunches with Mrs. Harriman.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—Political differences were dissolved along with the sugar in their coffee cups this noon when Democratic Mrs. Daisy Harriman [Mrs. J. Borden] of New York, Newport, Washington, and other places, sat down for luncheon in the Bellevue Stratford hotel, New Deal headquarters, with Republican Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of the strenuous "T. R." and cousin of the present President's wife.

"Of course we're friends," emphasized the husky voiced Mrs. Harriman, who is here as official hostess to the Democratic convention as well as in her usual rôle of national committee woman for the District of Columbia.

Mrs. Longworth a "Commentator."

"Why, of course," added Mrs. Longworth, whose Republican enthusiasms reached fever heat ten days ago in the Cleveland convention. At this powwow as "a political commentator," it goes without saying that Mrs. Longworth will write several stinging denunciations of the New Deal.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, New York, official hostess of the Democratic convention, and Alice Roosevelt Longworth, prominent Republican, together in Philadelphia yesterday.

Mrs. Harriman interprets her job as that of "coördinator." In times past she has proved herself equally capable of launching a lawn fête, starting a new style, averting a labor strike, or going to law about a pile of dirt dumped on her front lawn.

"Alice and I have known and admired each other for years," Mrs. Harriman went on briskly. "We talk politics and still get along. I never shall forget the evening last summer when we were dining with a half dozen Wall street 'big wigs.' They criticized Roosevelt for at least one hour straight. I sat back and thoroughly enjoyed it. I thought they were talking about Alice's father—Theodore Roosevelt. The description exactly fitted him. Then I discovered they meant her cousin, Franklin.

Can't Understand "Ingratitude."

"But seriously," and here Mrs. Harriman wrinkled her brow and fumbled the large pearls that were wound double around her throat, "no other man could have lifted this country out of the economic morass by changing the whole school of thought as Franklin Roosevelt has done. I can't understand why the people are so ungrateful."

Mrs. Harriman concedes that the November vote "may be close," but, she adds, "that makes any election more fun."

Then, asked about the new tax bill, she happily commented, "O, economics is quite beyond me."

Mrs. Harriman is only one of the large vanguard of Democratic women both audible and visible here today, two days ahead of the opening of the New Deal show.

They all are agreed in their enthusiasm over the large number of women attending the convention in an official capacity. According to brisk, breezy, and optimistic Mary W. [Molly] Dewson, director of the women's division of the Democratic party, there are 219 women delegates and 302 alternates, the largest official bloc of women ever to attend a national political convention.

Mrs. Ross at Convention.

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross is another one of the women in the vanguard here who is provocative, intelligent, and colorful on her own account. Her pretty blonde head and her flair for style have been no deterrent to her political progress, which has included the governorship of Wyoming and now the directorship of the United States mint.

Democrats Off in 2 Trains; See Rift in Caucus Today

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

Two special trainloads of Illinois Democrats pulled out of the Union station yesterday for the national convention in Philadelphia. They will hold a caucus today in which the two factions are likely to be isolated from one another as completely in spirit as they were physically on the separate trains during the night's journey.

Gov. Horner's train with his chartered coach and a standard sleeping car for his followers, had about a 15 seconds head start out of the station. A stop at Englewood, however, to pick up State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney gave the Cook county organization's five cars an opportunity to draw abreast.

Occasion for Two Trains.

Until a few days ago it was planned to have only one train. Then the Cook county group learned of the governor's insistence that his chartered car ride at the rear. Unwilling to have their observation car shut off from the rear end view, the Democrats from the loop wouldn't yield, so the Pennsylvania railroad made up two trains.

None of these departing Democrats had any positive views on what would happen in caucus on the election of national committeeman, committeewoman, chairman of the delegation, and Illinois' member of the convention resolutions committee. Hornerites confessed, though, that Mayor Kelly and County Chairman P. A. Nash control a majority of the delegates' votes and can do as they please.

Sixty in Governor's Party.

About sixty persons accompanied the governor. Among them were F. Lynden Smith, his downstate campaign manager; James M. Slattery, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission and his Cook county manager; Ward Committeemen Martin J. O'Brien and James Whalen; Daniel Sullivan, chief strategist; Alexander Wilson, his legislative assistant; John Casey, secretary, and Carter Harrison.

State senator William J. Connors, who bested a Hornerite in a Springfield fight, was in the forefront of those who took the Cook county organization train. Presumably by mistake, State Senator Richey V. Graham, who went over to Horner before the primary, got aboard with several hundred Horner primary foes. Nash and the mayor were not with their cohorts, having gone east to prepare for the convention several days ago.

Leaders in Organization Group.

Also on the organization train were Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, national committeewoman; Aldermen John J. Coughlin [1st], Roger J. Kiley [37th], James B. Bowler [25th], William J. Cowhey [41st], and John Grealis [44th], State Senator Harold G. Ward, Thomas J. Bowler, clerk of the Criminal court; Judges Thomas J. Lynch and Harry M. Fisher; Sanitary District Trustees John J. Touhy and Dennis A. Horan; Richard Frolich, deputy clerk of the Municipal court; Frank Zintak, clerk of the Superior court; Ray W. Moore, and J. Frank Lyman.

Both crowds were in jovial spirits. There had been some fear of a mixup when the train signs were switched by error, but every one finally got straightened around and on the right train. The Cook county delegates entered their train early for a picture, which cleared the station foyer of most of them before the governor arrived with his retinue shortly before pulling out time.

Mayor and Nash to Fly Back.

Mayor Kelly sent word to the Cook county headquarters that he and Nash are planning to fly back to Chicago Saturday to attend the Roosevelt nominators' picnic at Riverview park. Attendance at the picnic will total 100,000, according to an estimate made yesterday by John E. Conroy, clerk of the Circuit court.

The picnic is to be held in conjunction with similar gatherings all over the country to hear President Roosevelt's speech in Philadelphia accepting the Democratic nomination for reelection. Proceeds from the sale of $1 admissions will go to the national campaign fund.

Program to Precede Speech.

The acceptance speech will be heard at 8 p. m. Preceding that there will be parades to the park and a program of athletic contests and games. Democratic candidates for state, county, and city offices will attend.

Milwaukee Democrats on their way to the Philadelphia convention will pass through Chicago today. They will number upwards of 125, including delegates, alternates, and visitors.

BELGIUM SEES EARLY END TO STRIKE WAVE; 40 HOUR WEEK ASKED

BRUSSELS, June 21.—(AP)—A complete and early settlement of Belgium's widespread strikes was predicted by government officials today. Tension was greatly relaxed.

Only the question of a 40-hour week is still to be agreed upon as 31 arbitration committees reported negotiations have been successful.

A strike of dock workers at Antwerp was settled yesterday, but heavy troop precautions continued there and in Brussels, where some 20,000 have been on a walkout.

CHINESE BANDITS ASK $1,500,000 TO RELEASE YANK

MUKDEN, Manchukuo, June 21.—[HAVAS.]—A total of 5,000,000 Chinese dollars [about $1,500,000 American currency] and a large quantity of artillery were demanded as ransom today for the Rev. Joseph Burns, 34 years old, American Catholic missionary who was captured Feb. 5 by Chinese bandits.

The Rev. Mr. Burns was seized by six bandits near Tunghua, east of here, while he was riding his forty mile circuit among outpost missions. He was last reported held in a fortress on a mountain in southeastern Manchukuo.

The ransom letter bore the signature of the Rev. Mr. Burns, who is connected with the Maryknoll mission in Ossining, N. Y. He is a resident of Toledo, O., and has been in Manchukuo since July, 1934.

His brigands were located Feb. 13 by soldiers but the outlaws escaped and new contact was not made until recently. Rescue efforts have been hampered by the rough terrain.

Find Unexploded Bomb in Trucking Concern Garage

C. L. Jones, one of the owners of the Chicago Heights Trucking company, 1536 Union avenue, Chicago Heights, reported to county highway police he had found an unexploded dynamite bomb in the company garage and warehouse yesterday. The bomb had been thrown through a window apparently during the night but had failed to explode because the fuse went out.

CHAIRMAN NASH OPENS ILLINOIS HEADQUARTERS

Two Trains from Chicago Are Due Today.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—If there was a notion somewhere that the Horner minority might steal a march by opening the first Illinois headquarters at the Democratic national convention—and nobody will say that he knows definitly of such a scheme—it was squashed this afternoon when P. A. Nash, national committeeman, arrived in town.

Mr. Nash, possibly still stirred by recollections of the Schmeling-Louis bout which he and several other Chicago delegates witnessed, came in from New York in an energetic mood. He was met with reports from some who preceded him to the Benjamin Franklin hotel that inquirers for the Illinois headquarters had been referred to a suite occupied by "Billy" Walsh of Springfield, chairman of the Horner patronage committee.

Obtains Larger Quarters.

Then it didn't take long for the head of the regular organization to get into action. He looked over the suite reserved for his personal use. The reception room was too small for headquarters. The hotel management was called upon and produced a club room large enough to seat the hundred and odd persons expected to participate in the state caucus tomorrow afternoon.

So far as interviews go, Nash isn't saying just what he would like to have the delegation do, but it is understood that in addition to his reelection as national committeeman he has been urged to accept election as chairman of the delegation and has agreed to let his name go in for both places.

There may be a different situation tomorrow after arrival of the Siamese twin Democratic special trains from Chicago—one half Cook county organization and the other half headed by Gov. Horner—but right now there is no question raised here that this part of the pro-Nash program is backed by the voting power necessary to put it through.

It is possible that the same solid block of votes may go to Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, also of Chicago, for reëlection as national committeewoman.

Opposed by Horner Aid.

Mrs. Conkey is in the lead and probably will be reëlected, but she has opposition in the person of Mrs. Blanche Fritz of Bridgeport, who is enroute here by motor car with Mrs. Joan Ellsworth of Geneva. Mrs. Fritz has the backing of Gov. Horner. She directed the Horner Women's division in the Illinois primary. She is the wife of Dr. George W. Fritz and for three years she has been in the state rehabilitation offices at Springfield, a Horner appointee.

GIRLS START OUT ON FILM CAREER; POLICE HALT IT

Pauline Dorfman, 16 years old, 2919 North Whipple street, and Maxine Johnson, 15 years old, 1133 North California avenue, became dissatisfied with life in Chicago last evening and decided to go to California and join up with the movies.

They walked to the Indiana Harbor Belt Line yards at 69th street and Cicero avenue and were trying to catch a freight train when railroad detectives caught them and took them to the Chicago Lawn police station. The pair had a capital of only 13 cents and after thinking it over decided they'd go back home.

3D PARTY CASTS SHADOWS OVER PLATFORM TALK

Delegates Have Eyes on Farm Plank.

Borah's Vote Is Cited.

What most interested the Democrats here today, however, was that the roll call showed Senator William E. Borah of Idaho favoring the Frazier-Lemke measure. Others voting for it included Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas, a strong supporter of Gov. Alf M. Landon, and Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Republican leader in the senate and coauthor of the old McNary-Haugen "equalization fee" farm bill of some years ago.

These matters, largely discussed here today, were used as additional arguments why the farm plank when it is finally written will be worded to offset the effect of Lemke, coauthor of the bill, as a third party entrant.

Minnesota is the only state of the 48 with a contest before the national committee tomorrow. The Canal Zone and Porto Rico also have contesting delegations.

Two Minnesota Delegations.

One of the two rival Minnesota delegations is headed by Joseph W. Noonan, the state chairman. The other is headed by Joseph Wolf, national committeeman, who supported Roosevelt in 1932. Each contest will be turned over to a subcommittee of five, and in the case of the Minnesotans, Chairman Farley is understood to favor seating both delegations, each delegate to cast one-half vote. The rival groups, so far, appear cold to this idea.

In the Minnesota Democracy there still appears to be some resentment lingering against the friendship shown Senator Henrik Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, two years ago by President Roosevelt on his cross-continent tour.

One supposition among the politicians has been that the Farmer-Labor party in Minnesota might indorse the candidacy of President Roosevelt, but with Lemke in the field this situation might be changed.

MEXICAN BORDER SEES RENEWAL OF GAMBLING TOWNS

TIJUANA, Mexico, June 21.—(AP)—Tijuana, after a year-long slumber, eagerly awaited developments today which may bring back the notoriety it enjoyed as a gay gambling border town. President Lazaro Cardenas' action in edging off the lid of a strict national ban on gambling prompted casino operators to hurry to the border to look over prospects.

Squalid, sunbaked Tijuana's once famous Foreign club and nearby Agua Caliente, man-made, million-dollar gambling spa, became ghost palaces when the government abruptly clamped down on operations nearly a year ago. American owners of Agua Caliente said they can reopen the luxurious resort within two or three weeks. But it will take longer than that to rehabilitate a run-down golf course, where leading professionals of the nation once played for a $25,000 purse, and a run-down race track, where the best horses in the world once ran for a $100,000 prize.

Caliente's palatial hotel and casino, however, where the wealth of America played, won and lost millions of dollars, is intact. Roulette, "crapshooting," blackjack and similar games will not be permitted under the new order, Mayor Fernando Padron Corea of Tijuana said. He explained that only games "where skill is required" would be allowed.

R. EARL PETERS TO VOTE PROXY AT CONVENTION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—R. Earl Peters, Indiana's federal housing administrator, will cast a vote at the Democratic convention regardless of opposition to his election as a delegate attributed to Gov. Paul V. McNutt.

Members of the Hoosier delegation who arrived today were surprised to learn that Peters, who was denied a place either as a district delegate or on the state at large slate, now holds the proxy of John Tokarz of Whiting. Peters was one of the original Roosevelt men in Indiana and is said to have the ear of Postmaster General James A. Farley, the patronage chief. He was "frozen out" of a regular seat in the delegation, according to Indiana observers who came in ahead of the big crowd due tomorrow.

Unless some opposition develops overnight the Indiana caucus tomorrow is likely to be a setup, the early arrivals said. Gov. McNutt is slated to be chairman of the delegation and the secretary will be Miss Gertrude Fanning, former secretary to the late United States Senator Tom Taggart of French Lick Springs.

Taggart's son, Tom Jr., who succeeded his father as head of the French Lick hotel property, was reelected national committeeman at the state convention, as was the national committeewoman, Mrs. Samuel M. Ralston of Indianapolis, widow of another former senator.

For membership on the resolutions committee the name of United States Senator Sherman [Shay] Minton of New Albany is the only one heard around Indiana headquarters.

Indiana's 28 votes will be split among 34 delegates at this convention, the four at large votes being divided among eight delegates, each of whom will cast one-half vote, and the same procedure being followed in the 12th district, where two votes were cut into four.

FLOOD OF BILLS LEFT BEHIND AS CONGRESS ENDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—Weary Democratic senators and congressmen headed toward home and political fence building today, leaving on the steps of the White House a flood of bills passed in the final hours before adjournment of the 20 billion dollar congress, the 74th in the country's history.

The senate was tied up by a filibuster up to adjournment early today. The house worked through a few bills and then concluded its business.

Some will break the homeward trek by pausing in Philadelphia to attend the Democratic national convention in the hope of gathering political ammunition for their campaigns. Many of the Democrats are frankly doubtful over their prospects of success. These took what may be their last lingering looks at the halls of congress from the legislative floors during the closing hours of last night.

Republicans Confident.

There was none of this apprehension among Republican members. Republican congressmen who carried their districts two years ago when the New Deal was at high tide are confident of returning in the belief the administration's popularity is ebbing.

President Roosevelt has ten days to act on the bills sent him by the departing congress. He may sign them or let them die by withholding his signature. On adjournment "pocket veto" becomes operative, so that those bills which are not signed within ten days, excluding Sundays and holidays, are automatically vetoed. During a session of congress a bill not signed within the ten day period automatically becomes a law without the President's signature.

Signs 123 Bills in Day.

Yesterday Mr. Roosevelt signed 95 of 123 bills on his desk. The last day of congress brought several dozen more to the White House, including the tax bill which prolonged the session. It is expected that Mr. Roosevelt will have signed those bills which he wishes enacted by next Saturday, when he will leave to deliver his speech of acceptance of the Democratic nomination at Franklin field that evening.

In the signing to date Mr. Roosevelt has completely reversed his stand against relief and commemorative coins bills. More than two-thirds of the bills signed yesterday were relief bills and in the last week he has signed three bills authorizing the coining of commemorative half dollars.

At a press conference early in the last session of congress Mr. Roosevelt said he would sign no more relief bills, having found by experience that only one in a hundred carried a just claim. At another conference he said he would sign no more coining bills because there were entirely too many requests for commemorative coins.

Vetoes Scarce Lately.

Until recently he followed his declaration, sending vetoes of such measures to congress. In the last week, however, vetoes have been scarce.

The unreasonableness of relief bills was epitomized in a satire of Mark Twain, America's greatest humorist. He told of a southern farmer whose farm was visited by a picket of Jackson's army on the march to the Seminole war. The farmer presented a claim for a few dollars, which in ten years of legislative mill turning he finally received.

After his death his son reopened the claim, alleging a company had spent the night on the property and damaged crops and farm buildings. He, too, was successful after years. In a like manner a grandson and great-gandson reopened the original claim, bringing a regiment and finally Jackson's entire army to the farm and alleging almost complete destruction of crops and property to receive thousands of dollars.

In most of the relief bills claimants seek money for alleged financial damage suffered at the hands of the government. In others dishonorably discharged former members of the country's armed forces seek removal of the blots on their records.

The most important measure signed yesterday was the Robinson-Patman anti-chain store bill. This is designed, according to its proponents, to give independent merchants an equal price advantage with chain stores and other big buyers in purchases from manufacturers.

WOMAN DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Mrs. Mathilda Charleston, 90 years old, 1001 Ayers place, Evanston, colored, died yesterday of a heart attack while attending a Bible class at the Second Baptist church 1717 Benson avenue, Evanston.

Speaker Bids Colleagues Farewell as Congress Quits

DEMOCRATS TETHER DONKEY IN HOTEL; HE EATS ONLY SUGAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—Donkeys, not stuffed or symbolic, but real ones, began to appear on the streets of Philadelphia today.

One was taken into the lobby of the Walton hotel and tethered near the stairway, where a bellboy was delegated to take care of him. He would not eat hay, but munched sugar. His name, it was said, was Encore, the idea being that a donkey functioned at the Chicago convention where Roosevelt was nominated and now was going to repeat this office.

When Encore was taken for a walk he met another donkey bearing a restaurant sign. The two donkeys became exceedingly friendly, and the Philadelphia churchgoers were regaled with the sight of Encore refusing to move on until a horde of bellboys and policemen came to the rescue.

HOT BATTLE SEEN FOR 2 MICHIGAN COMMITTEE JOBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—Several possible choices for national committeeman and committeewoman face Michigan delegates to the Democratic convention, many of whom arrived here today in advance of the state caucus tomorrow night.

The death of Horatio Abbott of Ann Arbor several months ago left Michigan without a representative on the national committee, and two leading candidates are in the running for the coveted seat. The aspirants are John J. O'Brien of Detroit and Edward Shields of Lansing, and friends of each described their contest as a neck and neck race.

Three women may be placed in nomination for national committeewoman—the incumbent, Mrs. Evelyn Mershon of Saginaw, Mrs. Thomas McAllister of Grand Rapids, and Mrs. Howard Van Auken of Detroit. Here, too, the betting is close.

Much indecision accompanied the gossip as to who will be elected chairman of the delegation, as the early arrivals tried to guess the caucus winners. This race may feature three names—those of State Treasurer Theodore Fry of Fremont, Don Canfield of Detroit, secretary of the state central committee, and Carl M. Weideman, former congressman from a Detroit district.

Michigan Cherry Growers' Festival Hails Summer

Traverse City, Mich., June 21.—[Special.]—Cherry orchardists around Old Mission Point gathered about the lighthouse today to welcome summer as the sun passed over the 45th parallel at 9:22 a. m. A group of dancing girls with flowers in their arms danced up to the parallel and presented their blooms to Miss Ardis Manney of Northport, who, as queen of the 1936 national cherry festival, represented the spirit of summer. Orchardists hope to revive the ceremony each June 21.

HOWLING SIRENS DISRUPT PEACE OF PHILADELPHIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Chicago Tribune Bureau, Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—[Special.]—Not since the famous three weeks' performance at Madison Square Garden in New York in 1924 have delegates to the national convention been deafened by the screeching of motorcycle escort sirens that shattered the Sunday silence here today.

Apparently every official car—and there are many of them—bound to or from the convention hall was preceded by two shriekers. The local citizenry was beginning to protest. Often there was disappointment when, after surrounding one of the young parades as it came to a stop, it was found that not one of the occupants of the honored car could be identified as a big shot in the New Deal. When the statesmen really begin to arrive tomorrow the circumambient air probably will be rent to bits.

Four years ago, when both conventions were held in Chicago, Mayor Cermak refused to grant escorts of this character. There sirens are confined to fire fighting equipment.

OBSOLESCENCE

by CALEB

GREAT-GRANDFATHER lived much more as he pleased than most people can today, and he was not harassed by some of our modern troubles. Occasionally grandfather bought a stove or a surrey—a saddle or a churn. When he did, he introduced the new purchase into the domestic routine, and forgot about it, except to use it fully.

Season succeeded season. Spring rains would come and the summer's lazy heat. Autumn would color the woods and be followed by winter's mantle of white. This chronological sequence would take its slight toll of wear, over and over—but ten years from the purchase time, or fifteen, the item was still as good as its physical condition.

But now: If you buy an automobile and don't use it at all, pack it away in moth balls and in a dry vacuum, with all the parts protected by a film of expensive oil, what would it be worth in ten years? Almost nothing!

There are many relatively new things in the world, such as radio and television, the electric eye, the candid camera, and stream-lined trains. Another is obsolescence. Grandfather most likely never heard of obsolescence. Even some of our contemporaries may never have heard of it. But it is affecting the way they live.

Obsolescence is loss of value due to outmoding. In millinery and spring dresses the outmoding may be due to nothing but style. In an automobile it may be due to style, performance, convenience, and gadgets. In a factory's machinery it may be due to a more efficient model which makes the old one slow and expensive to operate.

Businesses, in evaluating their assets, take obsolescence into consideration. Business recognizes that obsolescence is inescapable [illegible] must be dealt with.

But the thought that people themselves suffer obsolescence seems to be overlooked generally. We are unable to overlook it in our business. A buyer or a packer or a sales clerk who now does his job only as well as he did five years ago is worth less relatively now than then. He is outmoded. That is true because there are other buyers and packers and sales clerks who have unquestionably become more efficient and more productive.

It isn't a matter of years or of age—it's a matter of keeping up to date. Not only do we, as an organization, have to be aware of what's new—if it's constructive, we have to subscribe to it. This necessitates a continuous program of training for those of our people who are unwilling to be outmoded.

RADICALS BOW TO LA FOLLETTE IN CONVENTION

Governor Refuses to Join Wisconsin Party.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Oshkosh, Wis., June 21.—[Special.]—Over the loud protests of a score of delegates, mostly farmers, the Farmer-Labor-Progressive federation, in its first convention, capitulated today to the demands of Gov. Philip La Follette, who has refused to become its member.

The embarrassment of disregarding the constitution to indorse a nonmember for governor was avoided by not indorsing any candidate for that office, victory number one for La Follette.

At the governor's insistence the Socialist phrase "production for use" was omitted from the platform. In its place was a phrase recommending "the establishment of public corporations similar to the TVA to perform such functions of government as the welfare of the people makes necessary." La Follette victory number two.

Desire to Ride Winner.

The federation convened today to meet the problem of a leader who had declined to subscribe to the principles it indorsed in its platform or to take what most of them considered the stubborn and hopeless position of naming a candidate for governor who had no chance of election success.

The compromise was the practical one of staying with the man who they thought had the best chance to win. Indorsing no candidate was a tacit indorsement of La Follette, speakers said from the floor, and let it go at that.

In addition a slate of candidates for the other state offices was chosen exclusively from the Progressive party. The Socialists having sacrificed their production for use principle went the whole way and gave the La Follettes the entire ticket.

The ticket: Lieutenant governor, Harry Jack, Hortonville, vice president Wisconsin milk pool; secretary of state, Theodore Dammann, Milwaukee; treasurer, E. Myrwyn Rowlands, Cambria, state senator; attorney general, O. S. Loomis, Mauston, state director rural electrification.

Assail Labor Chief.

Going afield from the subject of candidate, the federation voted after a short debate to table a resolution to support the new Union party of Congressman William Lemke and gave a sharp rebuke to William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, for a letter he had written opposing the enactment of the Frazier-Lemke farm refinancing bill. The resolution condemned Green's action as "reactionary, unwise, and contrary to the best interests of the farmer and laborer."

It was adopted over the protest of Joseph A. Padway, Milwaukee, counsel for the State Federation of Labor, that the delegates knew nothing of the conditions which induced Green to oppose the bill nor the circumstances in which the letter was written.

The question whether Gov. La Follette was to control the federation without joining it was the climax of the convention and the delegates were ready for it when the session opened this morning.

Seize Woman, Companion Accused of Kidnaping Her

Police who answered a riot call sent in last night from the Michigan hotel at 1206 South Wabash avenue arrested Mrs. Clara Wahl, 35 years old, of San Antonio, Tex., and William Mulles, 31 years old, of Decatur, Ga., whom the woman accused of kidnaping her. Mrs. Wahl asserted that Mulles and another man forced her into an automobile at the Centennial exposition at Dallas last Wednesday and brought her to Chicago against her will. She said she started a fight when the second man, Clyde Laughton, attempted to rape her. Laughton fled and is being sought. Mulles said he once served a term in the Leavenworth penitentiary for impersonating a federal officer.

BLAZE DESTROYS BARNS ONCE USED FOR HORSE CARS

An empty two story brick building at 1721-27 Sedgwick street, which once housed the horse cars of an early city street railway company, was destroyed by fire last night. Because the fire, of undetermined origin, spread rapidly, a 3-11 alarm was sounded to bring out extra equipment.

Police squads held back a large crowd as firemen fought the blaze from the top of a neighboring flat building. The smoke forced three families in this building to flee to the street.

Damage to the burned structure was estimated at $2,500. Built in 1881 for the old North Chicago Street Railway company, the building was abandoned by the street car company about 25 years ago. Since then it had been used by an airplane manufacturing company and as a warehouse for a carnival which moved out two weeks ago.

FARMERS TO SEE WOOD CHOPPED BY ELECTRICITY

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—A farm so completely electrified that it has an electric hay pitcher and wood chopper will be exhibited to delegates of the third world power conference when they meet here early in September.

The appliances, furnished jointly by the rural electrification administration, the National Electric Manufacturers association and private firms, will be installed on a farm in nearby Virginia.

Equipped to show what can be done about moving city conveniences into the country, the farm house will be air conditioned. Electrified outdoor equipment will include, in addition to the hay pitcher and wood chopper, flood lights so the farmer won't need a lantern, a milking machine and a sausage grinder.

G. O. P. TO LAUNCH IMMEDIATE DRIVE TO RAISE FUNDS

Party Units Plan a Joint Solicitation in Illinois.

C. B. Goodspeed, treasurer of the Republican national committee, announced yesterday that a campaign for election funds will be opened immediately throughout the country. He will be assisted in raising money by W. B. Bell, chairman of the Republican national finance committee.

In Illinois an official fund raising organization has been formed to represent the national committee, the state central committee and the Cook county central committee. Seymour Wheeler, recently appointed a member of the national finance committee, has been made chairman of the Illinois combined committee.

Increased Efficiency Seen.

"Combining the efforts of all three organizations in a single committee will simplify greatly and make more efficient our work in raising funds for both national and state purposes," said Mr. Wheeler. "The program has the unqualified indorsement of the three organizations.

"In this way there will be only one solicitation for the Republican party and funds raised will be disbursed through the Illinois Republican citizens' organization. The allocation for state purposes will be supervised by a committee of three, consisting of Louis C. Seaverns, George F. Harding and George A. Barr of Joliet.

Women's Division Formed.

"Of equal importance is the formation of a women's division which will be in charge of Mrs. Leslie Wheeler and Mrs. William H. Mitchell as co-chairmen. It is planned to have subdivisions set up in various parts of the state.

"The success of the Republican party this fall depends upon a generous response and if we are going to return this country to an American administration people will have to give as they never have given before."

Advancing earlier plans, Col. Frank Knox, Republican nominee for vice president, left Chicago yesterday for a two weeks' vacation in Manchester, N. H. Aboard the same train was Mr. Goodspeed, bound for New York to attend a banquet to be given tonight by the Republican national finance committee in honor of John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee.

LANDON CALLS IN 4TH MEMBER OF ADVISORY STAF

Disillusioned New Deal Backer Joins Kansan.

BY WILLIAM O'NEIL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Topeka, Kas., June 21.—[Special.]—The staf of personal advisers to Gov. Alf M. Landon received an addition when Frederick Donald Enfield, Los Angeles attorney, arrived here today.

"Roosevelt has failed lamentably to obtain the objectives which he glowingly set forth and which led many to follow him," Enfield, who was a Roosevelt supporters in 1932, said on his arrival. "I like Gov. Landon's record and what he stands for.

"I have every confidence that he will carry out exactly what he promises. That is why I was glad to receive his invitation to come here."

Gov. Landon refused to comment after reading the text of the statement issued by Alfred E. Smith and other prominent Democrats.

Three Special Fields.

Three other personal advisers to the governor were on hand when Enfield arrived. Earl Taylor of Bryn Mawr, Pa., has been advising the governor on agricultural matters; Ralph W. Robey of New York, economist, will help Landon in the formulation of a sound fiscal policy, and Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, son of the late President, is acting as an adviser on political matters.

All, with the exception of Taft, are former newspaper men. Enfield ended his newspaper career on the Washington Post when he transferred to the department of justice, where he served under three attorney generals.

Spend a Quiet Sabbath.

For the last eight years Enfield has been managing real estate properties for the Bank of California in Los Angeles.

Gov. Landon spent a quiet day at home with his family. In the morning he attended services at the First Methodist church, with Mrs. Landon. The governor followed his Sabbath custom of driving to church alone with his wife.

After the services the Landons returned home to plan their departure for Estes Park, Colo., on Wednesday evening.

A plea to motorists
. . . FROM THE MOTHERS ON OUR ROUTES

● We see them in our business every day and get to know them . . . bright-eyed youngsters and their mothers in the many homes we serve.

But all too often a Bowman driver finds that, between one morning's trip and the next, sorrow has come to a whole neighborhood. . . . .

A child is missing from play. There's a heart-broken mother. And bewildered little boys and girls explain: "It happened there."

Some heedless, hurrying motorist has passed that way!

And so, from the thousands of mothers on our routes, we bring this plea: Motorists, please drive carefully! Help make Chicago safer!

TRIBUNE MURAL DEPICTS BATTLE FOR FREE PRESS

Heroes of Long, Unending Struggle Shown.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A 16 by 23½ foot mural entitled "The Freedom of the Press," vividly depicting the age old struggle for liberty of speech and of the press, has been mounted on the east wall of the lobby of Tribune Tower.

Mrs. Clara Fargo Thomas, distinguished mural painter of New York, a member of the National Society of Mural Painters, is the designing artist. She is a descendant of the Fargo family of express company fame.

Mrs. Thomas, well known as a horsewoman, created the murals at Grasslands, home of the Southern Grasslands Hunt and Racing foundation at Gallatin, Tenn., and has designed murals for the offices of Col. R. R. McCormick in the News building in New York, for Vincent Astor, Percy Rockefeller, and William Ziegler, and in the royal suite in London's Grosvenor House.

Her 14 panel mural, "A Pageant of Beauty," is now being shown at the Texas Centennial.

Pastel Crayons Used.

The mural in the Tribune Tower lobby is in pastel crayons on paper in burnt sienna, black, and reds. Lynn Fausett of New York, an assistant to Mrs. Thomas in mechanical matters, who was here installing the mural, told how this unusual medium for murals was reached.

Mrs. Thomas chose freedom of the press as her theme when that subject figured in the news of the day. After many months of work on one treatment of this theme, which primarily emphasized the trial of Peter Zenger in 1735, her sketch was photostated full size and hung in the lobby. She disliked the work and cast about for a new treatment.

Taking a trip through the pressrooms of THE TRIBUNE, Mrs. Thomas was struck with the streams of newsprint flowing from the presses. She then conceived the idea of showing the story of a free press in pictures and type, the story being printed on newspapers as they come unfolded, in broad ribbons of paper, off the presses.

Planned Trial Sketch.

Enthusiastic over her newly envisioned theme, the artist returned to New York to work it out, completing a drawing in full size in four vertical panels in a short time. Her idea was to use it only as a trial sketch, then paint the final in oils on canvas.

With final touches and corrections, however, the rough sketch became the finished mural. It has been preserved by three coats of especially prepared varnish.

Masses of shining machinery, a vigorous showing of printing presses in action, pour forth their output of newsprint in the mural. Framed by the white paper are the pictorial representations of incidents in the fight for free speech.

Ancient Heroes Shown.

In the upper part of one panel are seen Socrates drinking the hemlock, and Cicero. [Socrates was accused of being an atheist because he questioned the conventional ethics and religion of the time. Cicero was beheaded because he dared to speak against the Triumvirate, and after his head was severed needles were stuck in his tongue.]

There, too, is, Daniel Defoe in the pillory. [Defoe, master journalist of the 18th century, editor of the London Review was befriended by William III. After the death of the monarch, he lost favor, and when he wrote the anonymous "Shortest Way with the Dissenters," whose authorship was discovered, he was sentenced and exposed in the pillory for three days. The populace rallied to him and his punishment proved a triumph, but he was imprisoned a month.]

Sketches of the scaffold and the rack and torture chambers of the Inquisition show the penalty of free speech in earlier days of medieval terrors.

Comes the Printing Press.

On a panel to the right Gutenberg and his invention, movable type, with which he printed the Bible in 1450, are seen. Caxton, in a red robe and wig, with the printing press he brought to England in 1476, follow. Such a furor did this cause that Henry VIII. put the press under license in charge of the Court of the Star Chamber. This is a story the mural tells.

John Milton is shown writing his essay, "Areopagitica," in protest against a later licensing law enacted by the Long parliament. Beneath the poet, shown with a great white ruff at his neck, is a quotation from the essay: "Give me the liberty to know, to utter, and to argue freely according to conscience, above all liberties."

The hand and quill of "Junius," under whose name appeared the celebrated letters in the London Public Advertiser from 1769 to 1772 which are credited with crystalizing the desire for liberty and constitutional rights both among the American colonists and at home, are shown.

Quotation Is Reproduced.

The following quotation from "Junius" is given:

"Let it be impressed, let it be instilled into your children, that the liberty of the press is the palladium of all civil, political, and religious rights of freemen."

The scene shifts to America. Thomas Paine, most famous of revolutionary journalists, is shown and an excerpt is given from "The Crisis," which Paine wrote while a volunteer aide-de-camp in Washington's army during the retreat through New Jersey. The excerpt is: "These are the times that try men's souls."

Famous Trial Depicted.

Prominently displayed in the mural is the courtroom scene of the trial of Peter Zenger in New York. This courageous Dutch editor was brought to trial for libel because he dared to expose the tyrannical misrule of a royal British governor. Despite the prejudicial rulings and attitude of the court Zenger was freed by the jury in a case which established the right of newspapers to print the truth about public officials.

In the panel are men who spoke in opposition to, and the men who were the victims of the sedition act, passed by the Federalist majority in 1798. Here are President John Adams, who signed the act [its life was for three years], and Madison, who said it was unconstitutional. It was designed to curb attacks on the administration by Republican editors.

Madison's words are repeated in the mural: "To the press alone, checkered as it is with abuses, the world is indebted for all the triumphs which have been gained by reason and humanity over error and oppression."

American Patriots Shown.

Thomas Jefferson, who became President on the downfall of the Federalists, a result attributed by some historians to the reaction against the sedition laws, immediately pardoned all those sentenced under those laws and declared them unconstitutional. His portrait, with those of Burke and Sheridan, of Patrick Henry, and Benjamin Franklin, is seen in the mural.

In the lower right hand corner of the mural is the date, 1837, and a quotation from Elijah Parish Lovejoy, heroic abolitionist editor who was slain by an Alton mob.

"As long as I am an American citizen, and as long as American blood runs in these veins, I shall hold myself at liberty to speak, to write, and to publish whatever I please, being amenable to the laws of my country for the same."

NAVAHOS READY FOR WARPATH AGAINST ICKES

Capricious Bossing Irks Tribe, Say Chicagoans.

Navaho Indians of New Mexico and Arizona are threatening to take the warpath against Secretary of the Interior Ickes for arbitrarily shifting their guardianship to the young New Deal radicals in the department of agriculture.

Mrs. Flora Warren Seymour, 4917 Blackstone avenue, lawyer and recognized authority on Indian affairs, made this assertion yesterday when she and her husband, George Steele Seymour, an attorney and accountant, returned from a survey of the Navaho reservation.

Indian feelings, irritated at constant changes in the personnel of reservation supervisors and other forms of New Deal meddling, have reached the boiling point at this latest breach of faith, Mrs. Seymour charged.

Move to Try Ickes.

Indignation has gone so far, she stated, that the Indian leaders are asking whether it would be possible to impeach Ickes for malfeasance of office because of his treatment of them. In addition, said Mrs. Seymour, young Indians are carrying side arms and making threats.

Mrs. Seymour pointed out that recently a new superintendent, unfamiliar with the ways of the redskin, has taken charge of the reservation. This change, she inferred, was to further the plan of Washington burocrats to reduce drastically the nomadic Indian's sole support, his noncompetitive herd of sheep.

"It has been announced," Mrs. Seymour declared, "that there would no longer be any 'Indian service' nor any 'soil erosion service' in the Navaho territory. They were combined in a single 'Navaho service.'

Effect of New Setup.

"This means that while the new superintendent and his aids are nominally under the interior department to the extent of receiving their pay checks, they are, so far as all their operations are concerned, following the policies and directions of the department of agriculture."

By this arrangement, she explained, Ickes has abandoned the traditional theory that the secretary of the interior, as guardian of the Indians, holds their lands in trust and manages all matters pertaining to treaty obligations of the tribe.

WIFE GONE, BABY ALONE, HUSBAND SHOOTS HIMSELF

Robert Rodriguez, 23 years old, 8743 Buffalo avenue, shot and seriously wounded himself, apparently with suicidal intent, while riding in an automobile at Roosevelt road and Kedzie avenue last night.

With Rodriguez in the car was Edward Mayeon, 8947 Brandon avenue.

"Bob came around in his car and asked me to go for a ride," said Mayeon. "As we were going along he told me his wife had left him and there was no one at home to take care of his baby. He told me to take the wheel and then he got into the rear seat. A little later there was a shot."

STATE MOVES TO TRY 39 IN MICHIGAN FOR BLACK LEGION'S ACTS

Detroit, Mich., June 21.—(AP)—Assistant Attorney General Chester P. O'Hara and Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea, directing the investigation of Black Legion activities in Detroit, indicated today the state's next step would be trial of 39 men definitely linked with the hooded band's activities.

Attorneys will discuss tomorrow a trial date for 13 of the 15 men held for the bizarre "execution" of Charles A. Poole, which brought to light the existence of the organization and its code of death. The 13 already have been held for trial after formal examination on the charges.

Twelve others are held on charges of having plotted the death of Arthur L. Kingsley, publisher of a Highland Park newspaper. Three of the men held for trial in the Poole case also have been charged with plotting the assassination of William W. Voisine, president of Ecorse Village.

Six men face trial for flogging Robert Penlan, Ecorse steel worker; four are held for trial in adjoining Oakland county on arson charges, and four in Jackson county on kidnaping and flogging charges.

AUSTRALIA WILL ACT ON JAPANESE TRADE DECISION

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

CANBERRA, Australia, June 21.—The cabinet will meet tomorrow to draft a reply to Japan's decision to restrict Australian imports. The reply will indicate Australia is prepared to resume negotiations if the restrictions are not applied.

The Japanese note indicates an intention to impose a quota on wool and superspecial duties on other imports. The Australian government will reject the contention that this is only equivalent to the new Australian trafic and will reaffirm its intention to adhere to the new duties, but will express a willingness to make every effort to reach an amicable settlement.

Italo-German Pact.

ROME, June 21.—(AP)—A commercial agreement between Germany and Italy was reached today following five days of negotiations and will be signed Wednesday. The agreement principally concerns clearing house payments, it was understood.

FRENCH FASCISTS SNEAK PROTEST OVER ON POLICE

Show Feelings by Wearing Tricolor Neckties.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 21.—Fascist and nationalist organizations, which have been lying low ever since the elections, today staged a spectacular nation-wide protest against the suppression of their leagues by the Socialist government.

In the capital and all the big provincial towns sympathizers of Col. François de la Rocque and other Fascist chiefs hung out tricolor flags from windows and craftily foiled the official ban on wearing party emblems by sporting tricolor neckties or handkerchiefs.

80,000 Gather in Marseilles.

Likewise, there were parades and street demonstrations throughout the country, and though no serious rioting broke out anywhere the usual localized scuffles were accompanied by the customary cracked heads and temporary arrests were reported all over.

Nationalists estimated a total of 80,000 persons assembled at the Prado arena in Marseilles to acclaim the tricolor and sing the Marseillaise. Simon Sabiani, former mayor, declared to the enthusiastic crowd:

"You cannot make a counter revolution with words. Are there 10,000 men to follow me, ready to risk death?"

The crowd shouted: "Yes."

"Good. With 10,000 men who are not afraid of death I will wipe up the streets of Marseilles."

Civil War by Shouts.

The biggest demonstrations occurred in Paris and on the Champs Elysées, which looked like the setting for a Russian ballet depicting a civil war. In a way it was a civil war, only the citizens fought it out with flags, neckties, and patriotic cries—save for a few spots where more substantial missils were used. The casualty list included three policemen. Of the persons arrested only two were kept overnight in jail.

Col. de la Rocque's flag offensive was considered dampened by tactics of the leftists, who, instead of urging their partisans to hang out the red flag told them to hoist the tricolor also, on the ground that, historically speaking, it, too, is a revolutionary emblem.

Fascist Strategy.

During the military band concert, presided over by President Albert Lebrun last night, some strategical genius in the Fascist ranks hit on the idea of shouting "Vive la France." The crowd of several thousand joined in with delirious enthusiasm, knowing the meaning of this cry.

Similarly this afternoon, on the Champs Elysées, Fascists made themselves conspicuous by the same shout or by the equally innocuous one, "France for the French." Leftists in the crowd, recognizable by their red ties, countered with "Vive Blum" or "Vive le Front Populaire."

Store Strike Settled.

Thanks to the same tacit understanding, several thousand members of the suppressed Croix de Feu, wearing tricolor neckties, were able to stage an impressive and highly illegal march down the Champs Elysées by disguising themselves as ordinary citizens. Several hundred mobile guards with helmets and rifles strolled behind them in similar casual fashion.

Roger Salengro, minister of the interior, directed new instructions to police ordering stricter surveillance of rightist meeting places and the suppression of all assemblies and demonstrations.

Salengro, after night-long conferences, settled the Paris department store strike. Some 26,000 employés started an evacuation of buildings held for eighteen days and agreed to return to work tomorrow.

REDS PUT FARMER ON BASIS EQUAL TO CITY WORKER

Class Origin 'Stigma' Also Reduced.

MOSCOW, June 21.—(AP)—An advance of utmost importance in the soviet scheme of developing "democracy"—extension of the principles of equality—has been announced by the Kremlin.

It goes far toward removing the "stigma" of origin in the old "privileged" classes and gives the farmer equal political rights with the industrial worker, eliminating a disparity which has prevailed since the revolution.

Nation-wide discussion of the new constitution as a preliminary to its adoption at a November session of the all-union congress of soviets started following the distribution of copies of the text by all available means of transport.

Dropped from Planes.

Thousands of copies were dropped at isolated points, especially in the far north, by airplanes. Tens of millions of farmers and industrial workers of both sexes are taking part in the discussions, which were organized on collective farms and in factories and clubs.

Summed up in the new constitution, the changes depict what the Stalinists say is a systematic growth through socialism and democracy toward communism—always the ultimate goal.

The constitution will replace a ten year old document put into force at a time when, the bolshevists say, conditions demanded rules of inequality.

Princes Given Rights.

Under the old constitution rural populations could elect only one delegate to congress for every five elected by city workers. And until now origin in the privileged classes—that is the merchant, landowner or nobility classes—was hard to live down.

All members of society with the exception of persons disfranchised by the courts are guaranteed rights of equal suffrage by the new charter, including former princes, former merchants, former kulaks [wealthy farmers], and members of the clergy.

The forthcoming congressional session will be the last dominated by the city workers. And it will be the last to which delegates will be appointed by the soviets or people's boards. Hereafter the division will be equal and delegates will be elected in direct, secret voting.

FOES 'CRAZY WITH HEAT,' MUSSOLINI ASSURES TROOPS

Declares Italy Can Take Care of All Rivals.

France would support the British project if it materializes.

Arming Prohibited.

The conference will tackle revision of the Straits convention, which was signed at Lausanne in 1923 between Turkey and the powers who were allies during the world war.

The Straits convention prohibits Turkey from fortifying the Dardanelles and establishes zones of demilitarization for the whole Straits region, which includes the Dardanelles, the Sea of Marmora and the Bosporous.

An essential feature of the convention is that Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, acting in conjunction, undertake to guarantee freedom of the Straits should liberty of navigation be imperiled by a surprise attack or some act or threat of war. This clause was inserted so that Turkey, which had agreed to demilitarization, should not have her military security endangered.

Turkey recently complained to the other signatory powers that the guarantee provided for in the convention is precarious, if not, indeed, altogether inoperative.

Germans Pull Strings.

BERLIN, June 21.—(AP)—German diplomacy hopes to nose out France as a mediator between Great Britain and Italy. Nobody will admit this officially, but circumstantial evidence as well as information obtained privately in Wilhelmstrasse and in foreign embassies all point that way.

German diplomacy, diplomats said, has quietly been spreading the idea that "radical" France, headed by a leftist government, has joined the list of "bolshevist-infested" nations.

Great Britain and Italy, both opponents of communism—so the thesis runs—should get together and, with Germany and possibly Poland, preserve European civilization from what was described as cultural and political debacle.

If it be true the Germans want to play the rôle of peacemakers in Europe, observers here say it is equally apparent Premier Mussolini hopes to play off the Germans against his friends of the Stresa front—France and Great Britain.

Political observers doubt whether Il Duce cares to have his dictator colleague, Hitler, emerge as mediator. Outwardly, however, both official Germany and official Italy are displaying the signs of a hearty new friendship.

Avonne Taylor of Follies Divorces Carlyle Blackwell

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MERIDA, Yucatan, Mexico, June 21.—Avonne Taylor Blackwell of New York, formerly of the Ziegfeld Follies, has obtained a divorce here from Carlyle Blackwell, retired actor, it was learned today. Mrs. Blackwell divorced Thomas Franklin Manville Jr. in Campeche, Mexico, Nov. 25, 1931. Manville, millionaire son of the founder of the Johns Manville Asbestos company, later married Marcelle Edwards.

U. S. Decision to End Arms Embargo Hailed in Italy

ROME, June 21.—(AP)—Action of the United States in lifting the arms embargo against Italy was hailed by newspapers today as "virtual recognition of the Italian conquest" in Ethiopia. This was the general unofficial reaction to President Roosevelt's decision. No comment was obtained from government officials, most of whom had fled the capital's heat for the week-end.

ETHIOPIANS WAGE GUERRILLA FIGHT AGAINST FASCISTS

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, June 21.—[Havas.]—Widespread native resistance to the Italian military government still flourishes in Ethiopia despite large scale executions of "bandits" by the Fascist régime, British sources reported here tonight.

Tribal warfare continues against the invaders, these sources declared, and even in Addis Ababa, the capital, gunfire breaks out daily. Several Italian trucks recently were destroyed by guerrillas on the Addis Ababa-Dessye road, it was said.

The Italians have not penetrated the western territories, where an Ethiopian government under Gen. Wolde Habte Mariam still exists, according to the report and Fascist troops have occupied only a few of the larger cities. The capital's population has been reduced to one-tenth its former size, most inhabitants having rejoined their tribal chieftains.

RUMANIANS SHOT IN BATTLE OVER KING'S SWEETIE

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 21.—(AP)—Police were reported to have killed several persons and wounded many today in street fighting attributed to rising feeling against Mme. Magda Lupescu, red haired friend of King Carol, and against Jews. For half an hour pistol shots reverberated through the downtown section while noncombatants scurried to cover.

The fight started as a newspaper "war" with rival bands wrecking Kiosks. Several piles of newspapers at street corners were burned.

One newspaper for several weeks has been stirring up anti-Semitic sentiment. Under Rumanian press regulations it is not permitted to mention the name of Carol's "girl friend," who is Jewish, but hints have appeared which are unmistakable. Two Jewish newspapers assailed anti-Semitism and newspaper distributors took up the quarrel.

13 FLOWN TO N. Y. AND BACK IN 8 HOURS, NONSTOP

New Douglas Plane Sets Several Records.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

A nonstop round trip of 1,450 miles from Chicago to New York and return was flown yesterday by Chief Pilot E. L. Sloniger of American Airlines in a new twenty-four passenger Douglas sleeper transport plane. The flight, made in 8 hours and 5 minutes, was a demonstration of the plane's long range—an important safety feature. The ship is the first of a fleet of twenty identical transports which are to go into service this summer.

Several records were made in connection with the flight. The big Douglas is the first airplane ever to be flown over the route on a nonstop round trip. Its average speed of 180 miles an hour for the entire flight set a new combined sustained speed and distance record for a standard commercial airplane, though the motors were throttled down during the entire trip to 65 per cent of the available power and sometimes as low as 50 per cent.

Sets Record on Weight.

The plane also set a record for the Chicago airport when it took off at 8:15 o'clock yesterday morning. At that time, with its ten passengers, a crew of three persons, and some 5,300 pounds of fuel aboard, it weighed 23,950 pounds. This was the greatest total load ever flown off the city field and it demonstrated the remarkable flying qualities of the airplane.

The flight demonstrated a remarkable economy in fuel consumption. Despite the high average speed and the long distance flown, 190 gallons of gasoline remained in the tanks at the end of the flight—a quantity sufficient for another two and a half hours of flight at a cruising speed of 160 miles an hour. The 1,450 mile flight consumed 632 gallons of fuel.

Weather Only Serious Evil.

Experts say the reliability of modern airplanes and aeromotors is such that failures which lead to accidents seldom occur. Pilots fear most the possibility of being trapped by weather conditions which prevent safe landings. Several of the most serious accidents of recent years occurred because pilots did not have sufficient fuel left in their tanks to fly out of bad weather to a safe landing place.

The purpose of yesterday's flight, which was observed by William Littlewood, chief engineer for the air line, and L. W. Putney, chief inspector, both of whom were among the passengers, was to discover what the extreme limit of cruising range of the new plane would be under ordinary operating conditons. Upon their return they asserted that the ship's absolute limit must be slightly over 2,000 miles.

Able to Fly Out of Storm.

United States weather bureau records show that no storm area in this country during the last sixty years has been greater in extent than roughly 1,000 miles square and storms of this magnitude are few. With the new Douglas ships it will be possible to fly above or around even the largest.

The heavy airliner took off yesterday morning into a northeasternly wind of twenty miles an hour. It lifted clear in twenty seconds after a run of less than 1,700 feet. Pilot Sloniger and Pilot John Pricer, who acted as co-pilot for yesterday's trip, immediately headed southeasterly around the tip of the lake and then straight east.

Leaving the head wind below they climbed steadily for an hour leveling off at 12,000 feet in a forty mile an hour wind from the west which pushed the ship along at an average speed of 210 miles an hour.

Tail Wind Adds to Speed.

During the first fifty-seven minutes of the climb the ship made only 110 to 120 miles an hour forward speed. According to the indicators, the plane covered 170 miles and burned eighty-three gallons of gas.

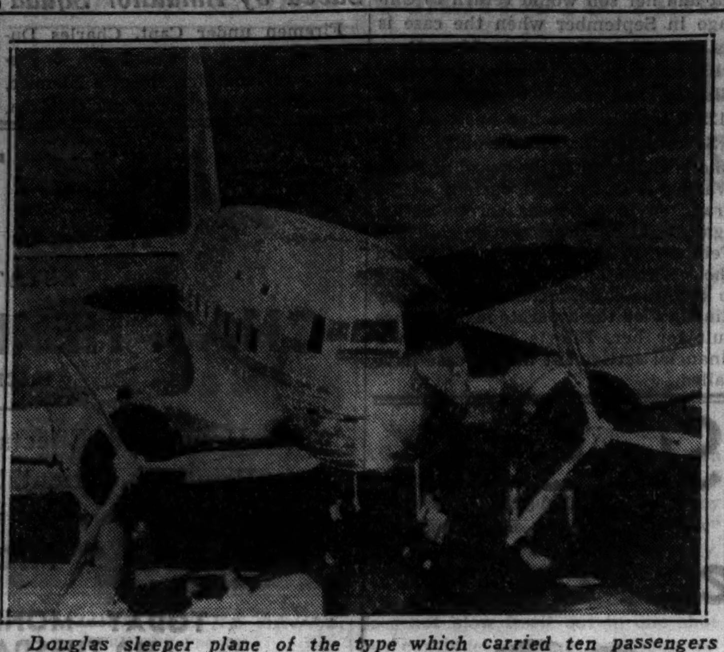
Then for the next two hours and thirty-three minutes the speed gradually rose to 217 miles an hour with the motors—each developing a maximum of 1,000 horse power—burning only sixty-four gallons of fuel per hour. Meanwhile the Ohio plains, the Alleghany ridges in Pennsylvania and New York slipped by below. At 11:50 Chicago time the plane passed over Newark airport at 11,000 feet.

A turn out over the harbor consumed four minutes, then the return trip was begun while Stewardess Ruth Phelan served lunch to the passengers and crew.

Buck Air Current on Return.

The helping winds of the outbound trip became head winds on the return and Pilot Sloniger dropped down to 5,000 feet over the mountains. Then he dropped still lower, seeking the lightest winds and finding them at the 2,000 foot level. Over western Ohio and Indiana there was much rough air. The ship landed at Chicago airport at 4:20 p. m.

Flies Nonstop to New York and Return



Douglas sleeper plane of the type which carried ten passengers and a crew of three on a flight from Chicago to New York and return yesterday in 8 hours 5 minutes. The average speed for the 1,450 miles was approximately 180 miles an hour. Following the safety test American Airlines' engineers announced the maximum range of the plane under similar conditions at 2,000 miles.

FRENCH STEAMER GROUNDED NEAR SPAIN; 85 HURT

GERONA, Spain, June 21.—(AP)—Eighty-five persons were injured, five seriously, when the French steamer El Kantara with 400 passengers aboard strayed too close to the shore during a fog today and piled up on a rocky ledge. Most of the injured are French business men.

The accident happened while the passengers were at lunch in the dining room. Those more seriously injured were removed to hospitals ashore. Others were given first aid treatment and discharged.

The El Kantara's sister ship, the El Mansour, answered radio appeals and took off the uninjured passengers. Ship officers said no Americans were aboard.

Although traveling at a moderate rate of speed, the 5,079 ton vessel was driven so far onto the rocks that her prow was clear of water. Watertight compartments kept the vessel afloat. With the aid of cables seamen succeeded in dragging the El Kantara from the ledge and she was towed to the port of Palamos. The vessel had been bound for Port Vendres from Oran, Algeria.

ARABS KILL TWO BRITISH SOLDIERS IN ROAD AMBUSH

JERUSALEM, June 21.—(AP)—Two British soldiers and at least ten Arabs were known to have been killed at the village of Anabta on the Haifa-Tel Aviv road in heavy fighting this afternoon. One of the Britons was Sergt. Henry Sills.

A group of Arabs ambushed a British convoy on the road. The Arabs dragged Sills' body into a cave in the vicinity and carried on their fight from there.

Three battalions of troops and four planes took part in the encounter, the most serious since rebellion flared April 19 in Palestine. The Arabs held the British at bay until the planes arrived. Machine gun fire from the planes split the frenzied raiders into two sections. The troops then encircled and routed them.

When the fighting ceased the planes landed and picked up the British wounded and rushed them to a hospital. Three planes were hit by bullets.

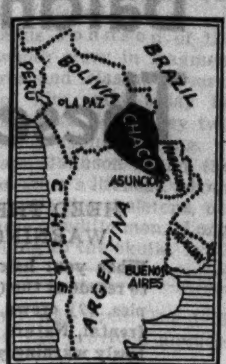
BOLIVIAN ARMY GRABS CONTROL OF GOVERNMENT

Ex-President Deported for Plotting Revolt.

BUENOS AIRES, June 21.—(AP)—The army assumed complete control of the Bolivian government yesterday after a plot was discovered, said advices today from La Paz, Bolivian capital. The subversive movement presumably was headed by former President Bautista Saavedra.



A manifesto said the army would govern the country with the collaboration of Chaco war veterans, organized workers and "the ablest men in the country morally and intellectually."

Ex-President Deported.

Former President Saavedra, chief of the Republican Socialist party, was arrested and deported to Africa. The revolt, officers said, had been set for early in July. The reports added that complete order prevails throughout Bolivia.

[War veterans and Socialists overthrew the Bolivian government of former President Jose Luis Tejada Sorzano in a bloodless coup May 17. The turnover was markedly similar to one a few weeks earlier in Paraguay, Bolivia's recent Chaco war enemy. In La Paz a military junta made Col. David Toro, also a war hero, president.]

To Be Strictly Military.

Interviewed in La Paz, Lieut. Col. Viera of the Bolivian cabinet said:

"The cabinet was reorganized owing to the necessities of internal order, including in it some nonpolitical elements.

"The government junta will also be modified, giving it a strictly military character according to the desires of the army, which suggested that civilian experts will be called in to collaborate when necessary.

"There was no actual change in the government, only some modifications. New ministers probably will be appointed this afternoon."

IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY FORCED TO CANCEL MEETING

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 21.—(AP)—In view of a stern government attitude, the Irish Republican army today called off its scheduled demonstration at a little cemetery at Bodenstown intended to honor Theobold Wolfe Tone, 18th century advocate of an Irish republic.

A concentration of troops, the largest ever staged in the Free State, encircled Bodenstown. Tanks, sandbag defenses, and ambulances were in readiness before the I. R. A. decision was reached. Hundreds of soldiers, rifles ready, lay at full length in the long grass. A squadron of planes wheeled above keeping a constant watch. The I. R. A. is a political military organization separate from the regular standing army.

Meanwhile the first clash between authorities and the Irish Republican army since the government banned the political organization two days ago, took place today on College Green. Followers of the I. R. A. began to address the public from a lorry, attacking the government for banning it. Police seized control of the lorry and drove the occupants to Dublin castle, detective headquarters.

BLAZE SWEEPS FACTORY; CAUSES $15,000 DAMAGE

A fire believed to have started from spontaneous combustion swept through a three story brick factory building at 4701 Grand avenue yesterday afternoon, causing a loss of $15,000 and tying up trafic on Grand avenue for more than an hour. A 5-11 alarm brought additional equipment to fight the blaze.

The blaze started in the basement and quickly spread through the structure. Billows of smoke could be seen for miles and brought several thousand persons to the scene. Chief J. F. Redmond of the 24th battalion reported after an investigation that oil saturated rags probably started the fire. Several barrels of oil in the basement were not destroyed. The Grand Glove company, the Woodrow corporation, a pipe fitting concern, and the Paramount Cereal company occupy the building.

Two Negroes who were present when fire caused a $20,000 loss in a two story structure occupied by the Morgan Bag company at 21st and Morgan streets early yesterday, were held by the Maxwell police while the cause of the blaze was being investigated.

CAMP ALGONQUIN READY TO GREET CITY DWELLERS

Outings Made Possible by Tribune Fund.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Along the green banks of the Fox river, where once the Potawatami Indians roamed, THE TRIBUNE's summer camp for tenement mothers and children is about to open its 27th season.

Right now the scene is strangely quiet. The twenty-seven woodgreen buildings, nestling along the slopes and under spreading elms and oaks, contain 500 freshly made beds but have no occupants. The 10 green and white rowboats are drawn up on the river bank in orderly arrangement but have no oarsmen. The willow shaded swimming pool contains water but no swimmers.

Invasion Starts Tomorrow.

Tomorrow, however, the picture will change, for at 2:30 p. m. 120 young Chicagoans and their mothers will board Chicago and Northwestern trains for a free ride to a free summer camp. Then the quiet hills will ring again with noisy, happy life, as the first two-week camping period opens. Another trainload of 120 will follow on Wednesday and the race for sunshine and health will be on.

Supported by contributions from readers of THE TRIBUNE and operated by the United Charities of Chicago, Camp Algonquin has afforded a refuge from summer heat to desperate tenement dwellers for the last 26 years. Each year gradual improvements have been made in the camp's equipment.

Crafts to Be Taught.

This year is no exception. In addition to the advantages of outdoor life, the children this year also will have courses in woodcraft, basketry, sewing, and other handicraft skills.

As members of the camp staf, most of them volunteer workers, arrived yesterday, Mrs. Astrid Save, superintendent, reported everything ready for the campers. The five hundred beds gleam whitely with fresh linen. Last minute touches of paint are drying on the walls. The great swoops of lawn have been cut, and water is running into the swimming pool, dry since last September.

Among the last minute camp needs noted by Mrs. Save, which perhaps some generous Tribune reader will take care of, are toothbrushes, tooth paste, soup bowls, cups, and bathing suits. "Oh," added Mrs. Save, "bathing suits especially!"

Small Gifts Will Help.

A gift of $25.20 will make the two week outing possible for a mother and her two children, possibly their sole glimpse of wide sky and trees during the entire summer. A gift of $9.10 will send one child.

The 1936 camp fund grew to $263.61 yesterday with the receipt of a check for $138.89, the semi-annual payment to Camp Algonquin from the Abbie E. Tyrrell fund.

If you, too, can help, send your check—or your stray pennies—to THE TRIBUNE cashier in the Tribune Tower. Large or small, it will be acknowledged gratefully.

He will be taken to the dog pound today to be examined for rabies.

WOMAN SEIZED AS TIPSY DRIVER AFTER COLLISION

Mrs. Pearl Potter, 42 years old, 831 Crescent avenue, Park Ridge, was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated last night after her automobile crashed into another at Talcott and Harlem avenues.

In the accident Mrs. Charles Houlihan, 30 years old, 1031 North Shore avenue, riding in an automobile driven by her husband, was injured. Houlihan asserted that Mrs. Potter had ignored a stop light. His car was badly damaged.

After making known her identity, Mrs. Potter drove away. Policemen William Fick and Charles Gross of the Irving Park station pursued and caught her in a drug store at Oliphant avenue and the Northwest highway. Unable to furnish bonds immediately, Mrs. Potter was locked up at the Racine avenue station. A bulldog which was on the front seat of her car battled when the policemen tried to enter it, but was subdued.

Skin Troubles

Come from Constipation

Constipation is the cause of most complexion troubles. Poisons from the waste matter are picked up by the blood and carried to all parts of the body, especially the skin.

No one needs to have a sallow, muddy complexion. Proper diet, exercise, surface cleanliness and above all—internal cleanliness. Nujol prevents intestinal poisons that ruin your health and complexion.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach, and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Just try Nujol regularly for the next month and see if you don't feel better than you ever suspected you could.

Ask your druggist for Nujol.

JUANITA BORG AND SON GO TO TO COLORADO

Mrs. Juanita Borg, 19 years old, and her son, George Marshall Borg Jr., 18 months old, whose custody she won after a court battle with her father-in-law, George W. Borg, will leave here on Wednesday for Glenwood Springs, Colo., where they will spend the summer at the home of Mrs. Borg's mother, Mrs. Frank Persano. Mrs. Persano has been in Chicago with her daughter since the legal fight began.

Another court battle still is pending—Mrs. Borg's separate maintenance suit against her husband, George Marshall Borg. Her attorney, Samuel A. Rinella said yesterday that his client and her son would return to Chicago in September when the case is set for trial. Meanwhile Mrs. Borg will continue to receive temporary alimony and support payments of $125 a month from her husband.

Several months ago the elder Borg, who is chairman of the board of Borg-Warner & Co., sought custody of his grandson in a habeas corpus action against Mrs. Borg. Judge Michael Feinberg of the Circuit court denied the petition and allowed Mrs. Borg o keep the child. Meanwhile Attorney Rinella filed the separate maintenance suit for her. Efforts to agree on a financial settlement in this case have failed.

VICTOR HUGO'S IN LOS ANGELES. The world of fashion and of Hollywood calls Victor Hugo's charming, palm-studded Garden Room "Paris in Los Angeles"! And, as the diners pause between courses to enjoy their Camels, Hugo himself nods approval and says: "Our guests know fine tobacco as well as fine food. They have made Camels the outstanding favorite here."

ON THE RYDER CUP TEAM. Henry Picard (right) is rated the best golfer at full iron shots. Like so many champions, Picard smokes Camels. "Camels set you right!" he says. "Camels aid my digestion and never get on my nerves."

"YOU KNOW WHAT nervousness and eating fast can do to digestion," says Claire Huntington, busy public stenographer. "I find that smoking Camels at mealtimes makes food taste ever so much better and helps digestion. And a Camel gives me a 'lift.'"

During and after meals, Camels bring a sense of well-being and good feeling. That's why people say:

"—for Digestion's sake...smoke Camels"

The human digestion responds unfavorably to nervousness and strain. It is definitely encouraged by smoking Camels.

Scientific studies show clearly the manner in which Camels aid digestion. Using sensitive scientific apparatus, it is possible to measure accurately the increase in digestive fluids—alkaline digestive fluids—that follows the enjoyment of Camel's costlier tobaccos. This has now been done repeatedly. The same studies demonstrate that an abundant flow of digestive fluids is important also to the enjoyment of food.

Make Camel your cigarette for steady smoking. They never tire your taste. For a welcome sense of well-being, for a cheery "lift," and for digestion's sake, enjoy Camels. They never get on your nerves. They are gentle on your throat. You'll like the firmness of Camels too—no loose shreds annoy you.

AMERICAN PARTY GETS 700 PHOTOS OF SUN'S ECLIPSE

Third of Plates Developed After Tedious Work.

BY DR. DONALD H. MENZEL.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

AKBULAK, Russia, June 21.—The Harvard expedition obtained approximately 700 individual photographs of Friday's eclipse of the sun and its spectrum, it was reported today. Owing to the necessity of making special tests and of standardizing material, only about one third of the plates have been developed.

Henry Hemmendinger, who operated an infra-red spectroscope, developed 120 plates which recorded the solar limb, with its numerous absorption lines, from about 7,000 to 10,000 Angstrom units. [A unit of light length equal to one hundred-millionth of a centimeter.]

The spectrum of the chromosphere does not extend quite so far into the infra-red as do the limbs of the spectra, but numerous lines have been noted, particularly in the region between 8,000 and 9,000 Angstrom units.

Show 5-Pointed Star Effect.

Photographs of the solar corona, taken in polarized light by Henrietta Swope, showed splendidly the five pointed star effect which was widely commented upon by visual observers.

Dr. Gardner's color photographs traced the delicate corona color in beautiful focus. The outer corona streamers are exhibited on the plate as soft pastel pink. Prominences on the plate appear slightly more blue than they did visually.

Nearly every one among the observers expected to see these streamers in crimson hues, owing to the presence of much red light emitted by hydrogen atoms in the solar atmosphere, but the violet lines of calcium were strong enough to mask partially the red light from the hydrogen atoms and bring about a purple-orchid hue.

Observe Comet.

Between seances in the photographic dark rooms, the astronomers now are dismantling their instruments and enjoying some rest in compensation for their three days of endless activity in advance of the eclipse. Standardization and development of all the remaining plates may be completed by Saturday night, it was said.

In addition to the eclipse, the scientific parties observed another celestial phenomena. They observed a comet which promises to have a brilliance which will make it visible to the human eye by August when it approaches the field of the sun.

A meteor, said to be six times more brilliant than the planet Venus, was observed on the night of June 13. It left a trail which persisted for about 12 minutes, according to the observers.

HUSBAND FINDS BODY OF WIFE AND 3 CHILDREN

Madison, Me., June 21.—(AP)—Sherif Martin J. Gallant of Somerset county tonight reported that the bodies of Mrs. Annie Jones, 32, and three of her five children had been found in a clump of bushes behind the Jones home.

He said the children, Robert and Edward, 4 year old twins, and Norman, 2, had been bound and gagged and shot to death with a rifle. Mrs. Jones had shot and killed herself, he declared.

The bodies were found by the father, Irving Jones, who had been told by a daughter of the disappearance of Mrs. Jones and the children.

The historic crown of Our Lady of the Andes, a gold diadem studded with 453 emeralds, weighing more than 1,500 carats, was displayed for the first time in Chicago yesterday before a small gathering in the Drake hotel. The crown has been valued at $4,500,000. Those who attended the showing were guests of the Most Rev. William D. O'Brien, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, and D. F. Kelly, Catholic lay leader. Warren J. Piper, diamond exporter, with several Chicago associates, purchased the jewel from the Catholic church custodians in Popayan, Colombia.

EXPECT DECISION SOON ON RAILWAY PENSION PLAN

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—Justice Jennings Bailey of the District of Columbia Supreme court is expected to rule this week on the constitutionality of the government's railroad retirement plan, involving more than 1,000,000 transportation workers.

He has under advisement an injunction suit brought by the major railways and their associated enterprises to test the validity of the 1935 retirement legislation.

The plan includes two statutes, passed a few weeks after the Supreme court declared the 1934 retirement act unconstitutional. One of them provides pensions for railroad workers over 65 years old. The other imposes a 3½ per cent tax on company pay rolls and an equal contribution on employés' wages. Murray W. Latimer, chairman of the retirement board, estimated that the levy would raise about $120,000,000 during the first year.

If Justice Bailey upholds the two laws, first pension payments will be made July 1.

SCIENTISTS FIND UNIVERSE MADE OF FIRECRACKERS

Astronomers Say "New" Star Proves Theory.

Williams Bay, Wis., June 21.—(AP)—A universe made up of stars which explode periodically like a string of firecrackers was pictured tonight by astronomers who watched the "new" star blazing in the northeastern sky.

A star under this new conception is a sort of super-firecracker, which does not blow itself out in one shot but continues to burn and may explode again and again.

The "universe of fireworks" theory was proven by the nova, or "new star," which flared up in the heavens last Thursday night, Dr. Otto Struve, director of Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago, declared.

Science at Odds on Course.

Scientists had disagreed for years on the reason why customarily dim stars suddenly would burn brightly and give the illusion of a new star's appearance, Dr. Struve explained. Some said the star exploded; some said two stars collided; some said two stars roamed too close together and tore each other apart by gravitational pull.

When Nova Herculis—which appeared in December, 1934—was seen to throw off a huge cloud of gas and star dust, Dr. Struve said astronomers were pretty well agreed the explosion theory was right. The 1936 nova, he added, has provided unquestionable proof.

Unlike an earthly firecracker, which is just an inert splinter of burned cardboard after the powder inside it explodes, the star hurls out a mass of gas and cosmic matter and then gradually dims back to its normal state.

Dim Swiftly After "Exploding."

The Nova Herculis, for example, brightened from a magnitude of 13.8 to 1.9 [57,000 times] and now is down to 7.5 again.

The 1936 Nova—which lies just within the boundary of the constellation La Certa, in line with the long axis of the "Northern Cross"—came up from 15th magnitude to 2.4 [100,000 times] on Friday night, and last night already was beginning to dim.

More than 70 of the heavenly "firecrackers" have exploded in the milky way in recent times.

That a star can explode more than once has been demonstrated several times. The Nova Herculis flared twice within a year, less the second time than the first. The Nova Aphiuchi exploded once in 1897 and again in 1933. A star known as T Pyxidis blew up three times, in 1890, 1902 and 1920.

DISCOVER DEATHS OF 3 MEN MAROONED ON BAHAMA CORAL ISLAND

NASSAU, Bahamas, June 21.—(AP)—The story of a desperate, unsuccessful fight against death by three men marooned through shipwreck on barren Booby rock in the outer Bahamas was told today to colonial authorities here. Still not known was the identity of the men who clawed tiny sea animals from crevices in the rock for food, but finally succumbed, apparently from thirst, on that coral isle.

[At Belize, British Honduras, it was believed the bodies were those of the captain and crew of the ketch Rhonda. The captain's name was given there as Hudson.]

Capt. Cornelius Johnson of the sloop Dove, whose story in fragmentary form reached Nassau several days ahead of him, said today he first was attracted to Booby key two months ago while sponge fishing.

Landing, Capt. Johnson found the remains of a steamer's lifeboat. About 150 feet away were the skeletons, believed to be those of white men. Long reddish hair clung to the skulls.

MONKEYS CAPER AS 37,561 THRONG BROOKFIELD ZOO

A crowd of 37,561, the largest so far this year, filled the Chicago Zoölogical park at Brookfield yesterday, taking advantage of clear, crisp weather. Most popular of all attractions was the newly opened monkey island.

Several of the Rhesus monkeys, from the hills of northern India, eventually gathered enough courage to investigate a rowboat anchored in the moat surrounding the island. A few even ventured into the craft, and one of them seized the oars.

In the monkey house yesterday a new Capuchan monkey was born. As is their custom, eight males of the group formed a close circle about the mother and baby, protecting her from drafts. Today a new shipment of a tame female gorillas and seven chimpanzees, all chain broken, will arrive at the park.

Dangles Legs Over "L" Tracks, Crushed by Train

Arthur Seeling, 35 years old, 4332 North Troy street, was seriously injured early yesterday when he was crushed beneath an elevated train at the Fullerton avenue station. He had been sitting on the platform with his legs dangling over the edge and was struck by an Evanston-bound train. He was taken to the Alexian Brothers hospital.

A MESCHIANZA FOR MR. ROOSEVELT.

As the matter is now recalled it was President Roosevelt's wish that the Democrats go to Philadelphia to renominate him. Something in the historical associations of the old city got his fancy. We don't know what it was, but he may have thought that he could wrap himself and his board of advisers up in some of the traditions of American liberty and gain benignity in the enfolding historical garments.

Republicans will frankly concede that if they could have chosen a city for Democrats to use for convention purposes this year it would have been none other than Philadelphia. Republicans would have sent their opponents there to put them in the atmosphere of everything opposite to their aims and objectives.

Mr. Roosevelt has chosen to assemble his friends at the birthplace of the liberties he and his friends have already impaired and intend further to restrict, if not to destroy. Mr. Roosevelt and his friends may imagine that they appear as the successors of the great framers of government who were meeting in Philadelphia 149 years ago this month. To so imagine they must forget their own attacks upon the work of the founders. Those were horse and buggy days in the opinion of the men who are preparing for this Democratic nomination. The present convention has no use for the work of the other.

Philadelphia is a city of many memories, some of which relate to the occupation by the British Gen. Howe during the winter when Gen. Washington and his men were miserable outside at Valley Forge. If Gen. Howe had been successful there would have been no meeting of constitutional delegates ten years later in the same city. There would be no work to destroy.

Possibly what inspired the Democratic choice of Philadelphia, in addition to other things which have been mentioned, was an incident connected with the farewell of Gen. Howe to his army when he was about to retire to private life in England after failing to stop the American fight for freedom. The affair in question is preserved in our history as the Meschianza, an Italian word meaning medley. It was arranged by the gallant officers of the army and the pretty loyalist ladies of the city to show their confidence in a soldier who had fallen into disrepute with the ministry at home.

One of the pretty ladies was Margaret Shippen, later the wife of Benedict Arnold. One of the officers was Maj. John André, her devoted admirer and later a fated instrument in the thwarted treachery of the American general. The festival was elaborately arranged and brilliantly costumed by a pleasure loving military and the pretty ladies. A grand regatta opened the ceremonies.

Gay barges moved along the river front, a display which if copied this year in the arrangements for the convention might be led, say, by the Nourmahal, followed, shall we say, by the luxurious vessel referred to the other day by Representative Sweeney, Ohio Democrat, as the presidential yacht. Mr. Sweeney is authority for the statement, for which we do not vouch, that this vessel may be found in a coast guard appropriation item for $247,000 in Harry Hopkins' relief bill. This is mentioned merely to show that the grand regatta of the present Democratic Meschianza would have ships quite as gay as the barges of Gen. Howe's time when he was about to retire to private life.

Word of the preparations for Philadelphia this June indicate that somebody has been studying the ancient model for a festival day of the enemies of the republic. There was an English and American queen of beauty for the old retirement ceremonies, and many knights, resplendent in crimson and white silk, cavorted about the field, running tilts and delighting the eyes of the ladies with their skill and valor. Some of these scenes will be reënacted, as is appropriate in a retirement ceremony.

At night there was a great banquet and the interested townspeople saw a prodigious display of fireworks while the elect ate in a hall of imitation Siena marble, served by persons in involuntary servitude, bedecked with oriental trappings and silver collars and bracelets. It is to be hoped the Democrats do not forget the silver collars and bracelets.

It is fittingly recalled that these prodigious fireworks offered Gen. Howe his last smell of gunpowder burned in America. His opportunity to do any further damage to the American republic terminated with the retirement ceremonies in Philadelphia in 1778. We trust that the episode will repeat itself with all its consequences.

A RAID ON EVERY PANTRY.

At last Secretary Wallace has made public the list of those who have received $10,000 or more from his AAA. The money which was handed out came in pennies and nickels from the housewives of America. None of the big money went to farmers in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, or Iowa. In all that region of characteristic American farms only one check of more than $10,000 was received.

The big money went to sugar, cotton, and tobacco producers, and the biggest money went to sugar corporations. They were paid to reduce their production. Every time the housewives of this country bought a pound of sugar tribute was collected. Every glass of jelly put up in an American home was levied upon. Every nickel's worth of stick candy bought at the corner store yielded its percentage.

The money flowed through Mr. Wallace's hands and came to rest in colossal sums in corporate treasuries. The Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar company, Ltd., received $1,022,037. The Fajardo Sugar Growers' association of Porto Rico got $961,064. The United States Sugar corporation received $785,083. Large operators in Porto Rico collected a total of more than 8 million dollars.

This money did not come from the rich. It came from family budgets which, unlike government budgets, have to be balanced, and it came from every family budget because every family, with so few exceptions that they can be disregarded, buys sugar. The brain trust planned it that way. Why the brain trust chose this method of subsidizing the sugar industry is another question. Items which have appeared from time to time in the news may throw light on the answer.

One of the original brain trusters was Adolf Berle, one of Prof. Tugwell's colleagues on the faculty of Columbia university. Prof. Berle was made legal adviser on sugar control to the farm administration. The professor was also a business associate of Charles W. Taussig, also a brain truster. Taussig heads the American Molasses company.

Prof. Berle was influential in negotiations here and in Cuba having to do with sugar control. Mr. Taussig was and still is an insider in the administration. He is chairman of the national advisory committee of the National Youth administration, which has 50 million dollars of the taxpayers' money to spend.

Berle's and Taussig's interest in sugar was stated by Wilbur Cummings on behalf of a group of American sugar refiners in the following language:

"Berle is attorney and counsel for Charles W. Taussig or interests in which the said Taussig is himself interested or with which he is affiliated, and Taussig is interested in the business of manufacturing refined sugar in Cuba and of importing and selling such refined sugar in the United States in competition with the cane sugar refineries of continental United States."

In the same document it was stated that Taussig's "elevation to the so-called brain trust has in no wise hampered the promotion of his business interests."

Mr. Taussig came into the news again when he was shown to have sold 10,000 shares of North American Aviation stock shortly before Postmaster Farley canceled the air mail contracts. Mr. Taussig said he had received no inside information which led him to dispose of the holding.

Daniel Roper, Mr. Roosevelt's secretary of commerce, represented sugar corporations before the United States tarif commission within a short time of his appointment to the cabinet, it was stated in a speech in congress by Representative Dirksen of Illinois.

The brain trust's sugar scheme is quite simple. The plan provided for a limitation of American production and increased imports from Cuba. The American sugar producers here and on our island possessions were bribed with housewives' money to reduce their production. That left a larger share of the market for Cuban producers and exactly suited the ideas of some of the largest and most influential money changers in this country. They had invested heavily in Cuban sugar properties. Some of the big New York banks faced heavy losses in money and prestige because of the highly speculative Cuban loans which they had made. Mr. Wallace's scarcity scheme made it possible to rescue the money changers at the housewives' expense. The presence of such men as Taussig, Berle, and the rest, close to the New Deal throne, was convenient, to say the least, for all concerned save only the woman who was trying to keep the family expenses within the family income.

Editorial of the Day

FRESH CHERRY PIE.

[Omaha World-Herald.]

Throughout eastern Nebraska the cherry pickers are at work. This means but one thing to the wise and good; it means the delectable feast is at hand when, weary from the labors of the day, a man may have his flesh revivified, his spirits restored by partaking of that ambrosial dish known simply and honestly as fresh cherry pie.

Why not, some friends of this department asked, write this year about fresh blueberry pie? Simply because inspiration, along with the gastric juices, flows more freely from fresh cherry pie. Blueberry pie has its points—as what pie does not?—but the addicts of fresh cherry pie admit no rivals to its leadership. They will defend all pie on its merits, remembering the wise words spoken by the New York Sun in its days of journalistic glory:

> We are prepared to maintain before men and mugwumps that great pie makes great men, and good pie good men; while bad pie kills the weak and leaves the strong and viable to possess the land.

That is pie; but when one gets down to specific cases fresh cherry pie exerts its own charm upon the senses. We intend only praise for the fair sex when we aver that fresh cherry pie is like the women we admire. Its appearance is soothing to the eye. Its delicately browned crust suggests the healthful tan of the out-of-doors girl or the freckles that piquantly enhance the beauty of an adorable face. Its deep red color reminds one of kissable lips. It is sweet, but not too sweet; it possesses just the suggestion of tartness that makes a woman's tongue the half-feared, half-treasured goad to man.

As welcome as the bonus on June 15, the first slice of fresh cherry pie ennobles the day in which it is digested. It makes a man at peace with himself and in harmony with the universe about him. It infuses poets, musicians, even editorial writers, with creative ardors. It never caused a war or brought misery upon the people.

There was wisdom in the old song which asked, "Can She Bake a Cherry Pie, Billy Boy?" for this skill is at once the test of a good wife and insurance against domestic discord. We could say more in praise of cherry pie. We prefer to rest with the sincerest tribute: "May we have another piece?"

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

FROM SOMEWHERE DOWN in Washington comes a dark rumor that Mr. Cactus Jack Garner may not be renominated as Mr. Roosevelt's running mate. But I think that's just boxoffice stuff to increase attendance.

A NEW WEEK and the last week in June. Not that there have been so many of those rare days with which nothing else can compare this June and we needed overcoats now and then. However, as June goes it has been pretty nice. The Republican convention was quite interesting and now Mr. Roosevelt's glorification week takes place in Philadelphia. This June, too, the much overestimated Joe Louis fell with a crash like a couple of tons of plate glass falling off the top of the Empire State building. But Mr. Schmeling's victory brought us back to the realization of a great truth—"There is nothing certain in this world but death and taxes." Whatever June has done for us, for woe or weal, anyhow it was the month in which congress adjourned. And that, friends and fellow citizens, is a great big lot.

WORDS IN AN OLD MANNER.

"Where thou art, there may I always be,"
You said. "This is my Litany."
And then we went away,
Beyond enchanted wood,
Beyond the walled-up town,
The free and shining meadows,
The air—gold—the running lands
Beyond the white-blue of the brook,
Beyond and down.

(Men say there is a desert you must cross,
O love, my love, before you reach the Compromise
That this our Life is—Katharsis
I have heard it called—and you are suddenly most wise.

(And all the pretty dreams and things
That danced like puppets on their strings,
Are withered up and borne away
And you behold the grimmer day—or so men say.)

But this I did not tell you, Love.
I watched your face, serene with joy,
For this was only countryside
And I was lost in pure alloy

Of wonder at your dancing eyes.
The wind was noiseless then and still.
I took your hand and said to you,
That moment on a breathless hill,

"You belong to Sun and Sky,
And such as you should not go back
To clay and brick and glass and steel,
It is a small and sorry track."
You smiled, "Where thou art, I shall be."
You said, "This is my Litany."

RICHARD DUFFEY.

AND NOW THERE IS a third party in the field. Third parties are always a nuisance in our ordinary everyday life and they might be like that in politics. There is nothing really as tiresome when you are calling on your best girl as to have a third party roosting around. Or when you are about to drop into a restaurant with the same best girl it is very awkward when the third party appears with a bright smile and a half dozen wisecracks and joins you. He was never known to reach for the check when the waiter brings it around, and furthermore, he hopes you are going to a movie because there is one show in town he would especially like to see. Third parties are just a pest, that's what, and they're probably that way now when the rest of us are all hard at work trying to save the country.

MR. THOMAS CHARLES O'BRIEN in accepting the nomination of the third party for the vice presidency says, "the United States is at the crossroads." Every campaign since George Washington ran for the presidency the first time the United States has been at the crossroads. We ought to do something about it. That thing of being always at the crossroads is plain silly. If we can't get away from the crossroads why not move the crossroads? Write to your congressman today.

EXCEPT FOR HAVING a nice reunion there doesn't really seem to be any reason for the Democrats to meet at Philadelphia this week except to join in a praise service around Mr. Roosevelt. And then the holding of the party political conventions is an old Spanish custom in this country. It's a habit, but this time the only problem at Philadelphia is to keep the delegates from wandering off to New York or Atlantic City. And the Philadelphians who put up the money to pay for the convention in their city wouldn't like that. They want the delegates to spend their money in Philadelphia and Mr. Farley has arranged as many side shows as possible so as to keep the delegates and the other visitors from wandering away. Which they might readily do, for while Philadelphia is a nice old town, quite rich in historical associations, it is rather dull compared to Broadway and the Board Walk at Atlantic City.

NOSTALGIA.

And is it strange that days like these Should make one think of lovely things—
Of pale pink buds on apple trees,
And chirpy tunes a robin sings?

Of ferns uncurling by the brook,
Arbutus, shaded like the dawn,
That trails along a rocky nook,
And lilacs blooming on the lawn . . .
Back home?

LOUISE E. HARRIS.

UP TO THIS TIME in the thrilling political campaign the country seems to be divided mostly into Democrats, Republicans, and golfers. And the golfers seem a lot the happiest. They don't know who's running, nor do they givadam. Fore!

HEED BLOOD IN THE URINE.

If the fire department dashes up to your door and passersby shout "Your house is on fire" you will spring into action to save both life and property.

Conflagrations occur within the body and, fortunately, most of them sound an alarm. Pain is the ringing of the signal bell that means "Stop, look, and listen." There are many signs of disease that must be known, recognized, and obeyed. We must learn, however, to differentiate those that mean little from those that mean much. Nature rarely strikes at the roots of life without warning. There is no shrieking of sirens or clanging of gongs, but hemorrhages and tumor growths are recognized as having a special significance.

Blood in the urine [hematuria] should always be investigated. In the majority of cases this symptom comes on after the age of 50. In most instances it can be traced to disease somewhere in the urinary tract—the bladder, the kidneys, or the ureters [the rather long tubes that convey urine from the kidneys into the bladder]. Tumors, infections, and foreign bodies are relatively common causes.

At times it is due to disease or infection of the kidney itself. For example, in scarlet fever, septic sore throat, or rheumatic fever the urine may appear "smoky" and contain blood. This means that the kidneys have been damaged to such an extent that blood has filtered through and become mixed with the urine. We then say that a complication of kidney disease is present, one which requires careful management.

Stones [also called gravel] in the kidney or in the bladder often prove so irritating that hemorrhage results. When these concretions lie within the kidney there may be little or no pain, but should a small, sharp fragment be forced along the ureter by the pressure of urine an exceedingly agonizing type of "colic" ensues. If the irritation is but minimal in amount there may be little bleeding. When stones form within the bladder they may serve as centers of inflammation, injuring the bladder wall when it contracts, bringing about both pain and bleeding. X-ray plates are often of great value.

Tuberculosis of the kidney is another important cause of hematuria. Sometimes the disease is found to exist elsewhere in the body and has affected the kidneys secondarily. The diagnosis is established if tubercle bacilli are found in the urine.

Bleeding can arise from tumors along the urinary tract, and polyps may spring from the bladder wall. Any type of growth in the bladder can be seen by the examining physician through the use of an ingenious instrument known as the cystoscope. This affords a view of the interior of the urinary pouch as well as the entrance of the ureters, and those who are expert in its manipulation can detect even minor deviation from the normal.

The first appearance of blood should not be ignored, even though it may not be observed again for weeks or months. Certainly the return of bleeding should serve as an omen of trouble ahead. We should never be faced with the situation which is illustrated by the case of a 45 year old man who gave a history of passing bloody urine intermittently for a period of three years. It was only when pain and discomfort because of frequent urination proved incapacitating that he submitted to an examination. A hazardous and expensive operation saved his life, but had early treatment been instituted he would not have been subjected to a trying ordeal.

In a few cases no cause whatsoever can be found, and by some authorities the circumstance is likened to the occasional nosebleed that may occur in any one. Although such an incident may prove relatively harmless, it is not safe to proceed on this assumption. Those past 50 years of age would do well to have an annual examination of the urine, in which careful tests for blood would be made. It is comparable to installing a fire extinguisher as a measure of preparedness.

DEFORMING ARTHRITIS.

E. L. C. writes: 1. What is spondylitis deformans?

2. What is the cause?

3. What is the treatment and can it be cured?

REPLY.

1. Spondylitis deformans is a deforming arthritis of the vertebrae which causes the spinal column to become bent and rigid.

2. In some cases it is caused by an infection but in many cases the origin is not easily traced. Muscular weakness, injuries, heredity, and old age are possible factors.

3. No cure has been found. Bending exercises are of value if they do not cause pain. In advanced cases the best plan is to adjust the spine in the normal position by means of a plaster cast or brace. If complete ankylosis [stiffening] occurs the spine is permanently set so that movement is limited. When the first signs of the disease appear the attack must be vigorous along the same lines as suggested for arthritis.

PREGNANCY TEST.

Mrs. J. H. writes: 1. What is the name of the laboratory test to determine very early pregnancy?

2. How soon can this test be made?

3. Is it considered a sure way to diagnose pregnancy?

4. Do all hospitals do this work?

REPLY.

1. The one most commonly used is the Aschheim-Zondek test.

2. It is of value at about 10 days to 2 weeks. That is supposed to be the minimum time; a month, or one week after the time of the first missed period is more reliable.

3. It is regarded by many of the investigators who have worked with the method as 98 to 99 per cent accurate.

4. Most hospitals are equipped to perform the test.

MILD ARTHRITIS.

A. J. C. writes: What causes one's finger joints gradually to become larger, and is there any way to reduce them?

Would you advise a woman, 53 years old, to have an impacted wisdom tooth removed, even though, as far as she knows, it has done her no harm?

REPLY.

You are probably developing a mild arthritis. The joints are probably enlarged permanently. Go after the original infection to prevent its spread.

Have your physician investigate the impacted wisdom tooth. It may be the seat of your trouble, or some of it.

DAY BY DAY IN THE MAKING OF THE CONSTITUTION.

BY JAMES MADISON.

[Father of the Constitution and Fourth President of the United States.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 22, 1787.—In convention. [The question is the payment of national legislators out of the federal treasury.] Mr. Elsworth of Connecticut moved to substitute payment by the states out of their own treasuries, observing that the manners of the different states were very different in the style of living and in the profits accruing from like talents. Mr. Williamsom of North Carolina favored the idea. He reminded the house of the prospect of new states to the westward. They would be poor, would pay little into the common treasury and would have a different interest from the old states. He did not think, therefore, that the latter ought to pay the expenses of men who would be employed in thwarting their measures and interests.

Fear of the Unborn States

Mr. Randolph of Virginia feared we were going too far in consulting popular prejudices. If the states were to pay the members of the national assembly a dependence would be created which would vitiate the whole scheme. The whole nation has an interest in the attendance and service of the members. The national treasury is therefore the proper fund for supporting them. Mr. Madison disliked particularly the policy suggested by Mr. Williamson of leaving the members from the poor states beyond the mountains to the precarious and parsimonious support of their constituents.

Mr. Hamilton of New York was strenuous against making the national council dependent on the legislative rewards of the states. Those who pay are masters of those who are paid. Mr. Wilson moved that the salaries of the first branch be ascertained by the national legislature and be paid out of the national treasury. [Motion defeated.]

Mr. Rutledge of South Carolina was for preserving the legislature as pure as possible by shutting the door against appointments of its members to offices which was one source of its own corruption. Mr. Madison admitted the probable abuses of an eligibility of the members to offices particularly within the gift of the legislature. He had witnessed the partiality of such bodies to their own members as had been remarked of the Virginia assembly by his colleague, Col. Mason. He appealed to him in turn to vouch for another fact not less notorious in Virginia, that the backwardness of the best citizens of the state to engage in the legislative service gave but too great success to unfit characters.

ESTATE PROBATE.

Chicago, June 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father passed away three months ago, leaving a will dividing his property equally among four heirs. 1. Can cash money be settled out of court? There are no dependents. Does it all have to be probated? He left a house, cash, and a mortgage. 2. The stepmother is going to get a lawyer. Do you think two of the heirs would get the same results by not having a lawyer? 3. What are the average fees and [4] when do they get paid? When it is all settled? 5. What is better—on a percentage basis, or how? 6. How could two of the heirs really find out what the man owns? It seems two of the heirs don't care to let the other two know what is really going on.

W. F.

1. If the estate is to be probated, then all assets should be inventoried. Ordinarily the personal representative does not take the chances that would be involved in distributing before the expiration of the year for filing claims.

2. Ordinarily it is not necessary for the different beneficiaries to be separately represented. You are in a better position than we are to guess whether there are exceptional chances of overreaching in your case.

3. Depends on facts not before us.

4. Depends largely on your agreement with your attorney.

5. Depends on additional facts.

6. An inventory should be filed in the probate proceedings.

A NEW ENGLAND VIEW.

Mattapoisett, Mass., June 18.—I'm afraid I don't know very much about the life and works of Mr. Landon, but:

1. I am confident that the Republican candidate understands the nature of a trust and may be relied upon not to do fantastic and perfectly unconventional things with the public funds.

2. I feel sure that any citizen who approaches him in good faith with sound information will be able to have a hearing.

3. I feel sure that Mr. Landon would seek to inform himself wisely and well on crucial and pivotal points.

4. I am persuaded that this candidate for high place would reach his office and would function therein without the assistance of experimenters in the unreal, the grotesque and the bizarre. He would have both feet on the ground and he would remember, I am satisfied, that he is an American always.

GEORGE W. HARRINGTON.

SMEARED.

Western Springs, Ill., June 17.—Your editorial of today on Mr. Hoover is fine. What a pity it should come too late! After the election of 1932 I was reminded of the reproach to the Romans for their desertion from Pompey's standard to that of Julius Cæsar:

Run to your houses, fall upon your knees,
Pray to the gods to intermit the plague
That needs must light on this ingratitude.

Do what you can to eradicate this character assassination which has become part of our political life. These snarling curs in Washington who make their living by smearing persons of fine character should be exposed and put into a position where they will be compelled to beg for a bone. They are now living on the fat of the land. Surely this is a plague which should be effectually stamped out.

FOR SAFER WALKING.

Chicago, June 16.—The careful driving campaign in this city is a good one. Would not it be a good idea to inaugurate a careful walking campaign? I notice that pedestrians around here cross on red, yellow and green lights alike, and are not in any way molested by the police. Why can't a few of these people be warned by the officers? They need it.

In the city of Pensacola, Fla., pedestrians are roundly warned against crossing against the lights; thus trafic is speeded up and driving is safer for all, in the downtown districts especially.

A good bawling out or possible arrest downtown might make the pedestrian realize that he, too, should coöperate in the safe driving campaign.

THEY'LL BE BACK.

Chicago, June 16.—I wonder what has become of the Cub fans who were saying so many things about the team not so long ago? Some wished to ax the manager and send a few to the Old Soldiers' home, while others even suggested trading half the team to the Wall Town Mudhens.

SMILIN' JACK.

BACK SALARIES.

Chicago, June 18.—This office has received many inquiries relating to the payment of back salaries of certain city employés for services rendered during the year 1931, and I wish to present the following facts to remove any misunderstanding in connection with this situation.

On July 10, 1931, the city council directed the withholding of fourteen days' pay due certain employés for the second half of that year.

On July 22, 1935, in compliance with an order of the Supreme court of the state of Illinois, the city council authorized the payment to the judges, clerks and bailifs of the Municipal court all back salaries from July 10, 1931, to Dec. 31, 1935. The Supreme court also ordered the payment of the regular salary rates, without deductions, from that date henceforth.

Later a suit was filed by certain employés to compel the city to pay these deductions, and the Circuit court of Cook county ordered that a writ of mandamus be issued commanding the controler and the mayor to pay these employés the amounts withheld from their salaries during the year 1931. An appeal was taken by the city to the Appellate court, which court affirmed the judgment, and subsequently the Supreme court of Illinois denied an appeal.

Other employés [those on a per annum, monthly or weekly basis, including policemen and firemen] have like claims for the year 1931, and the city, under the above mentioned court decisions, has no defense against the payment of these salaries.

In view of the Supreme court decisions the mayor and the city council, in fairness and justice to employés similarly affected, were compelled, in order to avoid useless litigation at the expense of the city, to authorize the payment of salaries that were withheld in 1931, and on April 15, 1936, the city council passed an ordinance authorizing this payment. Payment of these back salaries will be made shortly.

The city has paid in full all of the ordinary expenses for the year 1931 with the exception of these back salaries.

Controler, City of Chicago.

SCOTLAND'S CONQUERORS.

Chicago, June 19.—Correcting F. G. W., Scotland has been conquered four times. First by Edward I. The Norman, Robert Bruce, freed it from Edward, but made it into a Norman kingdom.

The second and third conquerors were both Englishmen, Cromwell and Monk. The fourth and final one was the German duke of Cumberland. Since then Scotland, as well as England and Ireland, has been ruled by German kings.

MACCARTIE.

THREE LONG YEARS.

New York, June 12.—Below is a suggestion for a campaign song:

Three long years, three long years,
Gone are our fears, gone are our tears,
We'll fight for liberty with our lives,
We'll sock New Dealers between the eyes
And go along with the Landon guys
With three wild cheers.

Colon, Mich., June 11.—We wish to compliment you upon the excellent editorials you have had on the front page of your paper the last week. If you will continue giving the public something like this up to November you will win the election for the Republicans.

THE IMPREGNABLE WALL.

Chicago, June 17.—In reply to L. H. L., let me say: No, Mr. Roosevelt has never defended the constitution and he never will. Why? Because Mr. Roosevelt hopes to be Emperor Franklin the First, and all that stands between is that impregnable wall, the constitution. Long may it stand!

WHY BUSINESS IS BETTER.

Chicago, June 12.—Roosevelt, as sponsor for the New Deal, claims 100 per cent credit for the improving trend in business. Funny, isn't it? A lot of us have been under the impression that the Supreme court had a lot to do with it.

ROOSEVELT BRAIN TRUSTER TAKES A REST AT OXFORD

Prof. Frankfurter to See Commons in Action.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 21.—When Great Britain's political storm, stirred up by the government's calling off sanctions against Premier Mussolini, breaks over the house of commons in Tuesday afternoon's debate, none other than the well known brain truster, Prof. Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard law school will be studying its effects from the distinguished visitors' gallery.

This much, and the fact that on the eve of the Democratic convention in Philadelphia, he will begin a vacation in England which will last until Aug. 8 was all that President Roosevelt's mentor would disclose about his ideas and plans as he stood in the passport line in the Palm room of the liner Georgic, from which he debarked at Southampton today.

With Mrs. Frankfurter the little brain truster will spend six weeks in London and Oxford, where in 1933-'34 he was George Eastman visiting professor for a year.

Mum on Politics.

As he moved up step by step in the passport line, Prof. Frankfurter chatted on many subjects, but played sphinx against any attempts to obtain his views about the American political campaign. He showed great interest, however, in European developments. denying at the same time he would make any reports to Mr. Roosevelt when he returns.

"How do you like the Republican platform, professor," he was asked.

Edging on in line Prof. Frankfurter replied:

"Was not that a surprise about the way Schmeling beat Louis?"

"Who are you betting on?" parried the professor.

"How did you like that part in the Republican platform about the return to constitutional government and free enterprise, professor?"

"What these trans-Atlantic liners need are better newspapers on board. I have not been able to find out anything," replied Frankfurter.

Lesson for American Women.

It was learned the Harvard law pundit during the voyage had asked many questions about what was going on and was much interested in the British policy of abandoning sanctions.

"Do you like England, professor," he was asked.

"Yes, and I like it especially for its effect on American women. They realize after a stay here what a fine time of it women have at home," he said with twinkling eyes, smiling at Mrs. Frankfurter.

Prof. Frankfurter had under his arm a great bundle of pamphlets and documents on recent Supreme court decisions on New Deal projects which he had been reading during the voyage.

"Of course I am going to study while over here, but it is just my regular vacation and nothing else," he said. "I am not going to the continent and have no plans to see any one especially and no engagements to speak."

Never in Washington.

"How are things in Washington, anyway, professor," finally he was asked.

"Now can you imagine that, asking me about Washington?" said the brain truster, turning smilingly to his wife. "Why I am never in Washington and have not missed a single lecture at Harvard in the last four years."

"By the way," he added as he said goodby. "Is David Lloyd George going to speak in the house of commons next Tuesday?"

BODY OF AILING BABY'S MOTHER FOUND IN LAKE

The body of Mrs. Katherine Malochleb, 27 years old, 2215 Iowa street, was taken from the lake off the 77th street beach early yesterday. Her husband, William, 32 years old, a salesman, told police his wife had been ill since the birth of a son three months ago and had believed the boy was dying. He said his wife was missing when he returned home Saturday night. She left a suicide note. Police found the woman's purse and a bottle which had contained iodine on the steps of the home of Gustave A. Brand, 2916 East 77th street, city treasurer. Mr. Brand's home adjoins the beach. Police surmised the young woman drank the iodine there and then plunged into the lake.

VON BUELOW, NAZI FOREIGN OFFICE CHIEF, DIES AT 51

Bachelor Diplomat Noted for Hard Work.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 21.—The ranks of experienced German foreign diplomats were thinned further today by the death of Bernhard W. von Buelow, secretary of state for foreign affairs. He died from inflammation of the lungs after a severe attack of grippe.

B. W. VON BUELOW.

The recent deaths of Roland Koester, ambassador to Paris, Dr. Leopold von Hoesch, ambassador to London, and now Von Buelow leave few men of outstanding foreign experience and skill in the German diplomatic service.

Von Buelow, who celebrated his 51st birthday last Friday, was the greatest Wilhelmstrasse expert on the league of nations, of which he made a special study. His counsel was especially valuable after Germany began to consider rejoining the league.

For Von Buelow, who was a bachelor, his work was always his first and almost his only interest. He was noted in the diplomatic service as a studious and hard working individual with a wealth of detailed information at his finger tips. His only hobby was collecting German pfennigs for each year in which they were coined. He never found one for 1885, the year of his birth.

Nephew of Imperial Chancellor.

The diplomat was a nephew of the late Prince Bernhard von Buelow, imperial chancellor. His father, Maj. Gen. Adolf von Buelow, a close personal friend of former Kaiser Wilhelm II., was killed in 1897 when he fell from a horse during maneuvers at Darmstadt. Von Buelow's grandfather, Bernhard von Buelow, was also secretary of state in the foreign office.

Von Buelow began his diplomatic career in Washington, where he was appointed an attaché in 1912. As an officer of German reserves he served during the first year of the world war, but then was recalled to diplomatic service and sent to Constantinople [now Istanbul] and later to Athens, Greece.

Attended Versailles Parley.

He was one of the first "bluebloods" to associate himself with the republican regimé after the empire was defeated and collapsed in 1918. He participated in the Brest-Litovsk and Versailles peace conferences. But when the late Count Ulrich von Brockdorff-Rantzau, German foreign minister, resigned rather than sign the Versailles treaty Von Buelow also resigned from his position in the foreign office. He spent the next four years studying league of nations questions and then rejoined Wilhelmstrasse in 1923, becoming secretary of state in 1930. Recently he was mentioned for the post of ambassador to London.

It is expected that Dr. Hans Dieckhoff, chief of the political department of the foreign office, will succeed Von Buelow as secretary of state. Dr. Dieckhoff accompanied Joachim von Ribbentrop, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's ambassador extraordinary, to London when Von Ribbentrop presented Hitler's nineteen point proposal for a European peace plan to the Locarno powers after Germany rearmed the Rhineland.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

While Shep Fields was playing over W-G-N from the Palmer house a few months ago he named his unusual theme song at the suggestion of a fan, "Rippling Rhythm." Now he's back on W-G-N-Mutual from the Pierre roof in New York with a new babbling brook effect further emphasizing that unusual ripple of his music. A letter reveals how he gets the effect.

"I blow into a bowl of water with a straw directly into the microphone," he explained, "and that gives you real rippling rhythm."

Radio can be so disillusioning.

Winding up his current series last night Jack Benny was awarded Radio Guide's annual "Star of Stars" citation. According to the magazine's readers the runner-ups in order of popularity were: Eddie Cantor, Nelson Eddy, Lanny Ross, Lulu Bell [a Chicagoan], Rudy Vallee, Joan Blaine [a Chicagoan], Bing Crosby, Fred Allen, Jessica Dragonette, Grace Moore, and Helen Hayes. What, no Maj. Bowes?

* * *

If Walter P. Chrysler is to pay Maj. Bowes $15,000 a week [as Time says] it does seem that the major is getting the best end of the bargain. All surveys indicate a falling off in his popularity and he is getting less than half that from his coffee patron. In a letter the gong specialist says: "Maj. Bowes and Walter P. Chrysler are old and intimate friends, and Maj. Bowes has such admiration for the man and his achievements that to represent him on the radio will take on added pleasure and satisfaction." At $15,000 a week! Right you are, major.

Gracie Allen and her Housewives' union will enter the presidential campaign with a vengeance Wednesday evening at 7:30 if the Democratic convention doesn't crowd her off the air. The housewives are ready to choose their nominee. Eddie Duchin begins providing the music of this show on this broadcast, replacing Jacques Renard.

When Sophie Tucker's orchestra leaves the Morrison hotel and W-G-N soon, Jack Fulton Jr., the tenor and trombonist who has been directing the band, will leave the organization to do some movie work. He also has a sponsored radio show in the offing. Leonard Keller will take over the baton waving.

Fight fans seemed to agree Saturday that Clem McCarthy did a good job handling the Louis-Schmeling bout. All those who remembered Graham McNamee's efforts proclaimed McCarthy a great improvement. He gives a graphic, intelligible and unhysterical account of what goes on in the ring. Edwin C. Hill, as usual, rambled on with his prepared speech at the moment the fight was to start, while listeners chafed to hear what was going on in the ring. Sponsors' plugs were short and did not intrude upon the running story of the battle. For that they are to be congratulated.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam.

GALASSI—In memory of our dear daughter, Genevieve Galassi, who left us June 21, 1935.

Our hearts are still bleeding though one year has passed,
O why did it have to happen so fast.
The stars are dimly shining upon one lonely grave,
Where sleepeth without waking
One we loved dearly, but could not save.

BROKEN HEARTED FATHER AND MOTHER.

MILLER—Hortense Joan Miller. In loving memory of our daughter, who was taken 8 years ago today.

The world may change from year to year
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one we loved
From memory pass away.

HEARTBROKEN MOTHER AND DAD.

DROUTH BLIGHTS MICHIGAN'S AND INDIANA'S CROPS

Corn, Wheat, Oats, Hay, and Fruits Need Rain.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kendallville, Ind., June 21.—[Special.]—The agricultural outlook for southern Michigan and northern Indiana is becoming gloomy. Farmers are watching the skies for rain clouds. Crop conditions are spotted, varying with the different communities, but the general impression gained by the traveler through this region is that rain is badly needed. This was revealed in THE TRIBUNE'S Chicagoland crop survey, which was started today.

On a tour of more than 200 miles through the southern tier of Michigan counties and a dip down into Indiana, indications are that farmers face an immediate shortage of pasture for their dairy cows and other live stock.

Live Stock Graze in the Dust.

All along route 12 and over highway 60, through Three Oaks, Niles, and Three Rivers, many pastures on both sides of the road were found to be short. Cattle and horses were grazing in the dust on many farms. In many cases the pastures are brown, and the ground is so dry it would take a virtual cloudburst to soak the soil enough to revive blue grass and other pasture crops.

Corn is stunted from lack of rain, but it still is green. With rain it has a chance of making a fair crop for silage. All along the route traveled by this reporter corn seems to be uneven. In some fields the young plants have just come through the ground, while on other farms they are almost knee high. The stands are thin in many cases.

Wheat and Oats Suffer.

Small grains, particularly oats and wheat, are the farmers' chief concern between here and Chicago. These crops now are in the critical stage, when they need an abundance of moisture to develop and mature the grain.

Most of the wheat has headed. In southern Michigan most of the wheat has started to turn yellow. Some of the fields are approaching the final ripening stage. Growers are sharpening their sickles and are getting ready to start harvesting their wheat in about two weeks. If they do not have rain this week, some will be forced to start cutting their wheat by the middle of next week.

The straw on wheat is quite short, and on many thin spots the harvesters will not be able to cut the crop with a binder. As travelers come farther south into Indiana they are surprised to find that on many farms wheat is still green and not as far advanced in ripening as wheat immediately north of the Indiana-Michigan state line.

Best Wheat Near Howe.

Some fairly good wheat is to be seen around Howe, Ind., which is in La Grange county. T. K. Hall, about one mile north of Howe, has some of the finest wheat seen on the trip so far. He expects to cut his wheat in about a week or ten days.

The oats are uneven, extremely short, and most of the fields have started heading. The oats have been so stunted that no amount of rain could produce an average crop. The heads are forming on oat plants that in many cases are less than eight inches high. The oats are of fair color and many farmers likely will cut them for hay. Unless rain comes immediately, many fields will be too short to be reached with a binder.

There is such a shortage of moisture that both wheat and oats are certain to produce a high percentage of shriveled grains. The weight per bushel is expected to be low.

Hay Is Scarce.

Hay is so scarce that Michigan and Indiana farmers in this territory are cutting every sprig of alfalfa, clover, and other hay crops they can find. Odd corners ordinarily overlooked are being harvested. Farmers have wasted no time in getting their small hay crop, from the first cutting of alfalfa, into their barns. Although today is Sunday, several farmers were seen in their fields loading alfalfa and hauling it to their barns.

Fruit also is being hurt by the dry weather. There appears to be a very small crop forming. Only a few dozen apples were found on trees in a fair sized orchard examined near Cassopolis, Mich.

Between here and the Michigan line many melons are grown. The outlook is discouraging for watermelons and cantaloupes in the section near Howe, Ind., according to growers.

FLY TO CAPITAL FOR U. S. RELIEF IN DROUTH AREA

Bismarck, N. D., June 21.—(AP)—Summer came to the drouth-baked plains today and taunted desperate farmers with a few drops of rain while North Dakota's governor, Walter Welford, hurried to Washington to ask President Roosevelt's aid until the heavens relent.

Light showers fell in parts of the Dakotas and Minnesota before the governor boarded a plane on his mercy errand to the capital, but the moisture was not enough to do more than irritate harried grain growers.

Cool weather that arrived with summer carried a small degree of comfort, but the weather bureau saw another dry week ahead.

Losing hope that needed soaking rains would come in time, Gov. Welford and United States Senator Gerald P. Nye set off to plead with the President at a White House conference tomorrow for federal relief for farmers whose crops face ruin.

SAFE CRACKER ESCAPES.

Mishawaka, Ind., June 21.—[Special.]—A lone cracksman broke into the Kuss bakery last night and blew open a small safe. A passerby, hearing the explosion, called a policeman. The safe cracker dove through a plate glass window and escaped without loot.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

Hay In; Lighter, Better.

June 21, 1936.

HAY harvesters on THE TRIBUNE'S Yorkville Experimental farm have put 107 loads of freshly cured hay in the barns since the mowers were started on the first cutting of alfalfa two weeks ago. The hay was not weighed, but the men think the loads averaged about one ton each. The hay was cut from 80 acres—55 acres of straight alfalfa and 25 acres of mixed alfalfa and timothy.

Ideal haying weather has enabled the harvesters to get the hay cured and put up in unusually good condition. Yields are much lighter than last year, but the quality of the hay is better. All of it has been stored in mows in the barns. It has been put in barns convenient to the feed lots where it will be fed next winter.

There are 35 acres of timothy and clover and a few odd patches of straight timothy yet to be harvested on the Yorkville place. Part of this was cut down last Friday afternoon. It was raked into windrows yesterday and should be ready to go into the barns tomorrow. The farm manager expects the clover and timothy meadows to yield about 1¼ tons to the acre. All this hay will be stored in barns.

Oats Fair, Though Dry.

Oat fields on the Yorkville place are expected to make a fair grain yield despite the dry weather. Practically all the oats now show promise of producing straw sufficiently tall to be cut with a binder and the heads appear to be filling out in fair shape. The fields are free from pests and diseases.

The corn is badly in need of rain and most of the fields are making poor growth.

Cholera Shots This Week.

The 210 pigs farrowed on the Yorkville farm this spring will be vaccinated against cholera this week. The pigs weigh 40 to 50 pounds each and all have been weaned. There is no evidence of hog cholera on the farm, but because of reported outbreaks on other farms in the county the farm manager decided to take no chances on having his spring pigs infected.

No hogs have been vaccinated on this farm during the last three years. From 1914 to 1933, however, vaccination against hog cholera was a regular practice on the Yorkville place. The farm manager used to keep a set of instruments and do all his own vaccinating. The work will be done this week by a veterinarian.

The Ration of the Pigs.

The 210 pigs that are to be vaccinated are running on bluegrass pasture. They are being fed a mixture of three parts ground oats and one part ground buckwheat. This mixture is supplemented with condensed buttermilk and a commercial feed containing 40 per cent protein in order to provide a properly balanced ration for the growing pigs. In addition they are given small amounts of shelled corn each day. The pigs will be turned on alfalfa pasture about the second week in July.

None of the hogs on the farm except the spring pigs is to be vaccinated. The 120 pigs farrowed last fall and winter are nearly ready for marketing. They will be separated from the vaccinated pigs.

A new crop of pigs is due to appear on the Yorkville farm next month. Sixteen sows are expected to begin farrowing about July 4. Eight of these sows are pure bread Chester Whites and eight pure bred Hampshires.

Menjou Gains Weight; Sells His 160 Suits

First Replacement Order Is for 27.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., June 21.—[Special.] —Because he has gained 15 pounds since leaving the hospital after his operation, Adolphe Menjou, known as Hollywood's best dressed man, is selling his whole distinguished wardrobe.

Last year he had 160 suits. Their cost averaged $165. The best dressed actor now is selling them at $25 a suit, many having been disposed of to workmen on the set of his current picture, "Sing, Baby, Sing," at this figure.

Menjou's first order for replacements was for 27 suits. Menjou said, "I feel that my clothes must fit me perfectly. This means that I try on each suit at least five times at the tailor's. Some of them have to be fitted fifteen times before I am content with them."

Sid Salkow, dialog director on "Lady, Be Careful" at Paramount, received an unusual birthday gift from Jack Moffitt, a scenario writer pal. The present was a chorus girl, Alice Broden, wrapped up in cellophane and delivered in Salkow's office. Around her neck smiling Miss Broden wore this card: "To Sidney from Jack. Treat her well." Moffitt until recently was drama editor of the Kansas City Star and Times.

Dr. Gunther von Fritsch and Arthur Ornitz followed a dog's life with a 16 millimeter camera right into a movie contract. Both being amateur cameramen and picture producers, they got the idea of taking an intelligent and tail wagging mongrel from the city pound and turning him loose. The conspirators then followed the friendly pooch in his efforts to ingratiate sympathetic and well fed looking humans with a view to getting himself adopted. They trailed the dog with their camera concealed in a suitcase. The people who stopped to pat the dog—they named him Kiwi—and fed him never were aware they were appearing in a motion picture.

Finally, with some 1,500 feet of interesting film that was made without lights or reflectors, and titled "Wanted, a Master," Von Fritsch and Ornitz approached Pete Smith, short subject commentator at M-G-M. Smith was interested and now the two are doing with Kiwi and a full size camera what they did with their amateur apparatus and under a contract for a major studio short reel release.

After ten years of driving her same old battered and faded black sedan, Greta Garbo showed up at Metro studio in a shiny new seven passenger limousine with a liveried chauffeur and whizzed by a gateman who tried to stop her. In the previous ten years all Miss Garbo bought for her old car was an occasional new tire and one windshield wiper.

Lawrence Tibbett's next picture will have sequences in Manhattan and on a southwest cattle ranch and will be titled "Love Flight." Arthur Treacher and Slim Summerville will be in the cast. Sol Wurtzel and John Stone will produce it for Twentieth Century.

Sally Starts Party Series for Children

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Did you see the good news in yesterday's TRIBUNE, boys and girls?

Our series of summer parties for youngsters will be starting soon. Once a week, all summer, we have a free party for children, and our plans this year are grand!

On July 2 our Chicago White Sox are to play the Detroit Tigers, and J. Louis Comiskey, owner and president of the Sox, has very kindly extended an invitation to my young guests. So on that date, 50 boys and 50 girls will have an opportunity to see a swell baseball game.

If you think you'd like to be included in this party, you must win your own invitation.

There will be tickets for 50 boys and 50 girls, and if you'll write me a letter which will convince me that you are one of those who most want to see the game, you may be a winner. Just tell me why you think you'll enjoy the party, and be sure to include your name, address, and age. Remember that you must write that letter all by yourself, without help from your mother or father or anyone else.

On Thursday morning I'm going to read all the letters and pick the winners, so be sure that you mail your note in plenty of time.

Next Sunday's TRIBUNE will bring the big news, because the names of the lucky boys and girls will be printed on that day. Please don't ask for invitations for the little girl who lives around the corner or for your pal on the school baseball team—if they want to come tell 'em to write their own letters.

If you expect to be at Comiskey park with me one week from next Thursday, you'd better get that letter off to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Gest to Bring Chinese Play Here

Morris Gest, the theatrical impresario whose spectacular career was broken off several years ago by illness, announces plans for the presentation in Chicago next fall of "Lady Precious Stream," a play of Chinese authorship and atmosphere. This work was imported from London by Gest last winter for a successful New York run.

A three weeks' engagement in Chicago in October under the auspices of the American Theater society has already been arranged. This will be the beginning of a tour which will include Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Washington, Philadelphia and Boston. Gest sailed for Europe last week to search for other theatrical novelties. He expects to meet the author of "Lady Precious Stream," Dr. S. I. Hsuing, in London.

"Dead End," a long run hit in New York, is also scheduled for a Chicago engagement next fall. Norman Bel-Geddes, producer of the play, has secured the Studebaker theater for a special production. The principal players of the Chicago cast will be used as replacements in the New York company during the summer. Already engaged are Edward Marr, Maidie Correll, Warren Asch, and Lester Jay.

Katharine Cornell will be given the honorary degree of doctor of letters by the University of Wisconsin today. Her next engagement in "Saint Joan" will be in Los Angeles.

Eric DeLamarter will conduct July 1 and 2. On the following night the Chicago Symphony orchestra moves to Ravinia to begin a five weeks' concert season in the newly reopened north shore park, and Glen Bainum's band, with Eugene Dressler as soloist, takes over the Grant park band shell for the evening.

Mrs. John R. Hurley (Gwendolyn Juergens), posed on the stairway of her charming new home in Wheaton.

MANY residents of Wheaton and the neighboring suburbs will make it a point to go to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hurley on Roosevelt road, Wheaton, sometime between 10 and 5 o'clock tomorrow when the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins will hold a sale there. In addition to the allure of the attractive goods offered for sale, prospective shoppers will have the opportunity of inspecting at first hand the charming new home that Mr. and Mrs. Hurley have constructed by remodeling the home of his late parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward N. Hurley, and moving it to a vantage point overlooking the rolling meadows that are a part of the Hurley property.

About four years ago when the home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ryan [Helen Hurley] was just completed, the Vocational society held a sale there, and the committee is hoping to repeat its success tomorrow. Among the women who will be assisting Mrs. Hurley are many residents of Wheaton, and the surrounding countryside, including Mrs. John Jay Bryant, Mrs. William B. New Galleries Opened with Good Exhibit

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Chicago Galleries association has opened its new galleries at 215 North Michigan avenue with an exhibition of paintings by well known artists. One of the finest of the paintings is "Study—Two Girls," by Arnold Turtle. Mr. Turtle has surpassed himself in achieving beauty and repose. The relaxed figures and the delightfully modulated background present a scene it will be hard to forget.

Edgar Forkner is represented by a gorgeous painting of boats and several fascinating and forceful flower still-lifes. His modeling is superb.

An exquisite little nude by Tomanek is attractive. Karl Brandner has a nice winter landscape in "Red Flannels," the Monday's wash against a gray line of house and trees. Pauline Palmer offers one of her characteristic Provincetown street scenes, beautifully done. J. Jeffery Grant is represented by "Old Moorings," a magnificent dock scene, and Julius Moessel offers two studies of stately penguins.

The No Jury Society of Artists is honoring the memory of Minnie Harms Neebe, the Chicago artist who died a few weeks ago, with a showing of a little room of her paintings in the current no jury exhibition at 1418 Lake Shore drive. The paintings are spirited and vigorous.

The D'Arlier gallery, 639 North Michigan avenue, has opened an exhibit of flower paintings. It is a gay and colorful exhibit.

Josephine Patterson Becomes Bride of Jay Frederick Reeve

Miss Patterson has been a reporter for the Chicago Daily News for the last two and a half years.

Mr. Reeve, a member of the firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin & Ellis, is well known as a trial lawyer. During the world war he was a flyer in the American army. His first wife, Louise Falk Reeve, obtained a divorce recently in Reno. There are two children of Mr. Reeve's first marriage.

Massachusetts Attracts More Chicago Folk

Brilliant Season Promised at Shore Resorts.

BY JUDITH CASS.

A LETTER from Beverly, Mass., brings word of the Chicagoans who are summering there or at one of the other fashionable resorts on Massachusetts' north shore. Last week was a gay one with the tercentennial celebration at Salem, the visit of several warships to Salem and Marblehead and dinner-dances at the Myopia and Essex Country clubs. Our correspondent writes that there are more Chicagoans in the summer colonies on the north shore than for many years and that the season promises to be a brilliant one.

The John Alden Carpenters are at Sunset Hill at Cushing Point, Beverly, which they have rented from Mrs. W. Harry Brown of Pittsburgh for the summer. It is one of the finest estates on the Atlantic with a particularly lovely swimming pool housed in a Spanish type building. The Carpenters were at Pride's Crossing for the two previous summers.

Daughter and Son-in-Law with Mrs. R. T. Crane Jr.

Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr. is at Castle Hill, her beautiful Ipswich estate, where the rose gardens are in full glory and are attracting visitors from miles around. Mr. and Mrs. William A. Robinson [Florence Crane] are with her and Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Crane will be there when they return from Australia in the late summer.

Mrs. Marshall Field, now in her 93d year, is at Edgerock, the estate of the late Col. Frederick M. Alger of Detroit, for the summer. She plans to be at Pride's Crossing until late in the autumn. Mrs. Stanley McCormick and her mother, Mrs. Wirt Dexter, have the J. Harrigan Walker estate at Magnolia for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris are now in Paris, but they are expected soon at Eagle Head, their Coolidge Point estate in Manchester. Col. and Mrs. George T. Langhorne will occupy the Joseph W. Woods house in Ipswich for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. John Clay and their children are at the Merriam cottage, Eastern Point, Gloucester, for the summer, having rented their larger place, Finisterre, to Mrs. Odin Roberts of Boston.

Betty Forgan Announces Members of Wedding Party.

Nine attractive young women will precede Miss Betty Forgan to the altar of the Presbyterian church in Highland Park next Saturday afternoon when she becomes the bride of Philip D. Allen, but only seven young women will stand later in their floating frocks with the bride and bridegroom in the gardens of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Forgan in Highland Park where Mr. and Mrs. Forgan will give a wedding reception for their daughter and new son-in-law.

The attendants include Mrs. William Edwin Smith, who will attend her sister as matron of honor; and six bridesmaids, Mrs. John P. McWilliams II. [Priscilla Morse], Miss Louise Forgan, cousin of the bride; Miss Kathleen and Miss Jane Calkins, and Mrs. George Proctor of Boston and Miss Barbara Miller of Cleveland, who were classmates of the bride at Dobbs Ferry. The remaining attendants are two little flower girls, Barbara and Joan Smith, nieces of the bride, who will walk at the head of the procession, and who probably will be too engrossed with ice cream and other goodies at the reception to pay much attention to the guests.

Robert Allen of Greensburg, Pa., will attend his brother as best man, and ushering will be John Coonley of New York, Robert D. Forgan Jr., who is a student at Williams; Thomas Walker of Andover, Mass., George

NOW they are telling it about George Garry Noonan, state representative from the Third district. One night his wife awakened him from a sound sleep and whispered that she was sure there were burglars in the house.

THE switchboard operator in a Chicago office answered a call and was dismayed to hear the voice at the other end of the wire say, "Hello, this is the cemetery. Your grave is ready," then disconnect. No, it wasn't a grim joke. Seems one of the young women in the office had telephoned a cemetery to request that a certain grave be decorated for Memorial day, and had asked the cemetery office to call her back when the grave had been found and decorated. The switchboard operator was pretty upset all day, having dreamed the night before that she had died.

THE Gossip Shop.—When Durand Smith told Alexander Woollcott at the English-Speaking union luncheon that King Edward VIII. was the patron of the union in the British empire, Mr. Woollcott, speaker and guest of honor, pulled a white handkerchief out of his breast pocket heavily embroidered in black in one corner with the royal British coat of arms. It had belonged to the king, and he had happened to stick it into his pocket that morning. . . . Negley Farson, author of "The Way of a Transgressor," is in Jugo-Slavia this summer writing another book and fishing, and will be back in America in three months, he writes friends here. . . . Janet Fairbank is singing at the zoo opera in Cincinnati and this week sings Ase in Deems Taylor's "The King's Henchman" and Giovanna in "Rigoletto." The zoo opera house has a roof, but no sides, and is situated between the lions' cages and the duck ponds, a situation which sometimes makes for additions to the musical score, Miss Fairbank writes. . . . Mrs. Otis Chatfield Taylor was in town last week, visiting her father, Boris Anisfeld, and seeing him off for Central City, where he spends his summers painting and teaching. . . . Mrs. Sturges Field left by plane last night for Seattle to join a scientific airplane expedition to the Yukon for three months, with a dufflebag filled with slickers, woolen clothes, boots, and cosmetics in aluminum cases. . . . Ruth Page, Paul Haakon, and Paul Draper are busy rehersing for the ballet to Gershwin music to be given at Ravinia the third week in July, and Nicholas Remisoff is working on sets. . . . Coming through Indiana last week, Eleanor Steinert saw a dam over the Mad river. . . . And there is an applicant on the rolls of a district relief station named Love Hunger. . . . Good morning!

Of course, since the world began, there have been people who have longed to murder tenors. In "Moonlight Murder" such an ill wisher succeeds with his—or her [I'll never tell you!—] fell design.

Murder mysteries have been coming almost too thick and fast lately. No sooner do we find one button than another turns up missing. Oke if they've got what it takes. Otherwise—why, we wish they'd "leave 'em lay" for awhile!

There are several persons who have reason for wishing Gino D'Acosta out of the way. And, as per usual, the observer is kept suspecting first one and then another of these—till the time comes to turn up the real villain. . . .

Chester Morris plays an enthusiastic young sleuth who is considerable of a pain in the neck to his slow thinking "chief." His cubbish investigations nevertheless result in the solving of the mystery.

Mr. Morris is capable, so are most of the other members of the cast, but the story isn't well strung together, dialog and situations are strained, and the answer to the riddle is just too, TOO . . . !

Black-White Still Highest of High Style

New Outfits Are Smartest of Many Years.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Nothing can beat the striking dramatics of black and white, winter or summer. If you are among the doubters, trot downtown and view the newest collection of daytime outfits, the clothes that are causing all the excitement among smartly dressed Chicago women.

Take black linen, and we mean it quite literally, choose one of the puritanically straight affairs with such short sleeves that the frocks are as good as sleeveless. The black is dull of texture, not a gleam anywhere to make it look anything but smooth and cool. The streamlines are straight while you stand still, but when you dash about the shops, or down the street, sharply creased plaits assure all the freedom you need.

The necklines are high and the waistline usually is defined with a snow white belt. If you're afraid your waist line isn't small enough to take this, try all black, from shoulder to hem.

Then the fun begins. Short spanking white cotton or fabric gloves that can be kept speckless; copper colored sun tan hosiery [some of the new seamless numbers are ideal]; a gleaming white patent lether handbag and the same kind of slippers; a huge white hat, or a simple broad brimmed dull black hat trimmed with a chalk white ribbon bow and band and the outfit is complete.

And it will be well worth all the comments you'll hear about it. Of course you can try this same trick with deep green, navy or brown, but the smartest shoppers take it in black and white.

Black linen and dull black silk linen are the best buys. Both are supercool, both have that lusterless beauty, and both take the dazzling white costume accents better than any other material.

The fashion photograph illustrates a spectacularly successful outfit. It is from a new collection of all black daytime dresses just unpacked for this black and white wave. The price tags are surprisingly low for such high fashion finds. This model buttons down the center from the neck to hem with dull white small buttons. A white double buckled belt matches the white bag and gloves, while the stunning wide brimmed hat is of starched black linen trimmed with a white band and bow around the shallow crown. The entire ensemble is from the same shop.

Smart Summer Ensemble

SHERIDAN ROAD

By Helen Topping Miller

SYNOPSIS.

Eden Faraday, young secretary, opens the door of a taxi and finds a man murdered. She is taken to the police station, where she meets Jack Garnett, newspaper cameraman, and Owen Field, assistant district attorney, who arranges her release. Eden had been mistaken for Gracie Lincoln, a gunman's widow. The man murdered was a notorious gangster, Grappi. Eden's mother, Bridget Faraday, sells gowns and is in love with suave Sidney Creighton. Eden and her spoiled young sister, Robin, and brother, Coburn, depend on their peppery grandmother. Because of rumor that Eden can identify the murderers Owen Field has her guarded. Her mother and Sidney escort Eden to a business appointment.

INSTALMENT VII.

SAVED FROM KIDNAPING.

In the elevator Creighton took Eden's arm. She disliked his touch but to draw away would have given the gesture emphasis. Why did her mother like him—why was her fine head held a little stiffly now because Creighton was being attentive to her daughter? She can't be in love with him, Eden thought unhappily, so why does she act like it?

"I'm sorry to spoil your evening," Eden said, as they got into Creighton's car, "There can't be any real danger."

"Pretty young girls are always in danger," was his answer.

"But I'm not even so very young any more," Eden protested, then realized instantly that she had said the wrong thing again.

Her mother's tone was frigid. "Implying that your mother is an old, old lady, Eden? That isn't even kindness to dumb animals. Do try a little tact, darling—it pays, you'll discover."

"O—I'm sorry—I seem to get off on the wrong foot eternally. I suppose it's because I speak before I take time to think." She looked back, saw a car draw near, swing back a little, follow them around a corner. A queer little clutch of cold caught her throat. "I think some one is following us," she said in a low voice.

Creighton laughed. "Your boy-friends—the police. I saw them when we came down. Evidently they're keeping you in sight so you can't lam out on them."

"But—how silly! I won't have them following me around. I'll call Mr. Field the first thing in the morning."

"Well—here we are. Suppose we cruise around a block or two and pick you up in ten minutes."

"You're very kind. Don't bother getting out." She spoke with nonchalance but the blaze of light under the hotel portico already had stricken her with a chill, remembering horror. There was the awful spot on the pavement still, though everything else was changed and gay. Women trailed evening frocks through the revolving door, the doorman's buttons shone, even the red globe above the police signal box seemed to burn gayly.

She waved her hand at the vanishing car, started across the width of lighted walk. She did not notice particularly the heavy man who looked at his watch and folded a newspaper, sticking it into an overcoat pocket. She did not see the thin man with twitching face who was looking at jewelry in a small shop window, squarely under the blaze of the lights. Then suddenly they were on either side of her, hands on her elbows, their menacing faces close to hers.

For the benefit of the doorman they made quick casual remarks, even while the thin man's hands were iron-like over her lips.

"Over here, Margie."

"You sure took your time."

Then it happened. Dragging back with all her strength Eden set her teeth in the hand that strangled her, just as a police whistle shrilled and men seemed to leap out of every shadow. There was an instant of terrible confusion, then Eden found herself being half carried by some one whose voice was familiar, and lifted into a car.

Owen Field said, "Just in time. Did they hurt you?"

Eden's breath was surging, her lips smarted, her limbs were trembling. "No—No—I'm not hurt," she gasped. "But what was it? Who were they?"

Field got in after her, closed the car door. "Two gentry who wanted to be certain that you do no talking for awhile—especially to the police. They were bolder than I expected. They counted on that. I hadn't men enough—but we'll get them later. In the meantime you'll be taken care of, so don't be alarmed."

"Thank you. I'll be calm in a minute. It was—so terribly quick—and there's my mother—she was coming back for me—"

"We'll reassure her. I'm not taking you home just yet. We'll give them a chase for a day or two. Suppose you relax now and don't worry."

"I'm not worrying—I'm sorry to be so much trouble when I haven't any real information that will help at all."

"You're no trouble. And if you help us to get those fellows you'll be a tremendous asset. I'm taking you to my mother. You'll be perfectly safe there and we'll see that your family aren't annoyed."

"But—I must go to work in the morning!"

"Sorry—you can't possibly go to work in the morning."

"But my home is not a hotel!" Sara protested, when Owen had explained.

"Miss Faraday is valuable to me. She has been in danger already tonight. I wish her to stay here. Have Cordie get a room ready, please."

"The rooms are always ready," said his mother ungraciously, her high nose shining dryly in the light. "Take her up to the room over the dining-room. Has she—anything?"

"Not even a tooth brush. Couldn't you possibly help me, mother? It's most important to me."

"Very well. Bring her in. I'll find some things for her. Come up this way, please."

"My name," Eden said faintly, "is Eden Faraday. You may know my mother. She sells frocks."

"I'm sorry. I do not know any women who sell frocks," Sara was frigid. She led the way up the stairs, opened a door upon a raw chill, a dim room with a bleak bed, long starchy lace curtains, a cold, institutional-looking bath beyond. She turned on the heat, felt the bed, said, "I'll bring a night dress. There are extra blankets in the chest and a toothbrush and comb in the medicine cabinet."

"Thank you," murmured Eden, "I'm sorry to be so much trouble. I'd much prefer going home but Mr. Field refuses to let me go."

Sara only sniffed at this, her upper lip twitching a little. The radiator thumped and hissed drearily but gave off little heat. Eden was shivering, almost in the rigor of a chill. Somehow the room made her think of the austere grimness of the police station. She found herself wishing suddenly for Jack Garnett, with his friendly smile and his dangling shirt button.

When she crept into the icy bed, wrapped in one of Mrs. Field's blue cotton night dresses, she felt frozen and unwanted and horribly homesick. What was her mother thinking? And Gran? What had they been told? Gran would be frantic with worry.

Everything about the bed was fine—and cold. Like Sara Field. She likes things—and hates people, Eden decided. She does not even love her son. She admires him perhaps but she doesn't love him. She couldn't—with that icy eye. Mother loves Coburn but doesn't admire him.

Only a few blocks away, her mother. Her own bed with the satin puff Gran had given her for Christmas, her own slippers. What right had Owen Field to keep her a prisoner here in this dreary house, when she had committed no crime? No right at all.

"Why," she demanded of her reflection in the tall, severe looking glass, "don't I go home? This is ridiculous!"

She pulled on her stockings quickly and tied her shoe strings in hard knots. Gran's coat—and of course Gran would need it. She buttoned it tight, turned up the fur under her chin, pulled her hat down. She had been frightened at first, but she was not frightened now. She would tell Owen Field camly that he must take her home at once. She would refuse to stay.

Stirling Dickinson Writes of Travels.

An interesting letter mailed May 15 from the falls of the Iguassu river in South America from Stirling Dickinson has been received in Chicago, giving news of Mr. Dickinson and his traveling mate, Heath Bowman, who sailed for South America on a tramp steamer last winter. To quote from Mr. Dickinson's letter:

"——— thought you might be amused to hear a bit about what Heath Bowman and I have been doing the last two months in the interior of South America, and as we are at the moment awaiting some sort of river boat, it seems a good chance to drop you a line. After a very civilized week in Rio, which lives up to its reputation as a gay and beautiful city, we had the luck to hear of a valley beyond Itatiaya, Brazil's highest mountain, where some shepherds live who have never been visited by foreigners. So we rode over the mountains on burros to see them, and eventualy came back with a couple of the very beautiful blankets which they weave of sheep's wool.

"Then came a long train ride on the narrow guage, going west to the Matto Grosso country, where we stayed on a cattle ranch for three weeks, chasing 20,000 head of zebu cattle with the Paraguayan cowboys. Since then our transportation has been a problem. We began by sitting for three days in a shack in the prairie, waiting for a truck to pass, and finally got one loaded with tiles and onions, on which we sat for twenty-four hours, getting off occasionally to help push it along in the mudholes.

"Later came more trucks, and finally a little river boat towing two barges down a very narrow winding jungle river, finally reaching the big Parana river, on which we are now. Later we go on into Bolivia, probably sending our spare shirt ahead of us and taking to our feet as means of locomotion. Then on over the Andes and into Peru, ending up sometime late in the summer with a return to the states and to work on writing the book."

"Cold Plates to Tempt Summer Appetites," a booklet of tempting menu plans and accompanying recipes for summer days, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, the Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Since science discovered that liver is good not only for the family cat but for the family itself, all sorts of tempting liver dishes have been developed.

You don't need to fry onions or bacon with liver every time you cook it. You probably will find that your family will eat this important iron-rich food more often if you vary the form of serving.

But whether you fry it, broil it, serve it in a loaf or baked in green pepper shells [we'll give you that recipe by and by!], there are a few points to remember about cooking liver if you want to avoid that dark, lethery, boarding house variety which has frightened many a person into a lifelong dislike for liver.

Liver, you know, is a tender meat, and therefore does not have to be cooked a long time. It should be cooked for a short time, usually only long enough to heat it through, and at a moderate temperature.

Beef and calf liver do not need to be scalded before cooking, but for the sake of the best flavor it is a good idea to scald liver from lamb and pork.

Liver from the young animal, lamb or calf, may be broiled or cooked quickly in a frying pan with a little fat, while liver from older animals usually is better braised, baked, or combined with other foods.

Liver and rice loaf, scalloped liver and potatoes, creamed liver and highly seasoned liver paste for sandwiches might be suggested in order to give you a few ideas about ways to serve this meat. Casserole of liver with vegetables such as tomatoes, carrots, celery, and potatoes, makes a filling luncheon dish.

Liver Stuffed Green Peppers.

1 tomato
1 cup boiled rice
3 tablespoons grated onion
1 teaspoon salt

Select peppers which will stand level. Remove stems and seeds. Pour boiling water over the peppers and allow to stand half an hour. Cut the liver and tomato in fine pieces, and mix with the other ingredients. Stuff peppers, place in baking dish, and add 1½ cups of water. Bake for forty-five minutes in a 350 degree oven. Place on individual plates, and serve at once with Hollandaise sauce.

"Rose Garden" Is an Interesting Geometrical Quilt

Rose Garden.

BY NANCY CABOT.

An interesting geometrical pattern is the "Rose Garden," which depends upon its material and color for its title. Rose material and a light rose fabric printed with tiny pink, wild roses forms a quilt consisting of a checkerboard pattern of rose squares alternated with print squares and tied together with patches of rosy tan. This is the ideal block for the amateur to select for the first pieced quilt, and it is one the charm of which increases with age.

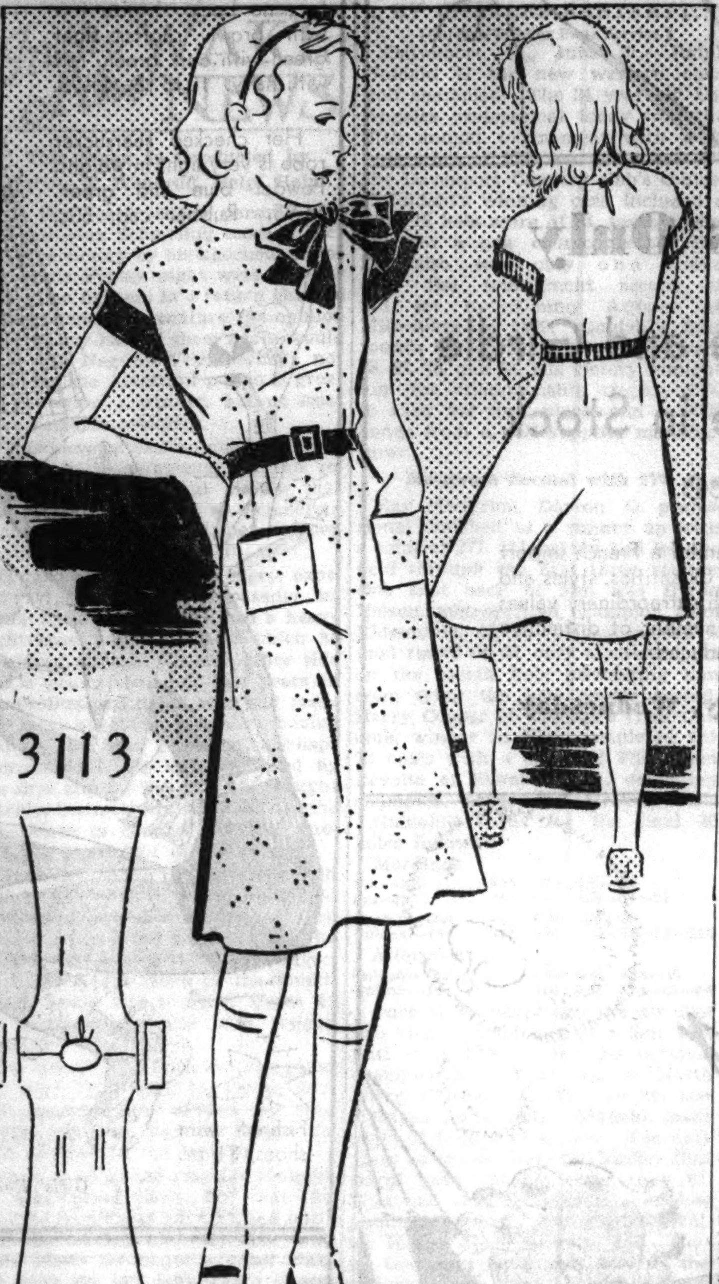
For Vacation Playtime



GIRL'S FROCK.

Vacation days are here and with them unrestricted play hours for schoolgirls. The summer wardrobe of a growing girl requires a great many frocks which are simply styled and, therefore, simple to launder and press. The pattern illustrated today is a perfect example of this type of frock. Besides being practical, this dress is exceedingly easy to make; so simple, in fact, that the juvenile wearer may wish to sew several little dresses for herself from this pattern.

The dress is cut in one from shoulder seams to hemline. The sleeves, which are cut in one with the shoulders, have pert turned back cuffs. A bow to match the cuffs is a genuinely feminine touch at the shoulder and the color and fabric are repeated in the narrow belt. If you prefer, a patent lether belt may be worn.

The frock is fitted nicely to the waistline by means of inverted tucks, while the skirt is graceful and wide, ideal for active play occasions. Two useful patch pockets decorate the skirt.

Style No. 3113 is designed for sizes 6, 8, 10, and 12 years. Size 8 requires 1⅞ yards of 35 inch material, with ⅝ yard of contrasting.

670,801 Membership Gain in '35 Reported by Churches of U. S.

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Substantial continuing gains in church membership throughout the United States are indicated in the Christian Herald annual report of church statistics appearing in the July issue. The figures were prepared by Dr. George Linn Kieffer, president of the American Association of Religious Statisticians and statistician of the National Lutheran council.

"In 1932," a summary of the report explains, "churches and religious bodies in the United States showed a total gain in membership of 670,801.

Baptists gained 163,318, to lead all Protestant denominations, the statistics showed. Methodists were second with 91,069 and Lutherans third with 86,088.

"The Baptists also lead all Protestants in total membership, with 10,191,697," the summary continues. "The Methodists, with 9,067,561, are second and the Lutherans, with 4,568,300, are third. The Roman Catholics, with an 'adult' membership of 14,797,479, a total membership of 20,609,302, and a total gain for the year of 210,793, are still the largest religious body in the United States."

Natural Line of Eyebrow Is Fashion Now

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You're going to see better and better eye and eyebrow grooming from now on. The woman who still clings to the notion that no one is going to notice her shaggy eyebrows is going to be brought up short for her vain hope. For eyebrows, particularly, are stepping to the fore in feminine interest. But with an eye now not to imitate Dietrich, Crawford, Garbo, or any other star of the screen you are going to be permitted your own eyebrows; indeed encouraged not to use a style from any other face than your own.

Consequently you will be allowed a fairly full growth of hair, but principally you'll tune your eyebrow contour and fullness to harmonize with your lips and the general contour of your face.

I spoke above of the woman who hopes to get by with ungroomed eyebrows. There are simply loads of women, otherwise nicely groomed, who balk of the eyebrow plucking to give line and form to this feature. They've had something of an alibi in the horrid eyebrow formations presented by the freakish taste. Their natural brows, rangy and scraggly, often were better than the irrational lines into which certain of the freakish ones ventured.

Now the props are taken right out from under the eyebrow alibi. You can have your own and plenty enough of them and be right in line with the current trend. But they have to be tidy and plucked to a certain extent to keep the line from being submerged in a weedy field.

The brow now, in a manner of speaking, must conform in style and line to the mouth. If the lips come under the cupid's bow classification, the brow should be softly rounded and arched to conform with the natural fulness of the mouth. If the lips and general contour of the face are thin, the brows are shaped into harmonizing line, not too full. Irregularity of features will be studied and a line that harmonizes worked out for the eyebrows, but never freakishly thin. In other words, your own individual self suggests the eyebrow curve and line for you.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Gentlemen's day!

We seem to have started something last week when we rather meekly asked what made men think they didn't need to use deodorants. We reaped some praise and some blame; praise for having asked the question at all and some panning for not having raised a stronger howl against the men on this very point.

One woman writes: "Men ARE sorely in need of a hint to use deodorants. I know, because I'm a poor female surrounded all day by men who need just such a reminder."

And a man [who should be given a large hand!] writes: "Most men think it is sissy to use a deodorant—or just a 'racket.' It's up to you to point out differently."

Now that "sissy" angle which men claim is just an alibi. It's no more sissy to use a deodorant than it is to take a bath. And just because in those spectacular ads it's usually a dumb female to whom a kind friend whispers that a deodorant is a magic formula for romance you men needn't think that you should modestly avert your eyes from any discussion of the problem. If you ask us, you, with your heavy suits and your natural tendency to perspire a whale of a lot more than we do, need to use deodorants a lot more than we do.

We women think you could exert yourselves somewhat to make certain that you're the sort of person no one minds having to sit next on a crowded bus. Leave the giddy trimmings such as geranium bath oils and tuberose dusting powders to us—but please don't consider the deodorant a frippery. It's a necessity for the well groomed man.

According to CULBERTSON

REBIDS BY NO TRUMP BIDDER.

When you have opened the bidding with one no trump, and your partner has responded with a bid of two in a suit, his hand is weak, likely containing no more than one honor trick. Despite his announced weakness, however, there still is a chance for game if you yourself have at least four plus honor tricks with strength in partner's suit [at least A x x or K J x] and the other three suits well protected. In such cases, you should bid two no trump over his suit bid of two.

You should raise your partner's suit bid if you hold A K x or A Q x of that suit, for now even a long weak suit such as K x x x x x or Q x x x x x may be run off at no trump, to which partner will return if his holding is as described. Otherwise, he will pass to your raise [on a weak hand] or bid game in his suit [if his two bid was based on maximum values and unbalanced distribution].

Cross-Ruff Technique.

As I often have pointed out, proper handling of a cross-ruff plan involves the timing of each play. Today's hand is a good example.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 spade	Pass	3 dimds.	Pass
4 no trp.	Pass	5 no trp.	Pass
6 dimds. [final bid]

West opened the ten of clubs, declarer took the finesse and lost to East's king. A low heart was returned and declarer won with the ace. Next he led a low heart for a ruff and was shocked to see West discard a spade. To prevent any further discarding of spades, the ace and king were cashed immediately. The ace and queen of clubs followed, declarer following to the first and discarding a heart on the second. Now came a vital decision! Declarer had to return to his hand with a ruff and it was imperative that he should choose the suit to lead from dummy that West would have to follow.

West's first spade discard was the clew! Naturally he would have chosen further to shorten the suit that was the shorter to start with. Since he must have had either four spades or four clubs originally, it was extremely likely that he now was void in spades and had one club left. On this sound reasoning, the three of clubs was led from dummy. East failed to follow [proving the play to be correct] and, since this marked West with another club, declarer was able to ruff in safety with the diamond four. From there on it was a "romp." Hearts were disposed of by over-ruffing West's forced ruffs, and declarer returned to his own hand by ruffing spades with the ace and king of trumps. Thus, the contract was made despite the fact that West had more trumps than either declarer or dummy.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: I was South, with both sides vulnerable, when the bidding went:

West	North	East
1 heart	Double	4 hearts

My hand was:
♠9 7 6 5 3 2 ♥8 4 3 2 ♦Q 6 ♣5.
With only one queen in my hand, could I have done anything but pass?

Answer: You certainly could! You should have bid four spades! Your partner's double of one heart urged a spade response and, with East's preemptive heart raise, you could be certain that there was a maximum of one heart loser in your combined hands. If your partner's double was sound, four spades should be easy.

Some Parents Take Their Job Too Seriously

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Do you feel awfully solemn about the children today? Are you taking to heart every little thing they do or say that doesn't agree with the ideals and standards you have fixed for them? Do you fret about their leaving their stewed fruit, or disliking their carrots or spinach? When did you last laugh with the children? And when did you chuckle at their funny ways—that is, have you mislaid your sense of humor?

A good cook is not a "heavy handed" one. Neither is a good mother "heavy handed." Yet some of us habitually "take our children hard," or else we have spells of doing so, which takes much the joy out of life. Here is part of a letter from some one who has, over the years, acquired a light touch.

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I want to take this opportunity of telling you how much I enjoy your articles on child management. I am the mother of three boys, 11, 8½, and 2. Believe me, I'm kept busy from morning till night. I do all my own housework, cleaning, cooking, ironing, washing. Still my children don't annoy me.

"Just watching my two older boys fighting over something one threw away and the other picked up, or one taking the other one's stocking or blouse, or my baby building a house with all my pots, and putting in a few potatoes for people—really it is so much fun all day I just can't help laughing continually. I have plenty of work, but ten times as much fun. I refuse to take my children seriously, unless it is something important, of course.

"When my first baby was born, if he refused his cereal I lost two pounds worrying about it. Today if my baby refuses his cereal I just know he will eat a heartier lunch, and don't say a word, nor do I mind it.

"My baby feeds himself now, amuses himself for hours in the kitchen, and knows that when he is through he must put things back in place."

Take a hint from the last sentence, and give your small child the freedom of the house. Take another hint and stop watching every move your child makes.

WAS LOUIS FIGHT FIXED? EXPERTS' ANALYSIS OF UPSET

EXPLAIN WHY 499 OUT OF 500 BOXING WRITERS PICKED JOE

They Forgot—So Did He—About a Sock on Chin.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Why did we guess wrong?

Why did 499 fight writers out of 500 pick Joe Louis to knock out Max Schmeling?

Was the fight fixed?

Was Louis in condition?

Has Louis been overrated?

Despite Schmeling's knockout of the Brown Bomber last Friday night in New York, as brilliant a victory as it was unexpected, these questions demand an answer.

Joe Louis had won 27 consecutive professional fights. He had knocked out 23 opponents, including two former champions of the world, Primo Carnera and Max Baer. Louis was a prohibitive choice to win by a knockout. There was practically no financial support that Schmeling would last 15 rounds; none that he would win by knocking out the colored boy who had not been off his feet since his first amateur match.

Fans Agree with Reporters.

Reporters at the ringside from all sections of this country and from England, France, and Germany emphatically had picked Louis to win. They had watched both in training, compared them, and found no adequate reason to believe Schmeling could win.

It is not far fetched to say that the fans concurred. Only 39,000 paid to see the fight. Excessive charges for ringside seats were a contibuting factor. But had the public believed the bout would last 12 rounds, had there been an argumentative minority to assert that Schmeling might win, thousands more would have attended.

Public Remembers Baer.

When Max Baer fought Louis, the bout drew a million dollars. Schmeling and Louis drew half this sum and at higher prices. The sports world believed Baer had at least an outside chance. It didn't believe Schmeling, who himself had been knocked out by Baer, could make a worth while stand against the Bomber.

Speculators lost money. They had sold tickets for the Baer-Lewis fight for four times their face value, but the Twentieth Century Sporting club, promotional agency for last week's bout, which holds Louis' contract for four more years, barely took in enough money to break even on the Schmeling fight.

NO PROFIT IN FRAUD

Was the fight fixed?

No evidence so far has been produced to prove that the match was not fought on its merits. If John Roxborough and Julian Black, managers of Louis, and Trainer Jack Blackburn consented to have Joe beaten, how could it have been made worth while?

Louis previously had earned $337,000. He received $140,915.14 for this bout. Victorious over Schmeling, a title bout with Jimmy Braddock was his for the asking. Louis could expect to make more than an honest million dollars in the next year or two.

There is no evidence that these men wagered against Louis; others might have bet for them, but under the circumstances had large bets been made, how could they have been kept secret? There was almost no money on Schmeling. Here and there a few professional betters took wagers attracted by the long odds. But the public, which must be the sucker for large operations, wanted no part of Schmeling.

Answers Appear Obvious.

Moreover, if the managers were dishonest, is there reason to believe Louis would consent? Louis' record has been exemplary. He has no vices, many virtues. His race has made him its idol. His astonishing success pointed toward a place in the pugilisitic world above that of Jack Dempsey. Unless one is a complete skeptic, it follows that honor and position could not be bought from this colored boy.

MATTER OF CONDITION

Was Louis in condition?

Three physicians of the New York athletic commission said he was; their findings approved his hands, his heart his pulse. Louis trained seven weeks. He followed the same routine that had been successful previously. His

In the WAKE of the NEWS

IF the nearly 40,000 persons who saw Max Schmeling score a decisive victory by his knockout of Joe Louis Friday night were to view the same fighters in a return battle a month hence, we venture the opinion that nearly half of them again would pick the Negro. Well, perhaps not half, for the American public is great at following a winner, but at least a respectable minority.

This view implies no questioning of victory, no disparagement of this remarkable German, but simply that the battle was fought as Schmeling planned, which might not happen again.

On the one side was a cagey, experienced boxer with supposedly inferior fighting tools. He had a heavy right hand punch, to land which he sacrificed all else. On the other side was a young chap not two years in the professional arena who had made the most spectacular rise in boxing history. He was confident, perhaps overconfident. He was surprised by the first clip on the chin. He fought gamely, instinctively, but had not the experience to change his style, protect the weak spot in his armor.

When Schmeling popped Louis with a right in the third round he gained confidence he could hit the Brown Bomber. Louis did not act as if he understood or realized his danger. After the knock down in the fourth round, Louis lost physical steam to his blows, apparently was fogged mentally.

The colored boy, however, was game and went right back for more. Several opportunities offered for the easiest way out, but he fought on until crushed in the twelfth.

Many of us at the ringside thought the tide turned early, but that the ultimate result was not clinched until after the tenth round. By that time Louis' blows no longer worried Max, who took the left jabs which closed his eye for the sake of landing the right handers which floored Louis for the knockout count.

* *

Joe Louis in his first training at Lakewood did not look good. Perhaps he took the thing too much for granted. Toward the end he had sharpened up, not to the keenness before the Carnera and Baer affairs, but enough to look well against better sparring partners than Schmeling employed.

At Napanoch Max appeared aggressive in only one of the workouts we witnessed there. At other times he was slow and easy to hit.

* *

At Napanoch we had no doubt of German Max's condition. For the first time he took regular road work in preference to variations with golf which he did not practice as did Louis. We never saw legs more finely tapered. Schmeling prepared for a long contest. His judgment was correct.

We asked him to shoot 20 targets to see whether his nerves were steady. He broke all of them from unknown angles. We asked if he was afraid and he said he wasn't. He proved that. His confidents said he would make Louis come to him. He did. Everything on the German's schedule moved as planned although most of us did not think it possible.

* *

Result of the Schmeling-Louis battle probably was a good thing for the ring, perhaps, eventually, for Louis. We're not one of those who think Joe is "through." With the superman theory destroyed, Louis will now find opponents ready who would not have met him before or have drawn crowds if they did.

If Louis had beaten Schmeling, his battle with Braddock would have been called a foregone conclusion. Now the heavyweight situation is wide open again.

Guldahl Wins Western Open Golf with 274

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Davenport, Ia., June 21.— Ralph Guldahl is the new western open golf champion. The 24 year old Los Angeles professional today won the 37th annual tournament with a 72 hole score of 274, ten under par for the Davenport Country club's course.

Guldahl's winning card included a final 18 hole score of 64, seven under par, for a new course record. His 274 also was only one stroke over the tournament record of 273 set by Tommy Armour at Milwaukee in 1929. Guldahl's four rounds for three days of play were 68, 67, 75, and 64. His victory brought him the championship trophy, $500 in cash for first place, and a $500 bonus from a golf supplies manufacturer.

Mangrum Second with 277.

Ray Mangrum, Dayton, O. professional, finished as a runner up with a total of 277. Mangrum had led the field through the first three rounds. One shot back of him was Byron Nelson, metropolitan champion from Ridgewood, N. J. Nelson posted a final round of 65, only a missed putt on the fourth hole preventing him from tying the new course record. Harry Cooper of Chicago's Glen Oak club, winner in 1934, completed the 72 holes with a score of 279. John Revolta of Evanston, Ill., defending champion, needed 285 strokes.

Morning:

Par—Out	454	434	435—36
Par—In	345	543	434—35—71
Guldahl—Out	465	454	534—40
Guldahl—In	344	553	335—35—75—210

Afternoon:

Guldahl—Out	444	434	424—33
Guldahl—In	344	433	424—31—64

Once three years ago the six foot two inch Guldahl missed a four foot putt to earn a tie for the national championshop. That was at North Shore, Chicago, in 1933. In his last eighteen holes today Guldahl made putts of from 4 to 40 feet. The only putts he missed were for birdies that might have cut his score to a 61. That last scintillant round has few parallels in major competition. Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, and Johnny Goodman have shot 66's in the national open and Henry Cotton once brought a 65 home in the British open.

Takes No Fives.

Guldahl's final round card had no fives on it. Davenport's rolling acres offer 4 holes at that figure. Ralph was out in 33, with three birdies, and came home with four more for a 31 and his 64. The only other 64 made here was submitted by Gene Sarazen last year during an exhibition match with Babe Didrikson. Guldahl's performance today was scored against an increased length of 300 yards.

Outstanding in Ralph's play these last three days, however, was the fact that he trailed Mangrum into the final nine holes, despite golf that should have been enough to win any tournament. His 68 Friday left him two shots back, and a 67 yesterday gained him no more ground. At the end of this morning's round, Ralph had a 54 hole total of 210 against Mangrum's 207. In between the two were 46 year old MacDonald Smith, who shot a third round of 69 for 208 and Cooper, with 209. At 63 holes this afternoon, Mangrum had taken 242 strokes, with 243 for Guldahl.

Sinks 50 Foot Uphill Shot.

Ralph then went to work on the back nine while Mangrum was taking 35 through that portion. Guldahl with a putter so hot that it might have seared his palms, dropped four birdies. One fell from 40 feet at the 14th. The climax occurred at the 180 yard 17th where he rolled

HEADWORK BREAKS UP A SPARTA ATTACK

Maccabees Win Peel Cup for First Time, 2-1

The Maccabees soccer team won the Peel cup, oldest soccer trophy in the United States, for the first time yesterday by defeating Sparta Garden City, 2 to 1, in overtime at Kuppenheimer stadium. The game was marked by fast, rough play which culminated in a fist fight and led to the expulsion of Monroe of Sparta and Ogilvie of the Maccabees.

It was the second meeting of the two teams, the first cup game having ended in a tie two weeks ago.

Maccabees Score First.

The Spartas tied the score just before the close of the first period. Henney brought Wolf down inside the penalty area and from the spot kick Monroe shot the ball past Fisher for the tying goal.

Cuthburt Nets Rebound.

Fisher was hard pressed by Sparta in the second period but made several brilliant saves. Ogilvie tripped Monroe and both were banished for the resulting fist fight.

Five minutes after the extra period started Purden placed a free kick hard against Trasnik and Cuthburt drove the rebound into the net for the winning point. Sparta missed its last chance to tie when Robb, with a good opening, shot over the bar just as the game ended. Lineup:

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox were leading the Philadelphia Athletics, 4 to 2, going into the seventh inning in yesterday's series final at Comiskey park. Jimmy Dykes, before the game, had signed a contract to manage Chicago next year, and it looked like an elegant way to celebrate the continuation of Jimmy's skippership. Then something terrible happened to the celebration. The A's scored eight runs in the seventh and when the show was over Connie Mack's boys had won the contest, 11 to 5. Eleven thousand paid to see the flop.

No figures were announced relative to Mr. Dykes' new contract, but he must have been dreaming about a fancy boost. At any rate he let the A's torture Babe Phelps in the murderous seventh when it was apparent the big dipsey-dew expert had lost his stuff. Babe had some excuse, however, for much of his misery followed a dropped fly by Mike Kreevich which would have retired the side with the score tied at 4-all. There were seven hits, including a triple by Hal Finney and a double by Frank Hayes, during the inning. The last of the hits, the second of the inning by Pinch Batter Dean, was made off Reliever Red Evans.

Radcliff Gets Three Hits.

There was little about the affair to cheer Chicago partisans except that members of the Rip Radcliff Marching and Chowder club saw him make three hits in four times at bat and score three of the White Sox runs. The Sox, other than Radcliff, pounded out a grand total of three hits off two rookies entitled Herman Fink or Finkelstein, and Randall Gump or Gumpert or something like that.

Appling and Kreevich walked at the start of the home second and moved up on Dykes' sacrifice. Sewell flied to Moses, Appling scoring the tying run and Kreevich taking third. Higgins threw out Phelps.

Appling Throws Into Dugout.

The Athletics scored a run after two were out in the third. After Dykes had thrown out Finney and Warstler had popped to Appling, Moses singled off Appling's glove and reached second when Appling recovered the ball and threw it into the dugout. Puccinelli walked, after which Higgins came through with his second single, a shot to center which scored Moses.

The Sox went ahead in their half of the third. Radcliff pushed off with his second single and stopped at second as Piet beat out a bunt. The runners advanced on Haas' sacrifice, after which Bonura walked to fill the bases. Appling grounded to Warstler and Bonura was forced, Warstler to Newsome, Radcliff running across with the tying run. Newsome's relay in an effort to complete a double play went past Finney into the A's dugout, Piet scoring and Appling

DODGERS ROUT LEE IN 2D GAME TO SNAP STRING

Davis Hurls Five Hit Opener.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 21.—Van Lingle Mungo, the recent deserter now reconciled to his fate as a hapless Dodger, loomed before the raging Cubs today and put a halt to their sensational winning streak which had endured since June 4. He reduced the champions to the status of ordinary mortals by beating them 6 to 4 after they had run their consecutive victory chain to 15 games in the first half of a double-header. The score of the 15th and last of the streak was 7 to 2.

There wasn't much to the first struggle except Curt Davis and some of the comical endeavor for which the Dodgers are famous. The ex-Philly achieved his fourth victory as a Cub by giving up only five hits. Meanwhile the Dodgers, revealing a real holiday spirit, were doing their utmost to uphold their reputation. They let fly balls drop for hits, two of them collided in the outfield, one of the pitchers perpetrated a helpful balk and there was a wild throw. However, the champions could have won without such assistance.

No Laughs Here.

There wasn't much humor in the game that brought the defeat the champs realized was overdue. The Dodgers, except in one instance, performed so skilfully that the attending fans didn't recognize them. They swarmed on Lon Warneke for three runs in the second inning, Mungo's bat having a part in this assaut. Then with the score tied, they rose up in the eighth, this time against Bill Lee, who was rushed in as a finisher. The General didn't even complete the inning. Three more scored and Mungo's bat again was prominent.

Mungo's pitching was so dazzling that during the first five innings the Cubs went hitless. The three run lead he had helped to build up against Warneke appeared to be ample. But in the sixth in which they were helped by one of the Brooklyn's side splitting specialties in which the outfielder falls on his back while about to make a catch, the Cubs rushed two runs across the plate. Then in the eighth Manager Charley Grimm produced some real heroics as a pinch hitter. He sailed a homer over the fence to tie the score. But with Rescuer Lee ineffective it didn't stay tied.

That 15 Game String.

The winning streak, broken when a victory would have meant first place, was fashioned in this wise:

The Giants contributed the first of the 15 when they succumbed to Warneke June 4. Then the Cubs started prowling through the second division. They took three from the Dodgers, three from the Phils and four from the Bees, all at Chicago. They went into Philadelphia and took the Phils for two more. They came here and added a pair against the Dodgers, but then ran into the great Mungo.

FIRST GAME

A couple of hits and a bad throw by Herman gave the Dodgers a one run lead in the second inning of the first game, but it didn't last long. Hassett led off with a single past Cavarretta. When Herman picked up the ball with his bare hand and threw it into the dugout Hassett went to second. He scored on a single by Watkins.

The Cubs earned two runs in the third and the Dodgers good naturedly tossed in another. English opened with a single and was driven around to the plate on Herman's triple off the left field wall. Galan's fly scored Herman. Hartnett flied high to short right and three Dodgers went into a huddle in that vicinity, but nobody made the catch. Gabby was credited with a two base hit, went to third on

IMPROVEMENTS IN ARLINGTON MAKE IT IDEAL TRACK

"Eye in Sky" and New Odds Board Features.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The Arlington Park Jockey club, whose opening racing day this year is but one short week away, has again established itself as a leader and not a trailer of modern racing and racing equipment.

This was revealed to several hundred visitors who went to the track yesterday and had paraded before them the newest, most approved ideas in horse racing which have come to light since Arlington's season a year ago.

The improvement upon which the most money has been spent, of course, is the "eye in the sky" camera finish which even now is completed and ready for use.

"Eye in Sky" Sees All.

Eliminating tedious technical explanations, all the average racegoer wants to know about the "Eye" is that it operates from a tower 280 feet from the ground located atop the high Arlington grandstand.

If your horse wins by as slender a margin as a quarter of an inch the "eye in the sky" will see to it that you get your money.

This is made possible because the two cameras—motion picture cameras—are placed at such an angle in the tower that they take the picture as if the camera were suspended, lens down, above the finish line, showing the position of every horse in continuity as it crosses the line.

If these photographs had been made from a lower level the horse nearest the camera would have blocked out the horse next to him thereby giving a false nose position due to magnification.

Eliminates Parallax.

The point of the whole thing is to eliminate parallax—the difference between two objects as a result of viewing them obliquely.

The time of suspense and agony which always accompanies a close finish, by this device is reduced to exactly 1 minute and 40 seconds. At the end of that short period your fate will have been decided.

During the winter the totalizator board in the infield which for three seasons has flashed the odds, results and payoff prices, burned to the ground as a result of some electric wires being crossed.

New Odds Board Is Up.

To replace it the Arlington board of directors bought the most modern board now in operation. This board, already set up, displays as a new feature, the individual amounts wagered on all horses in the win, place, and show pools. The old board had displayed only the amount wagered in the win pools.

The newest public address system equipment has also been added. Out over this loud speaker device will go the descriptions of the races run. Just about every name familiar to the racing public will be heard over it during the Arlington season.

Racing Secretary Charles McLennan and his staf, who moved in during the day, were making ready for the reception this week of 1,400 horses.

$5,000 Stake Is Hawthorne Final Feature

The Hawthorne racing season, which has been the most successful conducted there within the last half dozen years, enters into its final week with the running of this afternoon's card.

The $5,000 Illinois Owners handicap is to be the final stake race of the season. It is at a mile and a sixteenth and will be offered on Saturday afternoon.

Mars' Whiskolo and Forever Yours, Mrs. Emil Denemark's Corinto and Chazar, Morris Vehon's Threadneedle, Dale Shaffer's St. Bernard, and Thomas C. Worden's Navanod.

Headed by Hollyrood, Granville, and Mr. Bones, 37 of America's best 3 year olds have been nominated for the $30,000 Arlington classic to be run on Saturday, July 25. The race should definitly clear up the 3 year old title situation. The complete list of nominations is as follows:

RAIN IS MENACE TO WIMBLEDON'S TENNIS TOURNEY

LONDON, June 21.—(AP)—A slashing downpour today threatened to postpone tomorrow's opening round of the tennis championships at Wimbledon as a powerful array of American stars, banished from the Davis cup series, prepared to regain some prestige in the world's oldest tournament.

Fred Perry was regarded as the one big stumbling block for the Americans. The English star will have an apparently easy foe to face in the initial round, drawing D. M. Stratford. Donald Budge, California red head, also has drawn a seemingly soft touch in the first round. He will meet H. A. Hare.

Wilmer Allison's first round rival will be E. R. Mullikan, who isn't expected to extend the American champion.

Three Crews Favorites at Poughkeepsie

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 21.—(AP)—Rowing history will be written again tomorrow with the varsity shells sweep down the Hudson in the annual Poughkeepsie regatta and the experts say it will be written by California, Cornell and Washington.

As the oarsmen rested for the big race, scheduled to start from Krum Elbow at 7 o'clock eastern standard time tomorrow, the general agreement was that the regatta was a toss-up among smooth rowing Californians, the powerful huskies from Washington and the surprising red men from Cornell, who have been improving rapidly in their long, arduous workouts.

Columbia, Pennsylvania and Navy also displayed great improvement in their final drills but few expected them, along with Syracuse, to offer much opposition to the crews of the so-called big three.

Cornell, in the midst of an athletic rennaissance, was all excited over the prospect of victory and of an end to California's domination on the Hudson. The big red crew appears to be as good or better than last year, when it was beaten a fraction of a second by the victorious Bears.

ERJAVEC TESTS VALLAS TONIGHT AT MARIGOLD

George Vallas, young Birmingham, Ala., heavyweight, tonight will make a bid for topnotch honors in an eight round main bout with Johnny Erjavec of Duluth, Minn., at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Co-Promoter Irving Schoenwald has arranged a strong supporting card of five matches headed by a six rounder involving Al Nettlow, former Chicago Golden Gloves champion, and Charlie Mack, Milwaukee lightweight.

True Story of Fight: Louis Didn't Duck

Louis did not dissipate. He is 22 years of age. He had no distractions from his preparations for the bout.

In his practice bouts Louis exhibited speed and power. With 16 ounce gloves he proved he could knock down the men who assisted in his training. He defended himself against blows with a deft skill in complete contrast to Schmeling's workouts in which Max was frequently hit and hard pressed to avoid his opponents.

AFTER ALL, HE'S HUMAN

Has Louis been overrated?

To the extent that Louis has been described as a superman, he has been overestimated. Schmeling proved beyond argument that Joe is human. A punch on the jaw made Louis just another fighter, at least for a night. If there was any weakness in his preparations for Schmeling, it was failure to learn to avoid the chopping right which jarred him badly in the third round and which knocked him down in the fourth.

This was Schmeling's one punch. Fight authorities agreed Schmeling had a punch, but they argued that he wouldn't find a vulnerable spot. He did. And he hit it again and again.

Louis was confident of victory. Why not? He never had been beaten in the professional ring. He had felt no punch which could knock him down.

One Slip Brings Disaster.

Until the fourth round Louis had fought as instructed. His stinging left jabs had closed Max's left eye. Then came Schmeling's blow to the chin and Louis walked in a daze for eight rounds before his body refused longer to obey his weakening will.

Whether Louis will survive this experience only another fight will tell. It may be his crushing licking will sear his consciousness so that, having found fear, he never again will be the devastating destroyer who captured the world's imagination.

His wooden expression may have been only a natural shield for vacuity. Certainly he was not the fearsome giant of the prize ring. Max Baer and King Levinsky must feel chagrined. They feared to gamble punches.

We still hold that Louis is a great fighter. This fight we believe was honestly fought. Louis was in condition.

But Schmeling's punch to Louis' chin scrapped all other factors in comparisons of the two men. When Louis was hit on the chin, so hard that he went to the floor for a two second count, he was as helpless as Samson after Delilah had wielded her shears.

Even Tunney Is Fooled.

This was not Louis. His strength was gone. The blow made him just another heavyweight. He no longer was the man who had terrorized Baer and Levinsky.

Louis obviously was befuddled. The low blows he struck Schmeling showed that. They were not intentional and Joe, himself, was more embarrassed by them than was Schmeling, as Joe's confusion and apologies to the German indicated.

Louis had been instructed by his seconds to concentrate on Schmeling's abdomen and he tried to follow orders. The punishment he had undergone, however, robbed him of his customary precision and he was no longer able to control the punches he swung at Schmeling.

The public in picking Louis was no more wrong than Gene Tunney, who picked Primo Carnera to whip Louis and then named Louis to whip Schmeling.

But the world has had one more lesson that determination, backed by a rousing right hand sock, hurdles all odds. Even in retrospect, Louis still has all advantages of youth, speed, and power. But Schmeling won. He has deservedly earned his greatest triumph.

Joe Louis forgot to duck.

Triner Certain Chicago Will Get Braddock Bout

Joe Triner, chairman of the state boxing commission, returned yesterday from New York, where he attended the Joe Louis and Max Schmeling bout and reiterated James J. Braddock likely will defend his title against Schmeling at Soldiers' field in September.

"I spoke to Promoter Mike Jacobs, Joe Gould [manager of Braddock], and Braddock himself and each assured me that the title match would come to Chicago," the chairman said.

Triner added that such a contest here would attract gate receipts amounting to one million and a half dollars.

The chairman revised his previous belief that $25 should be tops for ringside seats. He now believes that many would be willing to pay $40 for the privilege of sitting in the first ten rows to witness a match having the appeal of the one between Braddock and Schmeling. The lowest priced seats would sell for $3, he said.

RIGGS DEFEATS FRANK PARKER IN STRAIGHT SETS

California Youth Upsets Favorite for Title.

Robert Riggs, Los Angeles youth, defeated Frankie Parker to win the national clay court tennis championship yesterday at the River Forest Tennis club before a gaping crowd of 1,500.

Young Riggs, who is national junior champion, won in straight sets, 6-1, 6-4, 6-4. Parker, odds-on-favorite to win the clay court championship, was almost helpless before the trickery, strategy and sound playing of his younger opponent.

Bundle of Energy.

Riggs, who stands 5 feet 6 inches in height and who weighs 132 pounds, had no distinct physical advantage, but he has a bounding ball of energy and alertness.

He began using the drop shot from the start and employed it at every opportunity with devastating effect, and when Parker attempted to stem the tide by rushing to the net he stole Frankie's thunder by passing the latter with stinging placements, several of which were untouchable.

Riggs led 5-0 in the first set before Parker won his lone game. Parker steadied in the second set and reversed the situation to lead, 4-1, Riggs winning the third game. The Californian resumed the softer game of dropping the ball into vacant territory and had Parker playing tag with himself. Riggs won the next five games.

Parker Gets Going.

After losing the first game of the third set Parker again took hold of himself and displayed the steady, accurate driving that brought him national prominence and won the next three games and began to look like the winner of the set.

However, Riggs stuck to the drop shot and won the fifth game. Parker won the sixth, but Riggs won the next four, the set, and the title.

After a rest Riggs teamed with Wayne Sabin of Hollywood and won the doubles final from John McDiarmid of Chicago and Gene McCauliffe of New York, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 7-5.

Detroit, Mich., June 21.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers, coming back after a long losing streak, made it two in a row today by outlasting the league leading Yankees today, 8 to 7, before 40,000 shivering fans, the largest crowd of the season.

The Tigers, with a three-run rally in the fourth and another attack in the seventh which produced five runs, came from behind to overcome a six run lead the visitors had built up in the first three innings at the expense of Schoolboy Rowe.

BEES, 3; REDS, 2.

Boston, June 21.—(AP)—Wally Berger's eighth home run of the season with one man on base in the ninth inning provided the two runs the Boston Bees needed today to defeat the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 2.

Neither Boston's Ben Cantwell, who allowed seven hits, nor Cincinnati's Al Hollingsworth, who was hit safely only six times, gave a base on balls. The left handed Hollingsworth held the Bees to one hit, a single by Catcher Al Lopez, up to the seventh inning.

Cubs Defeat Dodgers, 7-2; Then Lose, 6-4

Three More for Cubs.

The Dodgers put it on right in the fourth, when the champions scored three more. Jurges lined a double to left center. Davis flied to the same sector and just as Bordagaray grabbed the ball he was knocked into a tail spin by Watkins. The prostrate Bordagaray let go of the ball, giving Davis a double and sending Jurges to third. English's single scored Jurges and Davis came in while Herman was forcing English.

When Galan dropped a single into short center Brandt withdrew on the plea that he couldn't battle seventeen men lonehanded. Butcher stepped into the vacancy and promptly proved he was qualified to be a Dodger. He committed a balk which moved Herman to third and Galan to second. Hartnett then flied to Wilson, who immediately started to walk off the field under the impression three were out. Herman scored on the fly.

Watkins hit a homer in the fifth, but the Dodgers returned the run to the Cubs in the sixth. Davis singled and eventually scored when Phelps threw wild trying to catch him off third.

SECOND GAME

The Dodgers harassed Warneke in the first inning of the second game but he got them under control without damage. He also set down the first two batters in the second inning. Then a rat-tat-tat of base hits suddenly broke loose. Berres doubled off the right field concrete. Mungo singled on Warneke's first pitch, Berres scoring and Mungo continuing to second when Allen's throw in went wild. Bordagaray doubled to left center, scoring Mungo. Hudson's single sent Bordagaray home. The firing ceased with Bucher's fly to Allen.

The first Cub to reach base against Mungo was Herman, who walked with one out in the fourth. In the fifth Demaree walked with none out, but was doubled off first base on Allen's liner to Jordan.

Cubs Break Through.

Mungo's hitless string snapped when Jurges led off in the sixth with a two base line drive into the right field corner. Warneke flied to right and Wilson, when about to make the catch, suddenly flopped on his back, the ball plunking beside his head for a single. Jurges took third on the play. Wilson injured himself and had to retire. Jurges scored on English's forceout of Warneke. Herman's 27th double of the year sailed into left, scoring English. Then Galan grounded out and O'Dea flied to left.

Mungo fanned Jurges to start the eighth, whereupon Grimm stepped up to perform as pinch batter for Warneke. The manager almost broke himself in two swinging at Mungo's first pitch. He swung with equal fervor on the next throw, but this time the ball arched gracefully over the right field screen for a home run, tying the score. After English had been thrown out, Herman walked. Then Galan bounced a drive against the screen in right, but made the mistake of thinking he could stretch it into a double. He was nailed on Bordagaray's throw and the rally ended.

It didn't take Lee long to reveal his rescue act was a failure. He walked Jordan, the first to face him in the eighth. A wild pitch and Hudson's sacrifice sent Jordan to third. An intentional pass went to Gautreaux, who batted for Berres. Mungo thumped a single to center, Jordan scoring and Frey, who ran for Gautreaux, taking third.

Next came a squeeze bunt by Bordagary and Lee, in his haste to get the ball to the plate, fumbled, Frey scoring. Cooney forced Bordagary for the second out. Lefty Henshaw then was summoned to pitch to Eucher, a portside swinger, who ruined the strategy by singling to right scoring Mungo. The inning ended with Herman tossing out Hassett.

reaching second. Newsome threw out Kreevich.

Radcliff walked to start the fifth, stayed on first while Piet and Haas supplied easy outs, then scored on Bonura's triple to right. Warstler made a nice play back of second to get Appling's grounder and throw him out.

Phelps, with a nudge from Kreevich, blew up in the seventh. With one out, Dean batted for Fink and singled to right, then scored on Finney's triple. Sewell picked Warstler's foul off the screen. Moses beat out a slow roller to Appling, Finney scoring. Then Kreevich dropped Puccinelli's easy fly, Moses going to third. Higgins walked to fill the bases. Piet knocked down Johnson's single back on the grass, Moses scoring. Newsome slammed a single past Dykes, scoring Puccinelli and Higgins. Hayes then doubled down the left field line, scoring Johnson, Newsome stopping at third. Evans then replaced Phelps. Dean, up for the second time, singled to center, scoring Newsome and Hayes. Appling took Finney's low liner.

Two Errors Help Sox Score.

Radcliff's third hit and two errors enabled the Sox to score a run in their seventh. After Evans had fanned, Radcliff doubled to left and reached third when the ball got away from Johnson. M. Hayes batted for Piet and tapped to Gumpert. Warstler fumbled Haas' grounder, Radcliff scoring. Bonura tapped to Gumpert.

The A's kicked up more production in the ninth before a double play slowed them up. Newsome singled, stopped at third on Hayes' double and scored on Gumpert's single. Finney grounded into the double play. Warstler then grounded to Dykes.

The White Sox will send John Whitehead against the Yankees in the opener of the series at Comiskey park this afternoon. Monte Pearson is scheduled to pitch for the New Yorkers.

SARAZEN AMONG TEN AMERICANS IN BRITISH OPEN

HOYLAKE, England, June 21.—(AP)—A small group of American golfers—ten in all and few of them well known—will compete with some 250 British stars tomorrow in the first qualifying round for the British open golf tournament. The qualifying test will require two days and will be played on two courses, here and the neighboring Cheshire course at Wallasey.

Gene Sarazen, Connecticut veteran who won the British title with a record score of 283 in 1932 and has held the American open and professional titles as well, is considered the most dangerous of the American invaders. He has turned in some fine scores in practice and the hard baked course appears just made to order for his game.

The gallery of 5,000 wondered whether this heroic putt would unsettle the tall boy for the par four eighteenth, which had cost Mac Smith six shots this morning. It apparently did, for he poured his second shot toward the green too strongly, but even here fate was conspiring with Ralph for his four. The ball struck a cameraman's supply box and fell just off the back edge. He chipped up neatly to a yard and ran down the putt.

Guldahl's victory today is his first in major competition as a professional. Born in Dallas, Tex., he first rose to golfing fame there as one of the best amateurs in the state. He made his professional debut in the San Antonio open of 1930, in which he won $87.50. Since then he has been a threat in several of the more important money events, his best approach being the 1933 national, when he failed to sink the four-footer that would have tied him with John Goodman. COLLEGE TENNIS SINGLES START TODAY AT N. U.

First round matches in the fifty-second annual national intercollegiate tennis championship will get under way at 10 o'clock this morning on the Northwestern university courts in Evanston. Eighty-two players, representing thirty-five schools, are entered in the tournament, which will continue all week. Today's play will be singles only.

The first round of the doubles will start tomorrow and for the remainder of the week both singles and doubles will run concurrently with the finals in both scheduled for Sunday afternoon.

Last Look at Players.

The field is one of the most representative in the history of the tournament, with nearly every college conference in the country entering its champions. As a consequence the fight for the singles title is wide open, made more so by the fact that both Wilbur Hess of Rice, last year's champion, and Leonard Patterson of California Tech, runnerup, have both graduated.

Dick Bennett and Paul Newton of the University of California, last year's doubles champions, will defend their title. They hold the Pacific Coast conference championship in doubles.

Sutter Seeded No. 1.

No. 1 seeded player is Ernest Sutter of Tulane, whose brother, Cliff, won the title in 1932. Ernest was a semi-finalist last year, as was Russell Ball of Northwestern, who is seeded third. George Ball, a brother of Russell, quarter-finalists in '35, is seeded sixth.

Other seeded players are Paul Guibord, Dartmouth; Charles Carr, Southern California; Richard Bennett, California; Ben Dey, Stanford; Ralph Minnich, Princeton, and Norman Bickel, Chicago. The latter is the Big Ten singles champion.

POLICE NAME BATTERIES FOR BENEFIT SERIES

Batteries of the north and south section teams which will play for the baseball championship of the Chicago police department in the annual benefit police field meet at Wrigley field July 4 and 5 and Comiskey park July 12 were announced yesterday. Capt. Harry J. O'Connell, head of the north siders, named Mike Delaney as his starting pitcher and Dick Stallman the catcher. Capt. Eugene Barry, captain of the rival organization, will rely on three pitchers, Roy Gutcher, Bill Tafel, and Charley Lyons. Johnny Carroll and Frank Colgraf will catch.

SOFTBALL LEAGUE PLAYS.

The Division Chevrolets will play the Montgomery Vee Eights in the Windy Softball league tonight at Wellington and Ashland avenues. The Judge Lupes will play the Horner Boosters. 9:30, Division Chevrolets vs. Montgomery Vee Eights.

COLLEGE STARS OPEN NATIONAL GOLF MEET TODAY

Field of 118 from 33 Schools Start Play.

A crack field of 118 college golfers, including some of the nation's outstanding amateur stars, will tee off this morning at the North Shore Golf club in the 38th annual national intercollegiate golf tournament.

Thirty-three institutions are represented in the record field. Seventeen schools have entered full teams that will seek the team title held for the last two years by Michigan. Each of the 118 entries will be a candidate for the individual championship won last year by Ed White of the University of Texas, who has graduated from the college ranks.

Opens with Team Play.

The team championship will be decided through 36 holes of medal play, the first round of which will be played today and the second tomorrow. The total scores of the four low players of each school will constitute the team standings. Match play for the individual championship will begin Wednesday with two 18 hole rounds, followed by 36 hole matches on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

Capt. Chuck Kocsis of Michigan is the favorite to romp off with the individual title by virtue of brilliant performances this spring, which include winning his second Big Ten championship and finishing as low amateur in the recent national open at Baltusrol.

Turnesa a Threat.

There are others in the field, however, who merit championship consideration along with the Wolverine ace. They include Willie Turnesa of Holy Cross, a member of a famous golfing family, and Freddie Haas of Louisiana State, a finalist last year.

COCHRANE WILL RECUPERATE ON RANCH IN WEST

Detroit, Mich., June 21.—(AP)—Manager Mickey Cochrane, of the Detroit Tigers, left by airplane today for two or three weeks of hunting and fishing on a ranch near Cody, Wyo.

Cochrane was discharged yesterday from Henry Ford hospital, where he had been a patient for ten days. He gained seven pounds and was much improved, but Dr. Roy D. McClure advised him not to resume his managerial duties until July 15.

Oak Brook Poloists Beat Black Horse Troop, 9 to 7

Oak Brook defeated the Black Horse polo team, 9 to 7, in the deciding game of a three game series yesterday at Oak Brook. Capt. M. M. Corpening of the winning team and Capt. Paul Butler of the Troopers were tied with three goals each.

ITALIAN BONDS SOAR; ENDING OF SANCTIONS SEEN

Week Also Brings Rise in Secondary Rails.

New York, June 21.—(AP)—Demand for Italian loans, sudden and swift, brought spectacular gains to this sector of the bond market last week. Buying was stimulated by the possibility that sanctions against Italy might shortly be scrapped, leaving that country in better condition to rehabilitate confidence in its credit, which had been badly shaken by the military venture into Ethiopia.

On the upsurge late in the week loans of the Italian government, municipalities, and corporations gained as much as 5 or 6 points or so.

Second Grade Rail Bonds Rise.

In the domestic corporate section rail liens, mostly in the medium and low price brackets, managed the best gains. Two factors provided background for the advance of the carriers—statements of early reporting systems showing sharp May income gains over a year ago and the long term outlook for freight trafic.

Industrials and utilities were targets for random buyers, but activity in these groups was restricted. U. S. governments were quiet and under pressure at times.

Money Rates Still Easy.

The week saw a huge slash in excess reserves of federal reserve banks as bonus payments went out, down $910,000,000 to $2,040,000,000. But despite the drop the money market was as easy as ever.

Investment circles, stressing the selectivity of the bond market, cited the postponement of various expected new offerings for several weeks. Consensus in banking quarters was that there was still a good demand for high priced loans, with other offerings moving somewhat slowly into the hands of investors.

1937 CONVENTION OF CANNERS TO BE HELD IN CHICAGO

Chicago will be host to the National Canners' association and allied groups Jan. 24 to 29, 1937. An executive conference of the trade organization, meeting in Washington late yesterday, awarded the annual convention, one of the richest plums in America's annual convention crop, to this city. Next year's gathering will be the thirtieth in the organization's history and the tenth year hand running that it has met here. Headquarters will be at the Stevens hotel.

Precedent calls for 20,000 delegates with a million dollars or more expense money. National Canner officers were influenced in their decision by the knowledge that Chicago is the only city in the country capable of properly housing all of the food association members and their million dollar exhibits under one roof.

New York Reports Price of Potatoes Continues High

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Potato prices continue "extremely high," according to the weekly survey of the city's consumers' food guide of the department of public markets, despite recent crop saving rains. The figures quoted are 27 cents for five pounds of old potatoes, as against 9 cents for the same period last year, and 25 cents for five pounds of new potatoes as against 12 cents. Other vegetables, the list indicates, compare favorably with the 1935 prices.

SOARING WHEAT PRICES RECALL BULL MARKETS

Buying Wave Caused by Drouth Damage.

Bull markets reminiscent of the 1933 "Crawford" boom returned to the Chicago Board of Trade last week. Speculators, suddenly realizing the sensational damage which the American spring wheat crop has incurred, went on a buying spree which lifted wheat prices approximately 9 cents a bushel for the week and carried most deliveries to new highs for the year. Trading was fast and furious, particularly on Friday and Saturday, and volume broadened to largest total in many months.

The astonishingly quick change in spring wheat prospects as the result of dry weather and high temperatures fired the imagination of speculators. Reports from leading crop experts conceded the situation is serious. The department of agriculture broke precedent Friday by issuing a special statement saying the condition of spring crops in the northwest was "critical."

Rains Are Needed Soon.

All agreed that unless general rains are received soon and normal growing weather continues, those sections of the northwest which have not suffered greatly thus far will soon feel the effects of damage.

The most significant factor of the present situation is that the crop collapse has occurred in June, when spring wheat prospects normally are at their best. Damage suffered this month leaves the crop in poor shape to withstand the usual hazards of blight, rust and heat in the critical July-August period.

The seriousness of the situation was emphasized at Minneapolis, where cash wheat sold at high premiums over futures and near a level where imports from Canada could be made at a profit. This import threat tempered price advances early in the week, although the fears seemingly evaporated in the fever of speculation as the week ended.

Prices Rise at Kansas City.

At Kansas City wheat futures moved ahead with other markets in the belief that demand for hard winter wheat will be heavier because of losses suffered in spring grades. The upturn was made in the face of favorable reports concerning the winter wheat crop and an increasing movement of new wheat to market, with its attendant hedging pressure.

Severe curtailment of domestic spring wheat prospects emphasized that this country's supplies of wheat going into the new crop year on July 1 promise to be exceptionally light. Trade estimates place the United States visible supply on that date at not more than 20 million bushels.

Some trade specialists believe domestic spring wheat advices have been so bullish that relatively scant attention is being accorded the possibility of big hedging sales against the winter wheat crop.

See Need for Winter Wheat.

Other pit experts contend that with domestic spring wheat a virtual failure there will be a brisk demand for the winter wheat of Nebraska and the southwest. It is especially stressed that the hard winter crop, taken as a whole, gives assurance of excellent quality.

The menace of dry weather has put backbone into the corn market and has been indirectly strengthening oats prices. Drouth conditions in the northwest have also accentuated the winter killing losses of rye.

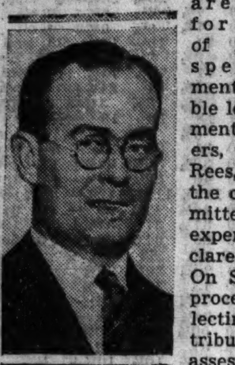
NEW YORK PORT AUTHORITY HAS GAIN IN EARNINGS

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—A gain of 60 per cent in net income for May was reported today by the port of New York authority. The gross increase was almost 17 per cent. For the year ended May 31 the net gain was 22.5 per cent and the gross 7.5 per cent.

Each project under jurisdiction of the authority, it was said, showed appreciable increases for last month over May, 1935. The list includes the Holland tunnel, the Bayonne, George Washington, and Goethals bridges, the outer bridge crossing, and the Port Authority Commerce building, 111 8th avenue.

Gross income from all sources in May totaled $1,176,708, almost $170,000 more than in the preceding May. The net aggregate was $439,350 as against $268,369.

Rees Assails County, City Bookkeeping



JOHN O. REES.

Antiquated and slipshod methods of bookkeeping in county and city offices are responsible for co-mingling of funds from special assessments and possible loss to assessment bondholders, John O. Rees, director of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, declared yesterday. On Saturday the procedure of collecting and distributing special assessment funds came under fire in the Superior court and the federal district court here.

"A well functioning bookkeeping system would eliminate all complaints against the handling of special assessments," Rees said. "There is no use passing statutes to eliminate improper practices in assessments. All the laws in the world won't do any good if the bookkeeping isn't modern and accurate."

Found Guilty of Contempt.

Judge Daniel P. Trude of the Circuit court entered an order Saturday finding County Treasurer Joseph L. Gill and Thomas D. Nash, former treasurer, guilty of contempt for failure to turn over $11,550 in special assessment funds to the village of Broadview.

Gill and Nash were sentenced to the county jail, but are at liberty on a stay of mittimus issued by Judge Trude allowing them until July 15 to seek an appropriation from the county board to cover the amount. The original judgment for $11,000 in special assessment funds and $550 in general tax money was obtained against the late Joseph B. McDonough when he was county treasurer two years ago. At that time the court held the treasurer illegally withheld the money from the village.

Attorney Guy C. Guerine, attorney for the village of Broadview, declared that the treasurer mixed the money with other funds and did not place it to Broadview's credit.

Ask an Accounting.

In the federal court on Saturday the Chase National bank of New York and Maurice H. Ewer of Montclair, N. J., holders of $700,000 of special assessment bonds issued by the city of Chicago, filed suit against the city asking an accounting and questioning the manner in which the city has been retiring the bonds. The bill alleged that the city retired the bonds in numerical order instead of on a pro rata basis and that city officials have diverted the collected assessment funds to pay other obligations.

Attorneys for the plaintifs in the two suits and Rees said that public officials must recognize the fact that such funds must be regarded as trust funds marked for a particular purpose—retirement of bonds—and not as public money to be distributed as the officials see fit.

STOCKS CLIMB TO NEW HIGHS IN LIGHT TRADE

Little Speculation During Week.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—A steady if unspectacular rise took place in stocks last week, sufficing to send many issues soaring to new highs for the current advance and to push a few to new record figures for the year.

One of the most notable developments of the week, in the opinion of traders, was the breaking through to a new high in the average for fifty representative stocks. On Tuesday the figure reached 126.13 and on Thursday it was prodded to 126.93—the peak figures of the week. The averages had declined 14 points between April 6—when the old high of 126.00 was recorded — and April 30, and have subsequently recovered 14⅞ points.

Absence of Speculation.

According to close students of market trends, the essential fact in the recovery from the springtime setback has been the absence of active speculation. It was pointed out in this connection that excited buying has been completely absent from the market picture.

During the week brokers reported that secondary stocks, which have been lagging in the present market, were taking on a better tone. This was regarded in financial circles as an important contribution to the upward movement, since most of the secondary stocks are said to be mainly in the restricted accounts of those that cannot make additional purchases until their equity has increased, under the federal reserve board's margin rule. Thus far the leaders in the gradual rise since the beginning of May have been the first grade investment issues.

Traders on Sidelines.

While the advance was of a consistent character, the volume of business showed a tendency to contract, with total sales for the week amounting to 5,147,356 shares. Traders appeared to prefer positions on the sidelines to active participation in the market pending the outcome of the federal tax bill, passage of which on Saturday came after the market's close, and the clarification of events abroad. Another unfavorable development, to which was partly attributed the cautiousness of traders, was the threat of labor trouble, especially in the steel industry.

Favorable news, however, judged by the action of the list, entirely offset the unfavorable. The operating rate of the steel industry showed an increase.

A Technical Setback.

The advance in stocks throughout the week was broken only by a slight setback on Friday. For technical reasons alone, the decline seemed overdue to brokers, it being pointed out that the market had advanced for five consecutive sessions and for eleven of the last twelve sessions. On Saturday the list again pointed upward, with steel issues and motor shares taking the spotlight in extremely dull trading.

Few leading companies are among those listed to take dividend action during the week, yet some interesting meetings are scheduled. Wilson, for instance, is slated to act Tuesday and the fate of the dividend seems to be questioned by the stock's action recently. Other companies scheduled to meet include International Printing Ink, United Gas, Warren Foundry, Alaska Juneau, National Distillers, Corn Products, and Southern California Edison.

CONSOLIDATION OF N. Y. TRANSIT LINES SEEN NEAR

New York, June 21.—(AP)—A nine year dream of unification of New York rapid transit lines into one city owned system came a step nearer realization tonight with announcement that a detailed agreement on a definite plan was ready for presentation to the transit commission.

Samuel Seabury, special counsel for the city named to facilitate agreement, said a scheme to purchase the Interborough Rapid Transit and Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit companies for $436,157,220 would be presented tomorrow. These properties would be unified with the municipal independent subway system.

GREAT NORTHERN BOND OFFERING IS DUE TODAY

Public offering will be made today by Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc.; Graham, Parsons & Co., and Dick & Merle-Smith of an issue of $4,935,000 of Great Northern Railway company secured 4 per cent serial bonds, due semi-annually, on Oct. 1, 1936, to April 1, 1944, inclusive. The bonds are priced to yield from 0.35 to 3.25 per cent, according to maturity. They are not redeemable prior to maturity.

Proceeds from the sale of these bonds, together with proceeds from the sale of $850,000 of collateral notes which were paid on Feb. 14, 1936, were applied toward laying 20,000 tons [113 miles] of new rail and fastenings, to bank widening and ballasting, the installation of ties, to classified repairs to locomotives, to rebuilding of freight equipment, and general improvement to passenger equipment.

The bonds, which constitute the entire amount outstanding of an issue limited to $4,935,000, are direct obligations of the Great Northern and are secured by deposit with the trustees of $7,000,000 of the company's general mortgage 6s, series F, due on July 1, 1953. Issuance of the 4s has been authorized by the interstate commerce commission.

CHICAGO TRADE HOLDS ON EVEN KEEL; STEEL AND BUILDING BETTER

Aside from steel mills hitting 71 per cent of capacity, observers found nothing spectacular about Chicago's business and industry last week.

Continuation of the upward trend in suburban building was accomplished, with almost all of the new structures in the higher price brackets. In several nearby communities building permits and operations are recording eight and nine year peaks.

Wholesale and retail trade stayed in a rut. Vacation wares and athletic equipment were in satisfactory demand.

RESERVE BANKS HOLD 12½ BILLION OF U.S. SECURITIES

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Direct and fully guaranteed United States government securities held by member banks of the federal reserve on March 4, last, amounted to $12,444,122,000 par value, or 69 per cent of the total investment portfolios of these institutions, according to the monthly summary prepared by Charles E. Quincey & Co.

Compared with $5,627,854,000 of similar obligations held by these banks on June 30, 1932, representing 48 per cent of their investments, the total for March 4, last, indicates a gain of 121 per cent in slightly less than four years, it was shown.

The firm attributed the increase to [1] the increased amount of federal securities necessary to finance the government deficit; [2] the bankers' tendency to increase earning assets; [3] the relative decrease in municipal and corporate security flotations, and [4] the retirement of corporate securities and the less desirable features of many recent corporate issues.

Nat. Builders to Retire Half of Preferred

The National Builders Bank of Chicago announced last night that it will shortly retire $125,000, or one-half, of its preferred stock, all of which is held by the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The RFC bought $250,000 of the bank's preferred stock on June 30, 1934. At the time the preferred stock is retired, a stock dividend of 50 per cent will be paid to the common stock holders.

"This action has received the approval of the controler of the currency, and it may be confidently predicted that at the time of the controler's next call, which will probably be made about June 30, the bank's figures will reflect a material increase in the book value of its common stock," the bank's announcement said.

Plan for Stock.

"In order to avoid the issuance of unmanageable fractional shares, the stockholders provided at their annual meeting last January that any common stock dividends declared in connection with the retirement of the bank's outstanding preferred stock would be turned over to trustees for the benefit of the shareholders, and it is expected that this plan will be followed until the entire issue of preferred has been paid off.

"Hereafter, every two shares of National Builders Bank of Chicago stock will carry with them full rights of one additional share."

Price of Stock.

Common stock of the bank, which has a par value of $50, was quoted on Saturday at $45 bid and $50 asked. A week prior to that it was quoted at $40 bid and $45 asked. No dividend is paid on the common stock.

Walker G. McLaury is president of the bank which received its charter as a national bank on Nov. 29, 1927. The National Builders bank is located in the Builders building at the southwest corner of La Salle street and Wacker drive.

Pew and Hall to Represent Oil Group at Power Parley

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—J. Edgar Pew of Philadelphia and Edwin S. Hall of New York have been appointed by Axtell J. Byles, president of the American Petroleum institute, as delegates to represent the institute at the world power conference to be held in Washington from Sept. 7 to 12. Production and distribution of petroleum and its products will be among the subjects discussed.

STEEL OUTPUT EQUALS HIGHEST LEVEL OF YEAR

Rate Again Reaches 70½% of Capacity.

Steel works operations last week equaled the highest mark of this year, advancing 2½ points to 70½ per cent of plant capacity, the magazine Steel said yesterday. Strong demand was largely responsible for the boost in operations, according to Steel.

With rising backlogs promising to keep steel makers busy at a high rate well into July, some producers are unwilling to take more tonnage at current prices, while others indicate they will accept orders up to July 1, the magazine said.

Leading producers are four to six weeks behind deliveries, some having difficulty obtaining sufficient semi-finished steel, and practically all are noting strong pressure for shipments, especially sheets, the journal stated.

Tin Plate Mills at Capacity.

Operations in tin plate were at capacity for the sixth consecutive week and some observers held the opinion, according to Steel, that production for the first six months of this year would be at least 15 per cent ahead of the same period of 1935 and a few expected operations to be maintained at a high rate well into September.

Pig Iron Shipments Maintained.

Pig iron shipments were well maintained, with booking so far this month three times as heavy as during the corresponding period prior to the second quarter, the journal said.

Pittsburgh operations were up 2 points to 67 per cent; Wheeling, up 3 points to 71 per cent; Chicago, up 2 points to 71 per cent; eastern Pennsylvania, up 1 point to 45½ per cent; Youngstown, up 2 points to 78 per cent; New England, up 5 points to 83 per cent; Birmingham was down 14½ points to 54½ per cent, and Cincinnati was off 4 points to 76 per cent. Other districts were unchanged.

He valued his estate at six figures

...yet there was danger that the provisions for his family would be inadequate

Cases like this emphasize the value of a Northern Trust Estate Plan in gauging the true effectiveness of estate arrangements.

MANY factors can work at cross-purposes to a man's wishes for his family. There is the need for adjusting the intended outright bequests... the need for satisfying death duties in cash...the shifting of security values . . . the burden of unpredictable taxes. They all make their impact felt on an estate. They all urge the wisdom of applying to your arrangements the advantages of a Northern Trust Estate Plan.

The steps which lead to a Northern Trust Estate Plan give a true estimate of the effectiveness of estate arrangements . . . warn of weak spots and suggest improvements.

The men who develop such plans are officers of The Northern Trust Company, which has behind it 46 years of executor-trusteeship experience. They first analyze estate holdings, the needs of beneficiaries, and the owner's wishes.

They seek ways to coordinate all assets into a single plan for greater economy, and to meet the probate and administrative expenses and the taxes which will be levied at transfer.

You and your attorney are invited to have a Northern Trust Estate Plan developed for you, without cost or obligation. Our interesting booklet, "An Example of Estate Analysis" is available upon request. It deals with the advantages of four important methods of transferring an estate.

URGE ROADS USE CONTAINERS TO CARRY FREIGHT

Chicago Interests Pioneer New Development.

Most of the research work to develop a suitable freight container has been done in Chicago and vicinity, the Illinois Manufacturers' association pointed out in a statement issued yesterday.

The use of freight containers for handling thousands of products that now are handled individually is pointed to by many shipping interests as a means of economy in transporting goods. Former Coördinator of Transportation Joseph B. Eastman last week recommended the use of such containers, which could be shifted from motor truck to railroad car and thus eliminate unnecessary handling.

Two Firms Develop Containers.

George R. Meyercord, inventor of the container and president of the Haskelite company, Chicago, has been working with the International Harvester company, which developed a special truck, and the Mount Vernon Car Manufacturing company, Mount Vernon, Ill., which has manufactured the test containers and is prepared to produce them in large quantities as soon as the way is cleared for their use.

The present freight rate structure is the principal barrier to adoption of these containers, Meyercord said yesterday. The rates must be equalized so that a broader group of items can be used in the containers, he pointed out.

Urges Action on Rates.

"With the termination of Eastman's office, it is now up to the railroads to do something about the freight rate structure," Meyercord said.

The Haskelite company produces the compounded lumber of which these containers are made, being welded together in large pieces through an electrical process. The containers are of steel and this special plywood, and are equipped with large double doors at the ends. They are ordinarily constructed so that five of the units can be loaded on each railroad car. They are weathertight and dust proof.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Investors' Guide: I have about $300 to invest and had Sears, Roebuck stock in mind. How does it rate?—Mrs. A. P.

Answer: Incorporated in 1895, Sears, Roebuck & Co. grew to be the largest mail order house in the world. Ten years ago the company entered the retail store field and its more than 400 stores now account for half of the business.

The store expansion program has had two major objectives—to obtain trade of city residents and to retain patronage of the farmer whose access to city stores has been tremendously improved by the automobile and good roads.

Sears' favorable contract with Goodyear, through which it has built up a large automobile tire business, was hit by a federal trade commission order on March 5, 1936, but Gen. R. E. Wood, president of Sears, said the company expects no ill effects.

The company also has entered the insurance field through wholly owned subsidiaries, and it publishes the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Sears has failed to make a profit in only one of recent years, and during the last two years this and other mail order companies have benefited from a period of rising prices.

All-time records have been set this year as sales for the 16 weeks to May 21 climbed to $136,992,000 for an 18.3 gain over the same period in 1935.

	Sales.	Net income.	Net inc. per share.
Jan. 29, 1936	$417,000	$21,519	4.45
Jan. 29, 1935	313,213	15,021	3.13
Jan. 29, 1934	269,378	11,249	2.38
*Jan. 28, 1933	271,089	†2,544	†0.53
Dec. 31, 1931	216,295	12,170	2.47

Working capital was increased $18,567,000 last year, with current assets at $122,740,000 and current liabilities at $36,609,000 on Jan. 29, 1936.

After a three year lapse in dividends, "special" payments of $1.25 were made in 1935 and the stock was placed on a regular $2 annual basis with an initial quarterly payment of 50 cents on Dec. 16, 1935. Up to May 2, 1932, regular dividends of 62½ cents quarterly were paid.

The company has no funded debt or preferred stock and its 4,832,447 no par common shares outstanding are of fairly good grade. On April 27 stockholders authorized issuance of 200,000 additional shares to be sold at $45 a share to employés at the discretion of directors.

CUMMINGS GETS REPORT ON PWA IDENTICAL BIDS

Trade Commission Study Charges Collusion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today referred to Attorney General Cummings "for appropriate action" a report of the federal trade commission that collusive identical bidding has occurred on steel sheet piling for PWA construction projects. Under the defunct NRA the administration forced identical bids on all government contracts.

In its report the commission found that there was "reasonable ground to believe that the anti-trust laws have been violated." The commission recommended reference of the report to the department of justice by the President and also suggested that he recommend to congress enactment of legislation aimed specifically at delivered price systems which frustrate price competition. The anti-trust laws were suspended by the administration during the operation of the NRA.

Identical Bids Found.

The commission investigated identical bidding during August and September of 1935 on the Triborough bridge at New York City, the Deep Sea harbor at Miami, and an ocean terminal at Morehead City, N. C. It found four companies, which produce the bulk of steel piling, had submitted identical bids on each of the three projects.

The companies named are the United States Steel corporation, the Bethlehem Steel corporation, the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation, and the Inland Steel company of Chicago. On June 16 Secretary of the Interior Ickes canceled a contract with the Jones and Laughlin company which is in Pittsburgh, on the ground that it had been found guilty of unfair labor practices by the national labor relations board.

The commission reported that the companies named admitted they quoted identical delivered prices because they were acting pursuant to a resolution of the industry continuing in effect the provisions of its former code with regard to the basing point system of delivered prices and related practices.

"You will note that the federal trade commission definitly finds the existence of collusion," the President wrote Attorney General Cummings. "In accordance with their recommendation, I am referring the whole matter to you for appropriate action.

"Please also note the further recommendations of the committee:

"[a] That the President request all purchasing officials of the federal government to collect and furnish evidence regarding instances where there has been collusive or identical bidding.

Asks Draft of Program.

"[b] That the President give consideration to recommending legislation to the congress to make existing unfair practices unlawful.

"Will you be good enough to prepare for me the necessary letters to purchasing agents to be sent out by me at once, and also prepare a draft of recommendations to the congress at its next session?"

In its report the commission repeatedly stresses the fact that the practice of the companies in submitting identical bids, although the companies argued that they were merely following the code, once the law for their industry, is stifling competition.

In the days of the NRA identical bids were submitted invariably, so that the navy department was reduced to awarding contracts by lot.

Yes, you may borrow money at this bank on a recent model of any standard make of car: FORD, PLYMOUTH, CHEVROLET TERRAPLANE, as well as BUICK, CHRYSLER, DODGE, and ALL OTHER STANDARD MAKES.

Yes, the same low rates and liberal terms apply whether the car is new or used. Fire and Theft is all the insurance we require, although we strongly urge that every car owner insure himself against collision hazards. In all cases we want the insurance placed with the borrower's own broker or agent. Premiums may be added to the loan account, the broker is paid in full, and the borrower settles up with us in monthly installments.

These are typical costs and terms:

MURAL DEPICTS THE STRUGGLE FOR FREEDOM OF THE PRESS AND SPEECH—"Freedom of the Press," a mural 16 by 23½ feet, mounted in the east wall of the lobby of the Tribune Tower. Lettered in are famous quotations from these men. The trial of Peter Zenger in New York, in which he was acquitted of perjury, is prominently represented.
